'Father, be thankful'
October 23, 1954

Father has so much to be thankful for. His children pursue a soul-refreshing art. His home is a mecca for young people, so stimulating to have around the house. And now, as he enters the house, after a neurotic day in the office and being rather savage in mood, thankfully he can remind himself that music hath charms to soothe the savage beast. Mother whispers to him, "Cool chamber music, eh? They're all in for dinner, and I fear this may last far into the evening. But Cheerio, Paterfamilias! You can read your paper in the back bedroom and be thankful that I remembered to bring home your earplugs from the beach."

Say, do you think John Falter really understands this cover? Why did he paint father looking unthankful?

Tanner Haberman, the young man from Emerson-Hubbard who a year ago suffered a broken leg that was later diagnosed as a result of bone cancer, returned to Jug Brown Stadium and received a hero's welcome, which included a firm handshake from FCSH Coach Doug Goltz.

Tanner returns to FC to cheer on his little bro

One day shy of a full calendar year to the day, Tanner Haberman made his way back to Falls City and Jug Brown Stadium to cheer on his brother Tyler, when Emerson-Hubbard was matched up against the FC Sacred Heart Irish in the Class D2 State Playoffs last Thursday.

It was on that very turf on Oct. 30, 2014 where Tanner, then a senior at EM, sustained a broken leg that would soon prove to be far more heartbreaking and profound than most anything that ever occurs in football stadiums. The bone broke because it was riddled with cancer, osteosarcoma to be exact. It's the most common type of bone cancer and usually occurs in children and teens. The football injury may have actually been a blessing, as the cancer was detected before it spread to the rest of his body. The leg, however, had to be amputated last winter.

As of last month, Tanner's mother said he was doing well.

"He is getting stronger with each day and gaining weight. He's pretty much got all his hair back and looks like the old Tanner minus the one leg, haha!"

The community had several "Team up to Tackle Cancer" fundraisers to aide in helping Tanner and his family, something the Haberman's have never forgotten. "We realize that it takes a special kind of person to give of themselves the way you all have for us and Tanner," Janelle told The Journal earlier this year.

Verdon man, 21, faces prison term after jury returns trio of guilty verdicts stemming from June 2013 collision

A Richardson County jury last Thursday evening in District Court found a 21-year-old Verdon man guilty of three Class II Felonies stemming from a June 26, 2013 vehicle collision in Falls City and, pending appeal, he will be sentenced to a minimum term of one year in the Nebraska Dept. of Corrections.

The trial of Phillip A. Doerr began with jury selection last Monday and lawyers made closing arguments late Thursday afternoon. After deliberating for about three hours, the jury of 12 returned guilty verdicts of assault in the first degree, use of a deadly weapon to commit a felony and possession of a firearm during commission of a felony. By state law, conviction of a Class II Felony is punishable by a minimum of one year and up to 50 years in an institution "under the jurisdiction of the Dept. of Correctional Services" and the person convicted is not eligible for probation. Even if Judge Daniel Bryan sentences three concurrent minimum terms, with "good time," which essentially credits two days for each one served, Doerr faces at least six months in prison. He remains free on bond until sentencing, which is expected to be scheduled Dec. 8 or 15.

The verdict comes more than two years after the two-pickup truck collision authorities and prosecutors described as "road rage," and not yet a calendar year after the 21-year-old, who operates a local contracting business and also performs tree and snow removal, was tried in a day — and acquitted in an hour — by a jury on two other Class II Felonies in an unrelated case. Greg Ariza, of the Nebraska Attorney General's Office, served as special prosecutor in both cases. Doerr last week was represented by prominent Nebraska attorney Clarence E. Mock of the Johnson & Mock firm, which has offices in Omaha and Oakland, NE.

Authorities accused, and Ariza successfully argued with help of eyewitness testimony, photographs and investigation by local police, and expert witness and forensic testimony acquired from a crash reconstruction conducted by the State Patrol, that Doerr "intentionally" crashed his Ford F-350 super duty pickup into the back of a compact, Chevy S10 truck driven by Timothy L. Wittwer, 36, of Falls City, at a speed of up to 55 miles per hour. Authorities say an altercation ensued and Doerr was in possession of a gun. His defense team argued that the collision was an accident, there was not sufficient evidence to prove otherwise and since no crime

'Local Color' opening Friday at FC Library & Arts Center

Local artists Patricia Steinman and Cheryl "Tootie" Ebel will open their exhibit "Local Color" in the Stalder Gallery, inside the FC Library and Arts Center this Friday, Nov. 6. Richardson County Arts and Humanities Council will host a reception for the artists beginning at 6 p.m. and the artists will talk at 7.

Cheryl "Tootie" Ebel has been interested in art since childhood. In the early 70's she opened Tootie's Craft Barn and enjoyed selling craft supplies, and teaching classes. About 10 years later, Tooties Art and Frames arrived. She concentrated on art supplies and custom picture framing sales, and classes. Now Tootie is enjoying semi-retirement and still teaching art workshops in watercolor, oil, and pastels. Her current art reflects interest in impressionism and color.

Retirement has afforded Patricia Steinman the time to spend painting. The former Falls City High School art instructor finds inspiration in local settings and from her cabin. Her husband, John, takes many of the photos she uses for her paintings. Besides her paintings, Mrs. Steinman also create pine needle baskets that will also be on display.

The event is open to the public and supported by the Richardson County Arts and Humanities Council. Both artist will work for sale through the Stalder Gallery. The exhibit will be on view through Dec. 31.

Questions can be directed to Christina Wertenberger, Stalder Gallery Curator, at 402-245-6034.

Vet's Day activities planned for Nov. 11

A grateful, day-long salute to this area's veterans will be made with a full schedule of activities on Veterans Day, Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Highlights of the day will be a talk by Air Force Veteran Ken Simpson, Commander of American Legion Post 102 and co-chair of the Veteran's Day Committee. He will speak at the 11 a.m. Wednesday program at Falls City High School. The Veteran's Parade will start at 1:30 p.m. and follow Stone Street, from 20th to 13th and conclude with a reception at ShopKo. The dinner and program will begin at 6 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church.

Record-Breaking Rusher

FCHS junior back Zayne Heckenlively struggled to find running room in the Tigers' loss at Norfolk Catholic, but it didn't prevent him from turning in the most prolific season carrying the leather in school history. Heckenlively rushed for 1,501 yards, breaking Cameron McNabb's 25-year-old school record by four yards. Heckenlively joins McNabb, Cord Huettner, Dan Werner, Dakota Schulenberg and Bruce Smith in the school's 1,000-yard club. He needs about half that total next year to set the all-time FC High career rushing record.

Now what? This is the major question floating around the McKim household today, now what? What on earth are we supposed to do? We waited so long for this moment, Brian waited 30 years, I waited about 10 years and Alex, well he’s waited for that moment his entire life. The moment WE won the World Series. I say we because we all feel like we contributed in some way, right? You feel like you won it too, don’t lie.

Sunday night the moment we waited so long for finally came. I don’t know what I expected of it. I think deep down I imagined fireworks, rainbows, world peace and a personal call from Alex Rios, thanking me for my continued devotion to him, even when others weren’t on his side (by the way, your welcome Rios!). What actually happened was better in many ways but not as full filling as I had imagined.

Sunday was spent cleaning the house and taking a much needed nap. As a Royals fan, you never know how long a game will go. Brian and I prepared by getting in a couple hours of sleep before the game. After our rest, we buzzed around the house cleaning everything. I guess we had to have the house in perfect condition so we could destroy it later. Chelsie came by and we all gathered around the television. The Met’s seemed to be putting us in our place and knocked the steam right out of Chelise and I. We sort of slumped over a little disappointed that tonight wouldn’t be the night. We both knew the odds of us coming back would be pretty good but the feeling just wasn’t there-yet. We had made peace with our situation and were ready to become World Champions on Tuesday. I thought Tuesday worked better because the paper would be put to bed for the week and we could really celebrate. Brian on the other hand was 100% certain that it was our night. He was all over the place pacing, yelling and turning all kinds of shades of red. He was an emotional time bomb with a short fuse.

Then came the Royals magic we all know and love. Soon we were in extra innings, then we were an out away from everything finally falling into place. Alex ran to the refrigerator to pull out the four tiny bottles of champagne we bought for last year’s Fall Classic. I pulled out the confetti cannon, poppers and fireworks that we had also saved from last year. We waited what felt like an eternity and then it happened. We became World Champions. Brian may have teared up and screamed louder than I had ever hear before. Chelsie and I, somewhat still in disbelief yelled and tossed confetti, all while Alex ran circles around the three of us.

We watched the team storm the field then ran out onto Harlan Street and blew our airhorns. We cheered, we lit fireworks and we ran up the empty street with our flag flying over our heads. It was a good moment and a moment I know Alex will never, ever forget. Falls City seemed so quiet and dark as we had our own little celebration in the street. It was somewhat lonely until we heard fireworks going off in the area of the Nolte home on Barada Street. We cheered, we sprayed our year old (flat) champagne and we laughed.

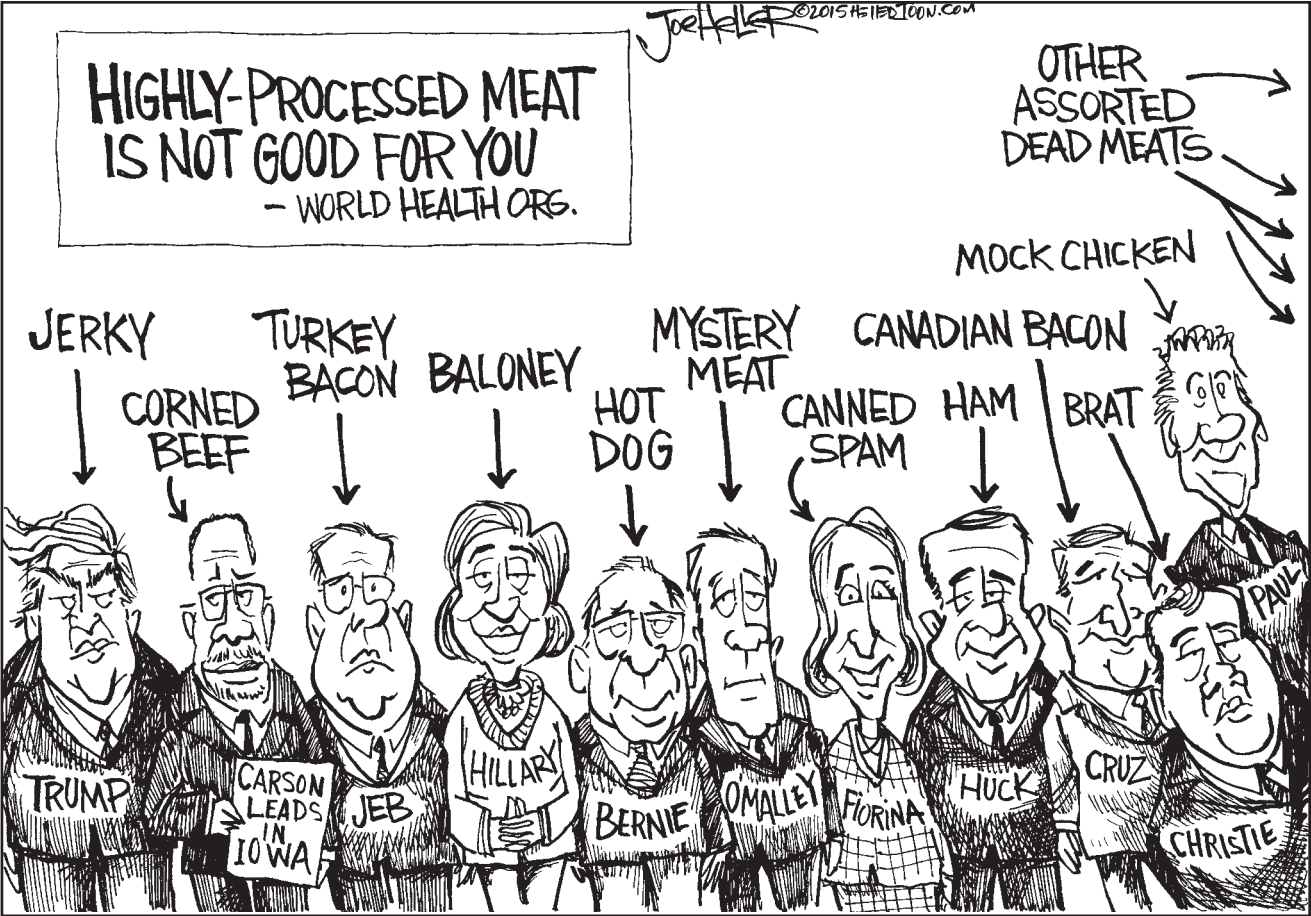

In that moment there was nowhere else I would have rather have been. Brian had sat and patiently fed me the history of the Kansas City Royals for years. He introduced me to Eric Hosmer and Salvador Perez. When we had only enough money for general admission tickets and a tank of gas, he drove me to Omaha and made me watch Alex Gordon and Joba Chamberlain play in the College World Series, because they were going to ‘make it big.’ My very patient and wonderful husband sat and listened to every dumb question and statement I made for many years and tonight was the payoff.

After we calmed down a bit and went back inside to watch the trophy presentation, my phone blew up. Everyone wanted to share their excitement. My grandma was the first to text and I’ll never forget her excitement. I even got texts from numbers I didn’t know, but I went with it and shared in their excitement as well.

After a while Alex was the first to give up and go to bed, Chelsie soon left to go home and then it was just Brian and I. We both sat in quiet shock as we watched interview after interview with our guys in our completely destroyed living room. It looked like a bomb of confetti, champagne and happiness went off, and I don’t plan to clean it up for a while. I honestly didn’t know how to feel after the initial reaction of it wore off. I was a bit numb and sad. What do we have to look forward to now? We have been dreaming of this game, this night for so long and now it was over. What are we going to do every single night for the next few months? The season, while it lasted much longer than it normally does, is over. No more nightly games and no more guarantee of seeing Alex Gordon in a Royals jersey. Everything will now start to change. Cueto is more than likely on is way out, Gordo is desperately wanted but not guaranteed as is Zobrist. Our team, who we all love so much, will start to change. They will never be the same group we fell in love with in 2015. I find that incredibly sad.

Hours later, I sat in bed with my puppy Beans sleeping on my lap. Brian had fallen asleep and the only company I had was Joel Goldberg and Rex Hudler. These guys had kept me company plenty of times this year but I caught myself grinning as I listened to their excitement. Hud, baseball in hand was like a little kid at Christmas. I was happy for him, for all of them and I didn’t want it to end. The sun would be coming up soon and the busiest day of the week was directly ahead of me. My eyes got heavier and I fought as hard as I could to make this day last. Finally a few hours before I was to get up and head to work, I surrendered and fell asleep. The day we won the World Series was now in the past. No more grasping at it daily, and talking about the “what if’s?” Now all we have is memories of that day we waited so long for. I really hate that it’s over but I am so extremely thrilled that it happened.

We were a part of it and it was good but, now what?

Working together to ensure a future for rural Nebraska

Capitol View
By J.L. Schmidt
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

As a youngster I remember trips to Colorado to visit relatives in Greeley. We always drove through Nunn, Colorado, and would comment on the water tower that proudly displayed the slogan “Watch Nunn Grow.”

I recently drove through Nunn, a community of 437 people between Cheyenne and Greeley. The water tower and the slogan are still there. The town looks more like it is holding on than growing. There is a new golf-ball shaped water tower in a housing development a few miles east of town that simply sports the town’s name. It is obvious the town has become a bedroom community based on its proximity to places such as Greeley and even Estes Park.

Small towns. Rural communities struggling to hold their own in a mostly agricultural environment. Not just a Colorado problem, or a Nebraska problem. It’s a national concern. It is not a problem that is solved by finding one more large employer to locate in or nearby the community. Smokestack chasing doesn’t work anymore.

Written plans help, but only if they are implemented. A University of Nebraska officials admits that the past is littered with what he called “the road kill of good ideas” for rural America that never panned out. The good news, says NU vice president for Agriculture and Natural Resources Ronnie Green, is the time is right for a sustained partnership between communities and higher education to address the challenges.

That’s the goal of the Nebraska Rural Futures Institute, which recently completed its annual Conference on the University’s Lincoln Innovation Campus, the former Nebraska State Fairgrounds. The conference theme: Hope Inspires Vision. The opening speakers, Howard G. Buffett and son Howard W. Buffett, co-authors of the book “40 Chances: Finding Hope in a Hungry World.”

Yes, Howard is the son of well-known investment oracle Warren Buffett. They spoke about the importance of rural communities and agricultural security. Howard G. Buffett said he makes $10 million decisions in 30 seconds sometimes. That’s part of the risk of philanthropic work, which he does through the Howard G. Buffett Foundation. Howard W. Buffett lives in Omaha and farms family-owned property near Tekamah. He has worked for his father’s foundation and is a lecturer at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

The two Buffetts have worked in countries with political and economic strife, but Howard W. told conference attendees that while he and his father have spent countless days talking to farmers around the world, he appreciates the sense of community he feels when returning to his own farm. One of the greatest strengths of rural towns is that sense of community. People stepping up and lending a helping hand is a founding principle of the United States.

The Buffetts say that one of their goals has been to develop solutions and empower people to implement long-term solutions, giving them the resources they need to pull the leadership out of them. That’s one of the reasons they support the goals of the Rural Futures Institute, which was established in 2012 to partner with rural communities around Nebraska and beyond to develop ideas that strengthen those communities and provide opportunities for NU students to implement those ideas.

Green says the Rural Futures Institute grew out of an earlier NU effort, the Rural Initiative, which was a good start but not ambitious or sweeping enough. The institute taps into expertise from all four campuses in the NU system. Executive Director Chuck Schroeder says he wants to help Nebraskans rethink and revitalize rural life with the emphasis on making rural communities the kinds of places where young people can build lives.

That, Schroeder says, will take a comprehensive, aggressive effort to find novel solutions. It’s a matter of engaging rural residents who see both opportunities and challenges.

Schroeder says it is important to rethink what it means to live a rural lifestyle. A rural lifestyle should not be a lifestyle of last resort, but the first choice of some of the brightest and best young people who are emerging from universities today.

I like his thoughts. Let’s move beyond slogans on water towers and written plans that have long been gathering dust on the shelves of public officials in every rural community in Nebraska. Let’s work together to ensure a future for rural.

THINKING ABOUT HEALTH

The Cadillac Tax brings more costs, less value to your health insurance

By Trudy Lieberman, Rural Health News Service

More health insurance upheaval is coming your way. The value of your health insurance is shrinking, and you may be paying more for less this year and in years to come.

Perhaps your employer has taken away the choice of plans with large provider networks and instead is offering those with a much narrower selection of doctors and hospitals. Some companies are enticing workers with lower premiums if they leave preferred provider organizations (PPOs), which let them use any provider, and choose health savings accounts. These are tax-advantaged savings arrangements coupled with catastrophic coverage and high deductibles. Others require employees to pay higher premiums for the plans they have.

Blame those changes on the Cadillac tax, a provision in the Affordable Care Act, which calls for a 40 percent excise tax on employer-provided health insurance. Employers pay the tax, but ultimately it's passed on to some 60 million workers who have employer coverage.

The tax will be levied on the portion of health insurance premiums that exceed $10,200 for single and $27,500 for family coverage. Because premiums continue to rise (this year the average family premium from employers is about $17,500), they have a strong incentive to lower the cost of coverage to avoid paying the tax. Many have begun making changes this year, and experts believe there will be more adjustments as 2018 approaches when the tax takes effect.

About four million people and about one-quarter of all employer plans will be touched by the tax the first year. However, Steve Wojcik, vice president of the National Business Group on Health, told me, "It's going to affect almost every plan as the years go on."

Wojcik explained the thresholds for determining the tax are indexed to the Consumer Price Index, but the price of healthcare grows faster than the CPI and will continue to rise. As that happens, more employer plans will bump into those thresholds and trigger the tax.

Why the tax? Framers of the Affordable Care Act, urged on by economists, needed a way to pay for subsidies intended to help the uninsured buy coverage, and they argued the tax could bring in some $150 billion to help the cause.

But there was another reason, too. Supporters of the law and others wanted the tax to deter workers from going to the doctor too much. In other words, make them have "more skin in the game." The thinking goes like this: If they use healthcare services more wisely like saying "no" to your doctor's advice and avoiding care you don't need, the price of medical care in the U.S. will drop.

That, of course, assumes doctors and hospitals won't raise prices. Since there's almost nothing to prevent them from doing that, they could respond by simply offering more services, procedures and tests to keep their incomes up. History has shown they've done that when cost containment measures were imposed.

History has also shown that people do cut back on medical services when they have to pay more. But they often can't discriminate between what care they need and what they don't. The result, of course, is that serious conditions may go untreated.

The tax had another big selling point. MIT economist Jonathan Gruber argued that as the tax began to keep costs down, employers would return the savings to workers in their paychecks. Most of those gains would go to those with incomes under $200,000.

Few people expect those savings to materialize or that employers will share any if they do. Any "theoretical" savings is a "pipe dream," U.S. Rep. Joe Courtney, a Democrat from Connecticut, wrote in a letter to the editor of the New York Times in early October. Who really believes employers are going to give broad wage increases to compensate workers for lower health benefits?

It's not just high-wage workers who will be affected by the tax even though it's thought they are the ones with generous insurance. It will hit middle-income workers, those in unionized industries, government employees and others in manufacturing jobs.

A broad group of employers and unions are fighting to repeal the tax, but say realistically that won't happen until after the presidential election next year if it happens at all.

There's really not much you can do except complain to your elected representatives and try to choose your insurance plan carefully this year. But remember, in order to keep premiums low you'll most likely have to pay higher deductibles and high coinsurance. That's a trade-off everyone faces whether or not there's a Cadillac tax.

What changes do you see in your insurance this year? Write to Trudy at trudy.lieberman@gmail.com

SEZ-I

‘What is Combat?’

I'm not a very political man, but I am a Veteran and I've been in combat and know what it is. Apparently the leaders of our present administration, including some ex-veterans themselves either don't understand what combat is; choose to ignore it; or have decided to forget what it was when they once served. Regardless of their statements to the American public through the media and in front of the podium, I am extremely concerned by a President and his administration that continues to feed us a cock and bull story about the truth in the Middle East. I am even more concerned by a political party in this country whose principle candidates continue to support this same type of misleading and completely untrue idea that somehow the problems of the Middle East are not a major threat and that the President's policies are working.

The recent death of an American Soldier in support of Iraqi military forces against ISIS forces is a COMBAT death. There is no other way to describe it. It shouldn't matter that he was serving as an advisor. Many of the original Soldiers killed in Vietnam were "advisors" to the South Vietnam Army, but they were American Soldiers and their names on the wall in Washington, DC. Should we now remove their names and say they weren't combat deaths?

ISIS and the other terrorist Islamists groups like Al-Qaida, have declared war on the United States and its people. They have conducted numerous attacks throughout the world, including the US, some large, some small. Most of their targets are civilian, but they are acts of war and terror. We are "fighting" (Combat) a "Global War on Terror" as far as I know. Has that war ended? If an American Soldier therefore, engages in direct fire with an enemy of the United States, i.e. ISIS in this case, the he/she is engaged in combat. So, if it is combat, then if killed, his/her death is a combat death.

For our President, our Administration, our Congress, or any candidate to disavow or disregard the death of any Soldier against the enemies of this country regardless of the circumstances as anything other than a combat death is a travesty and they should be ashamed. This President has disgraced himself multiple times when it comes to his treatment of Veterans, but this is just going too far! Lieutenant Colonel Terrence Flynn US Army, Retired

Stand Up, Speak Out

By Craig R. Christiansen, Executive Director, Nebraska State Education Association

Most communities across the U.S. firmly believe in the high quality of their local school. Ironically, many also doubt the quality of schools in other communities. Can both propositions be true? Can everyone's local school be good, but every other school be deficient? Not hardly. It is one of the many myths that form our national discussion about public education, but it is certainly not the worst. And it is understandable that most people take pride in what is their identity. Friendly rivalry is part of the American culture. The problem is that what is becoming the dominant discussion about education is neither friendly nor rivalry. There are too many self-styled "experts" who continually criticize, attack, and degrade the great success story of American public education.

So, if most people have confidence in their local schools, why aren't there more people who stand up and speak out against these attacks?

What We Value
Public schools build America...and Americans. The public schools of our communities are vitally important to this democracy. We are the world's meeting place of human variation: colors, religions, lifestyles, ethnicities, political thought and social values. The potential for conflict is constant and significant. Against this backdrop of difference, the American public school is the only institution in which children are required to work, talk, play and learn together. The public school is the site that produces Americans. Of all the possible factors that affect education, research has consistently shown that parents regard teachers as the most important factor in good schools. If this is what we value, why do we let the harshest critics of our community schools go unchallenged?

What We Face
What is the most outrageous thing you have heard someone say about the quality of your community's schools or teachers? Did those who hear this attack also hear your response? Too many of our public spaces seem to be filled with only the loudest voices questioning or attacking the very concept of a public school system. But the quiet voices can be as insistent and often, more powerful with their own stories based on reality and experience, instead of rote ideology. Communities face many challenges in supporting — and maintaining — the opportunities of public education for its children. Perhaps the biggest challenge is that citizens often fail in their responsibility to participate in the public discussion — leaving only one perspective, the voice of criticism.

Many well-meaning people believe that "politics" is something to be avoided. Join the real world. America was born and continues in conflict, contest, and public debate. Untruths and misdirection — unchallenged — can become an accepted part of the public narrative.

What We Must Do
How does an ordinary person, not comfortable with conflict and not trained in rhetoric or debate, challenge the outright untruth and deception of many of the most direct attacks on public education?

We all own our experience. We don't need to be debaters or even good speakers. We simply need to tell our story, to share our experience, in a straightforward and truthful way. It doesn't matter when or where. Ideological attacks and mistruths about our schools by anyone, or anywhere, need to be countered. It doesn't have to be confrontive. Simply stand up and speak out: "That is not my experience..." And then tell your story. If you are a community member, tell the ways how public education makes a difference in your community. If you are a teacher, tell your experience in how public education made a difference in the life of a student.

Constant attacks on schools and teachers will win...unless people speak out for our schools. Don't be just a quiet supporter. Take it public. Stand up and speak out for our schools.

Vice brothers honored for military service during family reunion

On Sept. 5, the Vice family Reunion was held. The day started off at the home of Zach and Kathy Vice with the annual go-cart races, with around 20 go-carts participating in the fun. The day continued at the home of Christy Vice Berglund, with approximately 93 family members present with games, food, and music enjoyed by all.

Four out of the six Vice brothers served in the United States Army. A family member thought it would be nice to honor the uncles, as she stated it's not everyday four brothers go to the service and they all return home to their families. Glenn Vice, the oldest of the four, served from April 1943-May 1946 in the Army Air Force WWII, Donald C. Vice, served from April 1944-May 1946 in the Army WWII, Howard Vice served from Nov. 30, 1945-March 1947 in the Army Air Force WWII and Rolland Vice Nov. 1952-Oct.1954 in the Army Korean War. With 250,000 members of our military transitioning back to civilian life each year, veterans are returning to schools, workplaces and neighborhoods across the country to take on important roles as neighbors, co-workers, coaches, teachers, leaders and engaged and active citizens. But their transition doesn't end with the return home. That's when it begins.

Today, empowering organizations including the Institute for Veterans and Military Families, Team Red, White and Blue, Team Rubicon, Hire Heroes USA and Blue Star Families joined Walmart to launch Greenlight A Vet. This is a campaign to help create visible and actionable national support for America's veterans and their families. You interact with them every day at work, at school and in the neighborhood. However, it's hard to show them support or recognize their contributions when, back home and out of uniform, they're more camouflaged than ever.

A green light means go and that's what veterans are known for - their ability to take action quickly no matter the challenge. They demonstrate great leadership skills in any situation and represent the best of America. Their involvement in communities is central to our nation's success.

"The Institute for Veterans and Military Families (IVMF) at Syracuse University is proud to be a part of Walmart's campaign to Greenlight A Vet in support of those who have served in the military and their families," said Dr. Mike Haynie, Executive Director of the IVMF and Vice Chancellor at Syracuse University. "Participating in a national movement, designed to recognize those who have worn our nation's uniform as valued, contributing members of our communities, is our way of encouraging all Americans to meaningfully engage with veterans and their families and by so doing, appreciate them as respected civic assets."

"By uniting behind a visible symbol, we can ignite a national conversation in our communities about opportunity, success and service for veterans as they take off the uniform," said retired Brigadier General Gary Profit, Walmart's senior director of military programs.

All Americans are invited to show support for veterans through a visible symbol. Even if we can't always see our veterans, they should always be able to see our support.

Anyone can Greenlight A Vet: Hire one today. Or help a veteran find a job. Volunteer and serve with veterans groups in your local community. Start a mentor/mentee relationship with a returning veteran. Raise awareness on social media. Or simply signal support by changing your porch light to green. Walmart is committed to greenlighting veterans, including hiring 250,000 veterans by 2020 through its Veterans Welcome Home Commitment. As part of this effort, Walmart proudly greenlighted the company's 100,000th veteran hire this past month.

While a job is a vital piece of transitioning from military to civilian life for a veteran, it also takes a coordinated, multi-sector effort to create healthy transitions to civilian life. Walmart and the Walmart Foundation committed $20 million in grants to organizations that provide veteran job training, education and community-based collaboration. As part of this pledge, the Walmart Foundation provided donations to organizations focused specifically on transitioning veterans: A $500,000 grant to Hire Heroes USA (Hire Heroes) to help increase their capacity. Hire Heroes has built a national reputation of excellence for their success at helping unemployed veterans find jobs.

A $190,000 grant to Blue Star Families for a tech-train-to-hire project that will train military spouses for high demand and high growth careers in technology. This program speaks to the heart of one of the greatest challenges to military life, which is 58 percent unemployment and underemployment among military families.

"Through continued, collaborative work with our nonprofit partners, we greenlight innovative public/private community-based initiatives that address the navigation challenges many of our veterans face when returning to the civilian workforce and their communities," said Kathleen McLaughlin, President of the Walmart Foundation.

"There is no better tribute to our men and women who serve than recognizing the value of their contributions and fully engaging them in our communities and workforce when they return home."

FCAMA Thanksgiving Basket drive

Thanksgiving Baskets to those in need in our community and area will be delivered on the Sunday before Thanksgiving, Nov. 22. This annual event is a joint ministry of the churches of the Falls City area, sponsored by the Falls City Area Ministerial Association, in coordination with SEN-CA. Cash donations are preferred to buy the needed items for the baskets in bulk quantities, but items may be donated as well. Checks can be made to “FCAMA” with the notation “Food,” and can be sent to FCAMA, PO Box 132, Falls City, NE 68355. Donated food may be brought to individual churches to be delivered to St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 16th & Harlan or may be left at St. Thomas from Monday, Nov. 16, through Friday, Nov. 20, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The drop-off point will be inside the southeast door marked for that purpose. Donated items that are past the “sell by” date will not be distributed. Items needed are: canned green beans, canned corn, canned yams or sweet potatoes, mushroom soup, cranberry sauce, instant potatoes, canned fruit, corn muffin mix, macaroni & cheese, and packaged spaghetti. No pie filling please. Volunteers are needed to pack and to deliver the food boxes. The packing will take place in the basement of St. Thomas on Saturday morning, Nov. 21, at 9:30 a.m. The baskets will be delivered following a Community Thanksgiving Service which will take place at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 22, at St. Thomas. Volunteers do not need to attend the Thanksgiving Service, but they need to be in the church basement by 3:00 p.m. A Thanksgiving Basket can be requested by leaving a message, with name address and phone number, on the FCAMA Help Line. 402-245-3235. This is a great opportunity to give your time, energy, and resources to help meet a need that is year-round, but is especially felt at this time of feasting. Remember that Jesus told us, “Whatever you do for the least of these . . . you do for me.” (Matthew 25:40)

Dennis Lock Weds Craig Cullum at Richardson County Courthouse

A “native son” of Falls City wed his partner of six years recently on the west steps of The Richardson County Courthouse. Dennis Lock, son of the late Harold (Harry) Lock and Darlene (Boyer) Lock, married Craig Cullum, son of Roy Cullum, of Ft. Myers, FL, and Penny Landeros, of Enid, OK. The outdoor ceremony was performed by The Honorable Nancy DeKlotz, Justice of the Peace, and was witnessed by approximately thirty guests, including both family and friends. Attending the two grooms were Mr. Cullum’s mother, Penny Landeros, and Mr. Lock’s brother, Bobby of Falls City. Ringbearers were Mr. Cullum’s niece, Ava Booker, of Enid, OK and Mr. Lock’s great niece, Grace Fritz, of Papillion. A post ceremony celebration was hosted by Bobby and Marilyn Lock at their home. Guests wined, dined and mingled amidst colorful fall decorations in the garden and on the tables, courtesy of Marilyn and several “helpers”. Mr. Lock and Mr. Cullum returned to Florida after achieving their goal of obtaining the first same-sex marriage license to be issued in Richardson County.

Falls City High School senior Jeremy Waggoner toughs out a handful of his 38 rushing yards, helped along by a wicked block by senior Brady Rose, last Friday afternoon in the Tigers' 42-0 road loss to top-ranked Norfolk Catholic in the first round of the Class C1 playoffs. It was the second year in a row that FCHS, which finished 7-3 and qualified for the playoffs for a fourth consecutive year under Coach Darin Fritz, saw a successful season end in Norfolk to the mighty Knights. Norfolk Catholic, now a perfect 10-0, has qualified for postseason play 27 years in a row and this fall is aiming to capture a 10th state championship, to go with five runner-up finishes. Catholic hosts 8-2 Wahoo Bishop Neumann this Friday. The Tigers were beaten by a trio of state playoff teams in 2015: 8-2 Ashland-Greenwood, a 42-14 winner over 7-2 Chase County, and 6-4 Syracuse, which nearly upset third-seeded and unbeaten Boys Town in a 14-13 loss. Ashland travels to top-seeded Columbus Scotus Friday.

Watching the Norfolk Catholic defensive front on film led four-year Falls City Coach Darin Fritz to believe the Knights would making moving the ball difficult.

Turns out, it was nearly impossible as Norfolk Catholic's top unit limited the Tigers to 20 yards of offense in the first half of a 42-0 win in the first round of the Class C1 playoffs at Veterans Memorial Park.

"We were right, they're good. They're really good," Fritz said. "We played (two-time defending runner-up) Ashland-Greenwood earlier in the season and got beat, but we could run against them. These guys, front to back, they're just pretty darn good."

Norfolk Catholic improved to a perfect 10-0 on the season and is the pick to take the school's 10th state championship later this month. The Knights Friday host 8-2 Bishop Neumann, a team they defeated 30-23 Sept. 11 in what turned out to be their most difficult game of the year. The program is competing in the playoffs for the 27th consecutive year, dating back to 1987, and has advanced to the state finals a tremendous 15 times. FCHS qualified for the fourth straight year — all obviously under Fritz — and ninth time in school history.

The Knights didn't surrender as much as a first down until the 3:22 mark of the first half while stopping Falls City at or behind the line of scrimmage on 13 of its first 20 plays. Aaron Hoff had a hand in on five stops behind the line of scrimmage, Paul Uhlir made four stops for losses and Drew Leise was in on three negative plays as the Knights forced the Tigers to punt 11 times.

Already ahead 35-0 in the second quarter, a blocked punt by Uhlir set up a 6-yard touchdown run by Dylan Kautz that gave Norfolk Catholic a 42-0 halftime lead.

"I thought we really played good defense the entire game. Our front eight didn't give anything up. They got maybe one first down the entire first half, so I don't think we can play any better on that side of the ball," NC coach Jeff Bellar said.

FCHS junior Zayne Heckenlively was held to a season-low 47 yards on 22 carries, but needed just 44 yards to break the school's single-season rushing record, set in 1990 by Cameron McNabb. Heckenlively turned in the most prolific season carrying the leather, gaining nearly nine yards per rush for a total of 1,501 yards in 2015. He is the sixth Tiger to eclipse 1,000 yards in a season, joining McNabb (1,497), Cord Huettner (1,481), Dan Werner (1,415), Dakota Schulenberg (1,339) and Bruce Smith (1,034). He found the end zone 20 times - two more than all the other Tiger ballcarriers combined, and also took three punts back to the house. On the other side of the ball, Heckenlively led the Tiger defense with 69 total tackles and 9.5 stops for 35 yards in losses.

There weren't many offensive highlights, though, for Heckenlively or anybody else Friday in Norfolk.

On the game's second play, senior David Engelhaupt side-stepped a defender at the line of scrimmage and went untouched on a 69-yard TD run to put the Knights ahead 7-0. With 19 seconds left in the quarter, Kautz went 84 yards on a toss play to extend the lead to 13-0.

The bookend touchdowns were separated by a pair of Knight turnovers — a fumbled punt return and a Trent Pentecost interception that halted a Norfolk Catholic drive at the Tiger 10-yard line. Both Jeremy Waggoner and Colton Reiss recovered Knight fumbles.

"We want to take care of the football. I think we were negative two in turnovers, and we don't want that," Bellar said. "We've just got to take care of those little things."

With the second and third units for Norfolk Catholic maintaining the shut-out, FCHS finished with 87 yards of total offense — all on the ground.

"Our game plan was to possess the ball as much as we could and shorten the game. We thought if we could do that, then maybe we could be in the game. I thought for the first quarter, we did a pretty decent job," Fritz said. "You definitely learn something from playing the best in the state, and we feel Norfolk Catholic is the best in C1 right now."

"We've got a ways to go. We've got the majority of our kids back next year, and we want to build a program and take the next step."

Norfolk Catholic, which took that step more than three decades ago, accumulated 340 of its 414 total yards before halftime. Engelhaupt and Kautz both finished above 100 yards rush-

FCHS junior Bryan Rose carried the ball four times for 12 yards Friday in Norfolk and finished the year with 233 yards (6.1 per carry) and seven touchdowns on just 38 carries. The Tigers were limited to 20 yards of offense in the first half of a 42-0 loss to unbeaten No. 1 Norfolk Catholic.

Class D2 top-ranked and fourth-seeded FC Sacred Heart got slightly spooked in the first round of the play-offs Thursday at Jug Brown, but responded with a vengeance, erasing first-half deficits of 12-0 and 18-8 by scoring 44 unanswered points in a 52-18 victory over Emerson-Hubbard.

It was a rematch of last year's opening round game and 52-13 Sacred Heart win, though it was a much different game for 24 minutes than one might think. FCSH, now 8-1 and hosting 7-2 Randolph, a 76-33 winner over Johnson-Brock, at 3 p.m. Wednesday, got a slight case of the drops and had an early score negated by a penalty that actually came on the previous play (?), and the upset-minded Pirates capitalized. Austin Ostrand caught an eight-yard scoring pass from Taylor Donner after an Irish fumble gave the visitors first-and-goal at the nine. Then EM — and a peculiar penalty call — gave the Pirates the ball at their own 31. This time they marched 49 yards in seven plays, capped by a 13-yard run by Haberman, and suddenly the D2 favorites were down 12-0 in the second quarter.

It didn't take sophomore Christian Harring and the Irish offense long to answer, as he busted a 32-yard TD run less than two minutes later. Senior QB Bailey Witt added the two-point conversion, but E-M was not finished. An 18-yard TD pass from Donner to Brice Morgan put the underdogs up 18-8 with 7:55 to play in the half. An almost certain Irish scoring drive was floundered away into the E-M end zone for a touchback and with the clock inching closer to halftime, Halloween was dawning two days early at Jug Brown.

But enter Henry Arnold. After the Irish D stiffened, forcing a three-and-out, Arnold took the ensuing punt at his own 33 and completely flipped the field, taking it 57 yards to the house. His brother, Sean, added the two-point conversion and it was a two-point Pirate lead at half.

And the second half was all Irish. The home team scored on offense (three Witt runs of 10, 1 and 31 yards) and a four-yard run by Harring, and defense (a 38-yard fumble recovery by Michael Keithley) to win going away.

The Irish are competing in the playoffs for an ongoing state-record 28th straight year.

(TOP) The Irish defense gang-tackle Emerson-Hubbard senior quarterback Tyler Haberman last Thursday in a 52-18 Sacred Heart victory at Jug Brown Stadium in the first round of the Class D2 State Football Playoffs. Sean Arnold (33) made a tremendous 19 team-high tackles, while his brother, Henry, a senior, had 14 stops. Sophomore Tristan Keithley (15), senior Reggie Johansen (85), who finished with eight total tackles, are also pictured. The top-ranked Irish lost a fumble and had a touchdown negated by penalty and found themselves down 12-0 to the upset-minded Pirates in the opening seconds of the second period and 18-8 with 7:55 to play in the half. But a Henry Arnold punt return, taken 57 yards to the house turned the tide and the Irish scored 44 unanswered points en route to the rout. SH hosts 7-2 Randolph at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Jug Brown.

Of course, Reggie is Mr. October, but November may well be Sacred Heart junior lineman Bryant Jorn's month. He showed the Pirates how 298 pounds can "get up, get up, and get down" during a sack dance last Thursday. We'll see what kind of moves he breaks out Wednesday when Randolph comes calling at 3 p.m.

ing, with Engelhaupt running for 117 yards and three TDs on eight carries and Kautz adding 106 yards and two scores on seven carries.

A 23-yard pass from Myles Vrbka to Michael Stinson with 7:51 left in the first half accounted for the Knights' other score. Vrbka completed six of his nine throws for 96 yards.

Senior Bradly Rose recorded one tackle for a three-yard loss and sophomore Rudy Vrtiska (six solo, two assists), and Pentecost and Jeremy Waggoner (each four solo stops, three assists) were defensive leaders for the Tigers. Cost-effective ways to heat your home (StatePoint) When keeping your home warm becomes a top priority, utility bills can get pricey. But upgrades featuring new technologies and heating strategies can help lower costs comfortably -- plus these changes can also help make your home more environmentally friendly.

Zone Heating; A central furnace cycles on and off several times an hour, heating your entire house, including unoccupied rooms. But supplemental heating products can warm the living areas that your family occupies most, allowing you to turn down the thermostat for the central furnace.

This practice can save up to 40 percent off your heating bills, according to an American Council for an Energy Efficient Economy report. Instead of a utilitarian space heater, consider alternative zone heating tools, such as fireplaces, stoves and fireplace inserts, which look great and add ambiance.

Wood Stoves; In addition to adding ambiance, new innovations are making wood stoves a more convenient way to stay warm this winter.

For example, the Quadra-Fire Adventure II is the first wood stove that maintains a room's temperature via a programmable thermostat and tells you when to add more wood. Plus, its four-point burn system produces intense rolling flames for powerful and efficient heat, so warming your home can be as simple as loading the wood, lighting the fire, and walking away -- and it can reduce home heating costs by up to 50 percent.

And unlike fossil fuels, wood is a renewable energy source. Burning wood completes the last step of the natural carbon cycle of trees, resulting in a zero net carbon impact on the environment. More information about the benefits of heating your home with wood stoves can be found at www.quadrafire.com.

Annual Maintenance; Annual maintenance to your heating system and home can ensure you get the best bang for your utility buck. Have your heating system serviced for optimal performance. You can also change the filters yourself and should do so periodically.

Seal drafts and ductwork so you don't waste warm air. And remember that not all weather-stripping lasts forever, so inspect doors and windows and reapply if necessary.

With these tips, it's possible to affordably and comfortably heat your home this season.

...learning about the Cherokee Nation

Kids: color stuff in!

Cherokee Nation (Eastern Band)

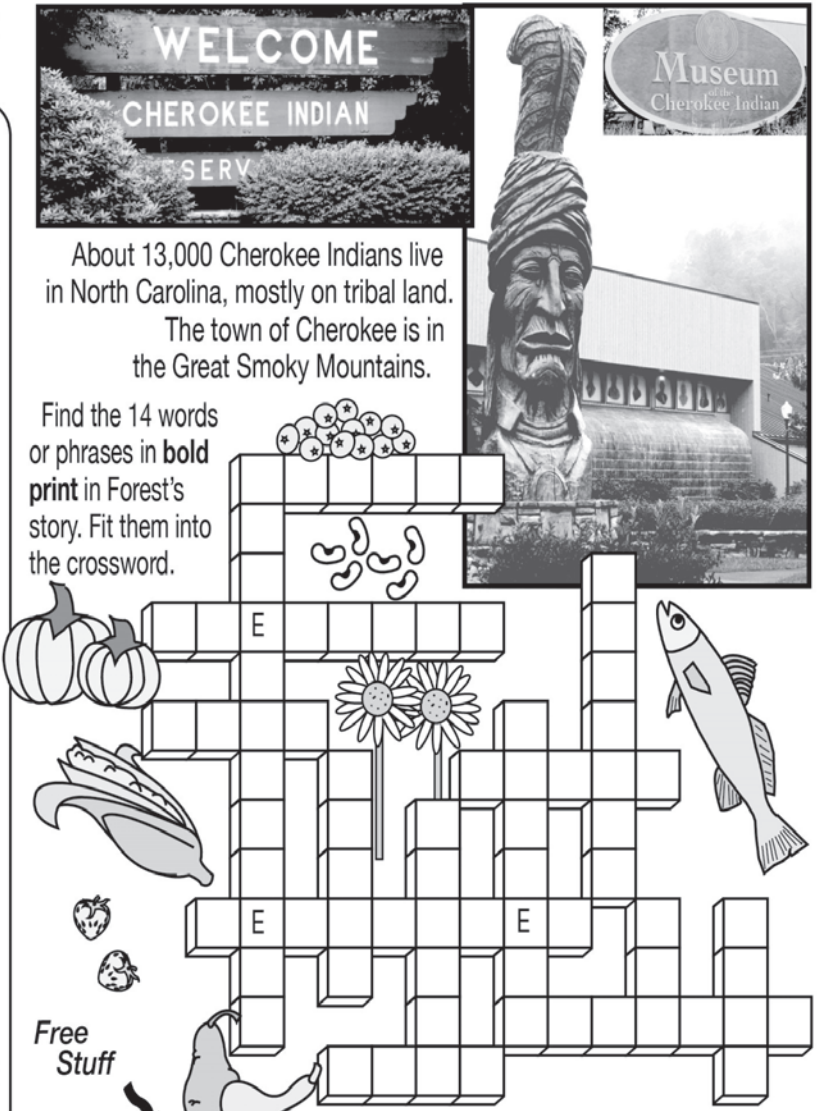

Did you know that archaeologists think the first people to live in North America were the Paleo-Indians? At the end of the last Ice Age (around 12,000 years ago) these people moved from Asia into North America on a land bridge that existed then. It is believed that they lived in small family groups and moved constantly to hunt animals like the mastodon (an elephant-like animal that is now extinct) and to gather foods like berries and nuts. Arrowheads for spears and other tools mark places where they lived.

In the Archaic period (8,000 to 1,000 BCE), families had homes with wooden poles covered with hides, which could be moved. In the spring they would move to the river valleys to fish and collect shellfish. In the fall they would move to the forest to hunt deer or turkey and gather nuts and berries. Archaeologists have studied tools, soapstone bowls, burial grounds and pottery to understand these people's ways.

In a more recent period, Woodland Indians, people are thought to have had villages as well as seasonal camps. Corn, a key part of the Indian diet, was introduced. The first evidence for the bow and arrow were found. It is believed that people were trading: salt, beads, shells, fish, pottery and animal skins.

During the next period, Mississippian Indians, settlements became more permanent. Squash, corn and beans, known as the Three Sisters, were important and foods from hunting and gathering were now added to the foods harvested from gardens. Beautiful jewelry and pottery were created too.

After 1650, when Europeans arrived, there were years of both peace and fighting. In 1836, the U.S. Senate accepted a treaty signed by a small group of Cherokee to sell their land and the Cherokee were forced to leave the east to be resettled in Oklahoma. They were expected to walk 1,000 miles to get there! On this hard walk, now called the "Trail of Tears," an estimated 4,000-8,000 people died. Some Cherokee refused to move and hid in the mountains. Many of their descendants now live on Qualla Boundary, a preserve.

Sequoyah Invents a Cherokee Alphabet

Sequoyah was a young Cherokee who learned how to work with silver. He wanted to sign his work like the European silversmiths did, so he visited Chief Charles Hicks, who could write in English. After Sequoyah learned to write his name using the alphabet, he began to think about creating a writing system for the Cherokee language. With it, they would be able to read and write letters, write down stories and record their history. He created a system where each sound was represented by a symbol, so each letter was a syllable of a word. His system was easy to use and many Cherokee learned to read and write using it.

Sequoyah liked papers and books since they could be used to exchange ideas.

These unidentified "wheelmen" were photographed at a Chautauqua in Salem, Richardson County, in 1895.

Advice for bicyclists or 'wheelmen'

Bicyclists or "wheelmen" were instrumental in promoting the improvement of public roads during the late nineteenth and early twentieth century. The story is told in "Lifting our People Out of the Mud: The Good Roads Movement," by L. Robert Puschendorf, in the winter 2015 issue of Nebraska History. Supporting the 1890s bicycling craze was a Lincoln publication, The Pacemaker, which included a column by John D. Robbins in the August 29, 1896, issue offering advice for "wheelmen."

"While traveling over the country for The Pacemaker I had [a] thousand different questions asked me concerning the wheel, how to ride, when to ride, where to ride, and so on, and for an answer to these I have prepared a few cautions and a few suggestions to riders which may be read and disposed of by those of all classes.

"Never try to make a century rider until you have ridden from 50 to 75 miles in a day without unusual distress. Never ride hard or reckless without enough good road ahead of you to stop as it will invariable [sic] save a smash up. Do not hope or expect to learn to ride a wheel, beat your tutor, and feel like you had never mounted a wheel all in one day. If a lady, don't be afraid to mount a diamond frame; if you have got to do all your riding late in the evening it is better for you than mounting a heavy drop frame. To all riders old and young I would say never drink cold water, especially ice-water in large quantities, when very warm. Take no more than a swallow at the most until cooled off. Do not ride violently within three-fourths of an hour to one and one-half hour after a hearty meal, if you must ride. Eat light and often, it pays in the end.

"When meeting anyone in the road in a buggy or wagon look to see if there are ladies in the vehicles, if so give the road to avoid unpleasantness. If not hold for your rights unless the other fellow looks the largest, then for your looks' sake I would say do as you think best. Always have confidence in yourself both as a rider and as a warrior; it takes it to get through this world on a wheel. . . .When you meet or overtake a fellow wheelman in distress always offer your assistance if nothing more than fill his oil can. It lightens his heart if nothing more and this same unfortunate may meet you sometime. Always see how steady you can maintain your body above the hips. It saves the wobble of the machine which causes the loss of control when going fast, that always results disastrous[ly]. . . .

"Always remember 'there are others' who cause collisions beside the fellow with whom you collide, especially if you are a novice. If a dangerous looking place appears don't be afraid to dismount or you may get dismounted. Never quit riding when you get tired, but always quit riding before you are tired, then you will never have to quit when you are tired. . . .In distance riding one thing to be remembered, ten miles an hour for ten hours will take you one hundred miles a day, but if you attempt doing thirty-five miles the first hour you won't last one hour. . . .

"Always remember that 'accidents will happen to machines of the best construction,' so never go on a trip without a repair kit and a tool bag (and tools, of course). Always figure on paying a good price for a good machine unless you can work some good rich relative for it. Wheels cost good money and it takes good money to get good wheels."

First United Methodist Church-a Falls City staple for 160 years

This year the members of the First United Methodist Church at 17th and Harlan in Falls City are celebrating the 24th year of the “Lord’s Acre Soup Supper and Sale.” The dinner and sale started back in 1992 and gets bigger and better every year.

The ‘Lord’s Acre Sale,’ originated in Georgia in 1922 in a Baptist Church.

Over the years, many churches have used the event to add income to their church. This year, members are serving four soups, ham and bean and corn chowder. They also offer take or carry out (402-245-3281).

The members of the church are honored to sell four beautiful handmade quilts and each one different from the other. The members also use their many talents to add crafted and baked items to the auction.

This year the church is also celebrating 160 years of serving the Falls City community. In 1855, church services were held in the area houses with Rev. Hart as the minister.

The First United Methodist church was built of wood in 1867, where the present Methodist Church stands. In 1892 the wooden church was replaced the current red brick church.

In 1952 the present church was dedicated, and with that the Methodist Church has stood on the corner of 17th and Harlan for 148 years. The present minister is Pastor John Hogue and this year he will be celebrating his second year with the ‘Lord’s Acre Soup Supper and Sale.’ The community is invited to dinner at 5 p.m. and the auction at 6:30 Saturday, Nov. 7.

MAKING IT RIGHT

In the Frontier Bank Community calendar ad that was published on Page 16 of the Oct. 27, 2015 edition of The Falls City Journal inadvertently stated that Stone Street Arts and the museum would be open Sunday, Nov. 15. The museum will actually be closed that day. It will, however, be open from 10-4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 28.

NET TELEVISION

NET Television will broadcast “Spirit in Glass: Plateau Native Beadwork” at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 15, “Horse Tribe,” at 10 p.m. Monday, Nov. 16 and “Bridge the Gap to Pine Ridge” at 10 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 22.

“Spirit in Glass: Plateau Native Beadwork” celebrates the spectacular beadwork of the Northwest Plateau People. This documentary provides a rare opportunity to experience Plateau culture through the eyes and hearts of artists, who share their history, motivation and the beadwork.

“Horse Tribe” is an epic story about the connection of human to animal, history to life and values to action. Legendary as one of America’s greatest horse tribes, the 21st century Nez Perce decided to bring horses back to their land with the unlikely help of a charismatic Navajo horseman, Rudy Shebala.

In “Bridge the Gap to Pine Ridge,” host and global explorer Chris Bashinelli visits the Pine Ridge Reservation to explore the often-forgotten culture of the Oglala Lakota Native Americans. While there, he embarks on a life-changing buffalo harvest, gets schooled by a women’s basketball team, visits with a 14-year-old suicide prevention activist and finds himself shoulder-deep up a cow’s backside while trying to better understand employment on the reservation.

was committed, in was within his legal rights to carry a firearm.

The wreck occurred on 14th Street, between Weaver and Fulton Streets, in the middle of the afternoon as both vehicles were westbound. According to witness testimony, photographs taken at the scene and forensics conducted by the State Patrol, Wittwer’s truck rolled twice before coming to rest on its four wheels. “Substantial contact and induced damage was observed to the rear left side” of the truck. Wittwer was transported to Community Medical Center and then to a Lincoln hospital for treatment of possible spinal and neck injuries, as well as lacerations to his head. Doerr’s truck, which he had just previously purchased, rolled onto its top, slid on the grass north of 14th Street, and struck a light pole in the northeast corner of 14th and Fulton Streets. Doerr exited the vehicle from the rear cab window, but he didn’t report major injury.

Prosecutors called several eyewitnesses, including Wittwer, who all testified that Doerr “didn’t look like he tried to slow down” or “never let off the gas” before impact. Doerr, who did not take the stand during the trial, at the scene allegedly told investigating officer Jeremy Goldsberry of the FC Police Dept. that he had attempted to avoid a welder that had slid out of the back of a third pickup, that of Robert Fisher, 52, of Falls City. Doerr, according to the report, said when he swerved to pass the welder, Wittwer’s truck was stopped in the turning lane and blocking traffic. He told Goldsberry that when he swerved to the right to avoid the collision, his truck struck the north edge of the road and rolled. Goldsberry’s investigation “revealed the two vehicles had crashed and that Wittwer’s pickup truck was rear-ended by Doerr’s pickup truck.”

The State Patrol conducted a crash reconstruction in September 2013 and came to a similar conclusion. Based on collected data, including tire marks, path of travel of both trucks, damage analysis, and Wittwer’s Airbag Control Module, as well as corroborating statements made by eyewitnesses, in the professional opinion of State Trooper Pedram Nabeigh, Doerr intentionally caused the accident.

The reconstruction “also determined there was ample distance for Doerr to avoid the collision, even if he was traveling 55 mph, and he could’ve avoided the crash if he had stayed in the turning lane. (There is) probable cause to believe Doerr intentionally crashed his vehicle into Wittwer’s vehicle and provided false statements to Officer Goldsberry during his investigation.”

Doerr initially was not issued a citation at the scene, but both he and Fisher were later both accused of willful reckless driving and Fisher a second count, hauling an unsafe load. According to witness testimony, Fisher was giving chase to Wittwer, when the latter stopped his truck on 14th Street before the intersection in an effort to create distance between the vehicles. When Wittwer accelerated away, Fisher again allegedly gave chase and a welder in the bed of his pickup slid onto the street. That’s when Doerr allegedly passed Fisher’s truck in the turning lane, swerved back into the driving lane and struck Wittwer’s vehicle.

According to court documents, Fisher and Wittwer were feuding for months before the incident and at the time of the wreck. In fact, in late December of 2012, police were called to Fisher’s home and arrested Wittwer on felony charges of assault and terroristic threats for allegedly “pointing a gun” at Fisher’s head and threatening to “blow his head off.” He later pled guilty to misdemeanor assault in the third degree and was fined $750. Wittwer said Fisher wanted to exact revenge on him, as did Doerr, as the two were friends (Doerr had actually purchased the truck he was driving at the time of the wreck from Fisher) and Doerr was a part-time employee of Fisher’s.

Doerr that fall was charged with felony assault in the second degree, but special prosecutor Jennifer Ladman-Stehlik dismissed it without prejudice in late October 2013. An arrest warrant was issued for Doerr in April 2014, but only for Assault in the Second Degree, a Class III Felony. That charge was amended, and the two others added, later in 2014.
