

Are you really so sure of everything you’re so sure of? - Hubbell Gardner. Robert Redford said this to Barbara Streisand in The Way We Were and I never forgot it. That film stuck with me for so many reasons. I idolized Katie, fell in love with Robert Redford’s face, learned that red nails, lips and accessories look amazing and knew that Hubbell Gardner was exactly the man that I despised. Though I hated the character, I loved Robert Redford and tried to see everything he was in. It was one of the first classic films I watched and only deepened my love of the genre.

Last January when we lost our dog Beans, I told Brian that I would never get another dog. The pain was too much and I knew I would never find a dog I loved as much as I loved him. Then in April I started to toy with the idea of getting a new dog. I told Brian that I would name the dog we would eventually get Robert Redford. It was a handsome and distinguished name that would be perfect for a guy joining our home. Then in June everything went off the rails. Life just got a little bit harder and I got real about getting a dog. I missed having someone waiting for me to get home every night, tail wagging and having someone to vent to who doesn’t get sick of me constantly complaining. Our family needed it-I needed it.

So I started to search everywhere. I preferred a Jack Russell or Rat Terrier. I searched and called animal shelters all over Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Colorado. For weeks I made calls and hoped I would just come across the perfect dog on Facebook and then I did. On July 1, I came across a lady who had Rat Terrier puppies in southern Kansas. I called her immediately and told her I wanted a male and could drive the three hours that night to get him. She asked if I could drive down on the Fourth of July instead and I happily obliged.

Over the long weekend we prepared for a new puppy. After getting older shelter dogs for the last thirteen years, we almost forgot what it was like to have a puppy.

My alarm went off bright and early at 6:00 a.m. on the Fourth of July. We loaded up the car and drove south through the fog in search of a small Kansas home in the middle of nowhere. After hours of driving and plenty of caffeine we arrived at our destination. I could almost smell the puppy breath as I got out of the car to walk to the house. A woman stepped outside and asked what I wanted. I told her that I had talked to her and came to get my puppy. She was visibly angry and confused about the situation as she yelled at Alex and I to get in our car and wait. I was instantly upset and thought it was a sign to just drive home. But I dreamed of that pink puppy belly, sharp puppy teeth and big sad eyes, so we waited. After a few minutes the woman came out and said she had forgotten we were coming and went to get our little Robert Redford.

She came walking back with a little ball of fur with the biggest and saddest eyes I had ever seen. We loaded him up and began a long drive home. Little Robert Redford was upset and car sick the entire way home. He never cried or whined but he did throw-up several times. We stopped in Topeka at a pet store to get him a harness and leash. He finally showed us a bit of his personality as he jumped around the parking lot and trotted to the door.. He was no slouch like our other dogs. He pranced, sat up straight as an arrow and seemed far to proper for an eight-week old puppy recently pulled from the only home he had ever known.

We made it home before the big fireworks started and spent some time outside letting him run and play. We were afraid he would be scared of us but he just seemed to fit right in. Over the next week we adjusted to our new life with a puppy. At 9 p.m. he falls asleep and sleeps so hard you have to shake him awake. It’s both adorable and terrifying at the same time. At 5 a.m. he starts to ram Brian in the face, chew on my nose and pull my hair. (Yes, we let our dogs sleep with us-don’t judge.) After a good nap he growls at Alex and jumps in the air and spins. We laugh at him constantly and have fallen madly in love the ornery little thing.

A few days in we decided that he wasn’t quite a Robert Redford. Maybe on paper he is with his proper stance, but his personality is goofier, so we decided to call him Hubbell. It’s from my favorite Redford film and somehow fits the puppy’s personality. It’s not too serious but not too silly. Hubbell Gardner may have been uptight and kind of spineless but he was a handsome gentleman, just like our puppy.

Little Hubbell has brought us so much joy to each one of us in only a week. We didn’t realize how much our family really needed a guy like him. Though I cried many tears of guilt, feeling like I was replacing Beans, I knew this was the right move for us. One little puppy has changed the entire mood of our home and now we can’t imagine how we ever lived without our baby, Hubbell, aka Robert Redford Bojangles McKim, happiness spreader extraordinaire.

Legal battle continues over panhandle fracking decision

Capitol View
By J.L. Schmidt
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

Fracking, a decades old practice in the oil and gas industry that was once featured on an episode of “The Simpsons,” is back in the news in Nebraska.

A controversial decision by the Nebraska Oil and Gas Commission last year to allow a Colorado company to dispose of salty groundwater and chemical-laden wastewater in a well north of Mitchell has been overturned by a judge in Sidney.

Hydraulic fracturing, or fracking, is the process of injecting fluid—mostly water and sand, but with additional chemicals—into the ground at a high pressure to fracture shale rocks and to release crude oil and natural gas inside. It’s a process that has been in use in Nebraska for more than 65 years. Environmentalists have challenged the practice as a matter of public health.

Cheyenne County Judge Derek Weimer ruled recently that the Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission exceeded its authority in April, 2015, when it approved the request by Terex Energy Corp. to dispose of the water. That approval, made after a lengthy and sometimes acrimonious public hearing, led to legislative attempts to abolish the commission or at least more closely regulate its activities.

During that hearing, farmer James Osborne challenged commission members to drink glasses of water tainted by fracking. He said it was a visual explanation of what fracking waste can do to the water table. The group BoldNebraska has circulated video copies of Osborne’s challenge.

Apparently unmoved by the demonstration, the commission signed off on Terex Energy Corporations proposal to convert an inactive oil well into a commercial fracking wastewater disposal site. The approval rejected objections from local officials, landowners and environmentalists and allowed the company to inject 5,000 barrels of oil field production water a day in the Sioux County well.

In March, 2016, the governor signed a bill creating a monitoring system for fracking wastewater transportation and requiring annual sampling of fracking fluids. The measure also adjusted the Nebraska Oil and Gas Commission’s mission to focus on “promoting health, safety and protection of natural resources.” The bill (LB1082) also requires public forums for injection well permit applications.

In the case before Judge Weimer, landowners, Jane Grove and Hughson Flying A Ranch Inc., asked for a review of the commission’s authority. They contended there is no Nebraska statute that gives the commission authority to authorize disposal of the wastewater from other states. The judge agreed.

In the Simpsons’ episode, “Opposites A-Frack” (season 26, Episode 5), Marge’s twin sisters Patty and Selma start a fire when the tap water in a downstairs bathroom ignites as they are trying to smoke cigarettes. Lisa Simpson informs her mother, Marge, that this is possibly a result of fracking, which she discovers is happening at a local factory. Marge successfully calls on Assemblywoman Maxine Lombard to stop the fracking.

Back in the real world, opponents of fracking argue that negative environmental and human health impacts could be significant. Although wells have been fracked for over 65 years in the United States, concerns have been raised about whether federal, state, and local regulatory agencies can keep up with the recent rapid increase in fracking activity and adequately protect the environment and human health.

Nebraska’s new law is a step in that direction. It’s unclear at this writing whether the Colorado company will challenge the judge’s ruling or what, if any, action the Oil and Gas Commission might take.

One thing is certain, the industry that generates the waste and the folks who are responsible for monitoring that activity should be aware that Nebraskans are watching.

SCC’s Falls City Learning Center

and OSHA 10, Welding and Electrical Code.

A task force for health courses has met, and potential credit and non-credit opportunities have been identified. A task force for education is being developed. A full-time coordinator is expected to be hired in August.

Additional information on the Falls City Learning Center can be found at: <https://www.southeast.edu/falls-city-learning-center/>

SCC is committed to serving its entire 15-county area and is very excited about the opportunities that will be created with the Falls City Learning Center. Southeast Nebraska has tremendous attributes, including highly productive agriculture, energy generation infrastructure, the state capital, access to outstanding two- and four-year institutions of higher education, and a thriving economy in health services, finance, insurance, construction, manufacturing, and many other industries. SCC is poised to expedite the area’s economic and community development by empowering its employers, students and community members via responsive pathways to career/technical, academic transfer and continuing education programs.

This is a very exciting time for SCC as it establishes a new transformational direction to meet the current and future student, employer, and community needs of southeast Nebraska.

Proper Flag Etiquette

A few nights ago my husband and I decided to go for a walk. We figured we would take advantage of the cool night air and the quiet that comes at 2:00 a.m. when most of the town is tucked away safely in their beds. But something we noticed that wasn’t tucked in safely for the night was about 25 American flags. They were just hanging there, in the dark, without so much as a porch light shining in their direction.

That wasn’t at all what I expected from this town. A town where I witnessed people rally together to honor the bravery of Marine Sgt. Nicholas S. Nolte and Army 1st Lt. Jacob N. Fritz, who paid the ultimate price and sacrificed their lives for our great country. A sacrifice for what the flag stands for. Don’t get me wrong, it makes my heart swell with pride to see all those houses proudly displaying their flags, but when the sun goes down so should those flags, unless there is a light shining directly on them.

I don’t understand how the same people who showed so much respect for those brave men and their families could turn around and show such blatant disrespect to the flag that those men, and men and women before them, died for.

One of the first flags I noticed flying in the dark is just down the street from us. I stopped and talked to the owner, hoping that maybe he just wasn’t aware of the protocol for flying a flag at night. Not only did he not know that the flag should have a light shining directly on it, but he expressed to me that he didn’t care, nor was he going to put a light on his. I even offered to give him a light so that his flag could be properly lit and he still refused. I can only hope that his is not the same case for the other flags we saw that night.

After seeing all those flags flying in the dark, I no longer feel the pride in this town that I once did. To someone unfamiliar with this town they would think we have respect for men and women in uniform, past and present. There is recognizable patriotism if you’re looking from an outsiders perspective. We have the Veterans Wall, Memorial Park the VFW and flags displayed all over town for Memorial Day, Veterans Day and Independence Day. But when the sun goes down you can only see the disregard for our American flag and its meaning.

Braniff Flight 250 remembrance to be held by the RC Museum

Please join us in welcoming the families and friends of the victims on Braniff Flight 250 crash near Falls City. On the 50th anniversary of the plane accident of August 6, 1966, the Richardson County Museum, 1404 Chase Street, Falls City, will host a remembrance and gathering requested by the families of the victims. The public, which assisted the crash, and appreciated by the victim’s families and friends are encouraged to take part in this remembrance.

The gathering will start at 9:30 p.m. at the Museum; those that want to visit the site at 10:30 a.m. may do so. The Museum will be open for those that choose to remain there at this time. After the visitation to the site, the Museum will host a lunch and gathering. RSVP to 402-245-3372 or 402-245-3481 by August 1, 2016 to help with the lunch count. Steve Pollock, author of the book Deadly Turbulence Air Safety Lesson, written about this plane accident, intends to be present. He currently resides in Nashville, TN.

Braniff Airways Flight 250 crashed near Falls City, on August 6, 1966, en route to Omaha from Kansas City, Missouri. Thirty-eight passengers and four crew members were killed in the crash, which occurred in a farm field late on a Saturday night. In-flight structural failure due to extreme turbulence in an avoidable weather hazard was cited as the cause.

Ray and Jan Huebner celebrate their 50th Anniversary

Ray and Jan Huebner celebrated their 50th Anniversary June 26, 2016. Their children held a dinner June 18th for close family members of Ray and Jan's including sisters, brothers and their spouses. Country Cabin prepared a dinner for the party. The front of the party room was decorated with photos of the family, homemade cards from the kids, along with Ray and Jan's photo albums from their own childhoods.

The guest book/gift table and cake table were adorned with gold and cream tissue paper flowers for the Golden Anniversary. Music, by Larry Strecker, playing in the background fit the mood and favorites for the whole group.

A program included Grandchildren of all ages and one great- grandchild sang a few special songs as well as children, Angie, Michelle and Brett all while Angie on guitar. Stories from the past were shared in good cheer.

Promise in a New Land

Mariah Monahan, with Irish brogue and period costume, depicts a Nebraska settler between 1847 and 1870. Based on historical fact, Mariah captivates the audience in a first-person presentation. Through a spellbinding rendition, viewers are transported in time to sail the ocean, walk the wagon trail, live in a dug out, feel the loneliness and fight prairie fires. Laugh and cry with stories of owning land, successful crops, hard work, dancing, diphtheria, losing loved ones, grasshoppers and becoming an American.

Sponsored by Nebraska Humanities Council, Cherrie Beam-Callaway, formerly Clarke, is a storyteller and educational speaker, giving programs for 30 years to over 85,000 children and adults across the Midwest. As an independent scholar for the Nebraska Humanities Council, she enjoys bringing the 1800's to live. Five sets of her grandparents homesteaded in Nebraska.

Cherrie traveled across Nebraska on a wagon train, working as a storyteller, to commemorate the 150th birthday of the Oregon Trail. She co-founded the annual 'John C. Fremont Days,' festival. A large part of Cherrie's life has been devoted to volunteer service. She is a recipient of many state and community awards for statewide leadership, historical preservation and community accomplishment. Cherrie recently spoke at the Falls City Library, and will be speaking again on July 20, at 7:00 p.m. at the Good News Assembly of God Church in Falls City. The public is welcome to attend this educational and entertaining event.

Bat tests positive for rabies in Falls City

A bat recently tested positive in Falls City for rabies. The Southeast District Health Department would like to remind residents that bats are very active this time of year, which means the possibility of exposure to rabies increases.

"It's important for people to be cautious around bats and other wild animals, and make sure pets are up to date on vaccinations such as rabies," said Kevin Clusky, Southeast District Health Director.

In addition to bats, other wildlife such as skunks, foxes, coyotes and raccoons can also have rabies and transmit it to people. Rabies is caused by a virus that affects the nervous system and is transmitted by the bite of an infected animal or if saliva from a rabid animal gets directly into an open wound or a person's eye, nose, or mouth. Rabies is generally fatal without preventive treatment.

Help prevent the spread of rabies by following these tips: Be a responsible animal owner. Keep vaccinations up-to-date for all dogs, cats, ferrets, and other animals you own.

Seek immediate veterinary assistance for your pet if it's bitten by a wild animal or exposed to a bat.

Call your local animal control agency about removing stray animals in your neighborhood.

Do not touch, feed, or unintentionally attract wild animal with open garbage cans or litter.

Never adopt wild animals or bring them into your home. Do not try to nurse sick, wild animals to health. Call animal control or an animal rescue agency for assistance.

Teach children never to handle unfamiliar animals, wild or domestic, even if they appear friendly. "Love your own, leave other animal's alone" is a good principle for children to reduce the risk of contact with rabid animals.

Maintain homes and other buildings so bats can't get inside.

If a bat is in your house, don't let it outside until you talk to animal control or public health officials.

If you can do it without putting yourself at risk for physical contact or being bitten, try to cover the bat with a large can or bucket, and close the door to the room.

If you think a bat has bitten you: Seek immediate medical attention if you've been in direct contact with or bitten by a bat.

If you wake up and find a bat in your room, you should try to safely capture the bat and have it tested. The same precautions should be used if you see a bat in a room with an unattended child.

If you or a family member has been in close proximity to a bat, consult your doctor or local health department for assistance to determine if you might have been exposed to rabies and need preventative treatment.

People might know when they've been bitten by a bat but its small teeth can make a bit mark difficult to find or leave no visible marks. Its better to be safe than sorry. Try to safely capture the bat or call animal control, have the bat tested and seek medical advice.

No human cases of rabies have occurred among Nebraskans since the 1920's.

For more information on the number of cases of rabies cases in Nebraska, go to dhhs.ne.gov/pages/srd\_rabies.aspx

First Annual Smokin’ On The Bricks

Overall grand champion was Andy Dean who placed in all three categories, winning him a $250.00 gift certificate to The Would Eye and a large trophy.

“We wanted to continue with the BBQ contest and also have a family friendly event,” said Froeschl.

Family friendly it was, as several children set up camp in the bouncy house or in front of the kettle corn stand throughout the day on Saturday.

There was something for everyone including live music, an auction held in conjunction with the Tanner Shelby Merz Foundation and the BBQ competition.

Acoustic Madness entertained crowds on Friday night during registration for the TSMF poker run. Curtis Wayne Stroud and Harold Nussbaum played Saturday afternoon followed by Sawyer Jay.

After the BBQ competition awards were presented and the TSMF auction concluded, Salt Creek performed for a large enthusiastic crowd.

Rachel Rankin thanked the crowd and volunteers for their time and service and asked for feedback on how to improve in the future, giving hope to everyone that this will be an annual event.

“It was so easy to find people to volunteer” said Froeschl. “Everyone wanted to help when they found out it was a free community event for the whole family.”

Big Red RECRUITING REPORT

By Sean Stevens

(Falls City native and former staff writer for HuskerIllustrated.com and Rivals.com)

June 23-24 weekend Nebraska hosted their largest recruiting weekend in the last decade, and possibly ever. On hand were nine current Rivals.com four and five-star prospects, and multiple three-star prospects from the 2017, 2018 and even 2019 recruiting classes for the Friday Night Lights camp and Big Red Weekend.

Nebraska committed QB Tristan Gebbia (6-3/180) and WR Keyshawn Johnson Jr. (6-1/195) of Calabasas, CA as well as WR Jaevon McQuitty (6-2/190) of Columbia, MO were on hand to not only host recruits, but also to compete with and against other targets, including five-star WR Joseph Lewis (6-2/197) of Los Angeles, CA, four-stars in WR Tyjon Lindsey (5-9/175) of Corona, CA, DB Jaylen Kelly-Powell (6-0/180) of Detroit, MI, Arizona RB pledge Nathan Tilford (6-1/201) of Ontario, CA, and Missouri WR commit Da’Ron Davis (6-2/190) of Lee’s Summit, MO, three-stars in RB Jamari Peacock (5-11/245) of Yulee, FL and TE Reese Leitaio (6-4/230) of Jenks, OK, and two-star DE Robert Porcher IV (6-2/250) of Orlando, FL.

Top 2018 targets DB Brendan Radley-Hiles (5-10/175) of Calabasas, CA and DT Trevor Trout (6-3/295) of St. Louis, MO, along with a pair of top 2019 DBs Xavier Goldsmith (5-7/140) of Detroit, MI and Kenyatta Watson II (6-2/168) of Loganville, GA were also on hand.

The Friday night camp was open to the public, and nearly 3,000 NU fans attended which produced a level of excitement that’s unusual at an event like this. Crowd reactions along with spontaneous “Go Big Red” chants had an impact on the prospects in attendance. The one-on-one battles between the WRs and DBs – with Gebbia throwing to Johnson, McQuitty, Lewis, Lindsey and Davis and against Kelly-Powell, Radley-Hiles and Goldsmith – drew “oohs” and “ahhs”.

Nebraska improved their standing with virtually everyone in attendance, and one commitment has already come from the weekend – Robert Porcher IV. Porcher is the son of former Detroit Lions Pro-Bowl DE Robert Porcher III. He had visited Auburn, North Carolina, Georgia Tech and NC State, and was scheduled to trip to Michigan and Arizona. Those plans were cancelled after his trip to Lincoln, though.

“We just felt like Nebraska was the right place to be and it felt like home,” Porcher told HuskerOnline. “We felt that we’ve known the coaches there for a long time and it felt comfortable.”

Along with the aforementioned schools, USC, Virginia Tech, Louisville, Mississippi State, Arizona State, Cal and Missouri had also offered Porcher.

Prior to the weekend, NU had added 2017 OL Broc Bando (6-4/279) of IMG Academy in Florida by way of Lincoln Southeast and 2018 DT Masry Mapieu (6-5/290) of York, NE to those years’ respective commitment lists.

Bando transferred to IMG last year and played as a backup, but still had received offers from Georgia, Mississippi State and Louisville. He plans to graduate in December and enroll at NU in January.

Mapieu joins Beatrice TE Cameron Jurgens (6-3/235) in NU’s 2018 class. Mapieu transferred to York from McCool Junction as a sophomore last season and improved his technique and performance as the year went along. He also held offers from UCLA, Iowa and Iowa State before pledging to NU.

Returning to the weekend visitors, Lewis, Lindsey and Tilford are not doing interviews.

Lewis will take his official visits this fall before deciding, but is considered a lean to USC at this time. Nebraska gave him a lot to think about, though, and his relationship with WR coach Keith Williams will keep the Huskers in it.

Lindsey is scheduled to make his commitment Aug. 22 from among a list of suitors including Alabama, Michigan, Ohio State, Oregon and USC. Most analysts see this as a decision between NU and Ohio State. He’s also tight with Williams, but his high school QB recently pledged to the Buckeyes.

Rumors abound that Tilford has flipped to NU, but nothing has been confirmed.

Kelly-Powell is among the top prospects in Michigan, and has offers from Michigan, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Oregon and Stanford among others. He came away impressed with Lincoln, and plans to return for an official visit this fall.

“The camp was great,” Kelly-Powell told HuskerOnline. “I had a chance to go out there and compete against some of the nation’s best players that night. It was quite an atmosphere for a camp too. Some of the people drove hours to watch a camp. It says a lot about the fans at Nebraska.”

Peacock said after the weekend that NU, Virginia and Louisville are his top three. He’s visited all three and told Husker Online, “(NU) was very hyped and that was probably the most fans I have ever seen come to a camp... I also liked the campus and the layout of the campus... It was definitely the nicest campus I’ve ever seen.”

Leitaio visited for Friday Night Lights but didn’t compete, and then went on to visit Iowa State on Saturday. He has also visited Oklahoma State, Duke, Missouri and Alabama.

“...every school is unique, but I think that Nebraska, Iowa State and Alabama fit me really well,” Leitaio told HuskerOnline.

Da’Ron Davis doesn’t currently hold a Husker offer, but that may be coming soon. He pledged to Missouri early last year and was an unexpected visitor at Friday Night Lights.

“It was the best experience, best atmosphere, everything. I really appreciated it,” Davis told 247 Sports. “So far, Nebraska started spinning my head around. I was thinking, ‘that was unbelievable.’ Mizzou, they got a little upset from me going, but I’m still going to go to other camps. I’m just looking around and exploring my options and right now, Nebraska is like the top. They’re in my top three.”

Watson, a 2019 top target nationally, was blown away as was his father Kenyatta Watson, Sr. The elder Watson serves as a coach and recruiting coordinator at Loganville, the high school of NU redshirt freshman linebacker Mohammed Barry. Watson Sr. told HuskerOnline that Barry’s description of NU didn’t do it justice.

“I mean, we’ve been to 28 schools... and we were sold that Tennessee was the best that we had been to, but everything about Nebraska was unbelievable. The coaches, the people, when you think of Nebraska you don’t think about the Haymarket area downtown to have like a real city type of feel to it. Just everything was just totally impressive and we’re still blown away.

“My son and I just kept looking at each other and saying, ‘This is unbelievable.’”

The Watsons are planning a return trip July 12-14 where they intend to bring 20-25 total prospects from Georgia along with them. That would include linebacker Owen Pappoe (6-2/202) who is considered among the top players nationally in the 2019 class. Pappoe already holds offers from Alabama, Clemson, Florida, Florida State, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, and Ohio State. Also targeted for the trip will be fellow 2019 prospects DB Jaylen Alexander (6-0/150), WR Kenyon Jackson (6-5/190), OT Wanya Morris (6-5/275) and DL Tru Thompson (6-1/300). Alexander has interest from Missouri and Tennessee, Jackson from LSU and South Carolina, Morris from Clemson and Louisville, and Thompson holds offers from Florida, Florida State and LSU.

All was not sunshine and lollipops, though, as top Husker targets at DB four-star Deommodore Lenoir (6-4/200) of Los Angeles, CA and three-star Elijah Blades (6-3/170) of Pasadena, CA committed to Oregon and Florida respectively.

Bagworms cause tree damage

By: Nicole Stoner

We all love to garden. But when problems arise in our lawns and gardens, we all get frustrated, especially when those are problems that we have to deal with every year. Bagworms are one of those problems we face every year.

Bagworms are a pest that we are seeing in our landscapes right now. Bagworms are the immature form or the caterpillar of a clear-winged moth. The female overwinters in the bags with her eggs. In the spring or early summer, the eggs will hatch allowing the caterpillars to emerge from the bag. These caterpillars will then move around on that tree and they will move to other trees and feed on the foliage. They prefer cedars and other trees and shrubs in the juniper family, but they can also be found on pines and spruces as well as on deciduous trees to a lesser extent. The female adults will live their whole life in a bag and the males will emerge as a clear-winged moth to mate with the females.

The damage from bagworms includes foliage that turns brown or is missing. The foliage may be chewed on when the caterpillars first start feeding. You may also start to notice the bags on the trees which look like small, brown Christmas tree ornaments that develop on your trees. Bagworms are most common in the middle to late June. Their emergence is weather dependent.

It is best to only treat for bagworms when the caterpillars are active. Once they get too large, the sprays will no longer be effective. If you find bagworms on your trees you can pull them off and throw them into a bucket of soapy water, if there aren't too many and if you can reach them all. Most years, we spray for them in the third week of June, but it is best to spray when they are just forming until they are no larger than one-half inch in length. The best chemicals to use for bagworms include Sevin, Eight, Bifenthrin, malathion, tempo or a product containing Bt. Bt is Bacillus thuringiensis which is a type of chemical that is specific to butterflies and moths and will not harm other beneficial insects such as bees and beetles.

So, take a stroll through your landscape this week to look for damage and the beginning stages of the bags of bagworms. The caterpillars began emerging about 2 weeks ago, so we should be in the prime time for treatments right now. If you see the bags beginning to form, spray your tree or pull off the bags and destroy them.

Norman Miller

Norman F. Miller, 71, passed away July 10, 2016 at Ohiowa, NE. He was born August 5, 1944 at Humboldt, to the late Cecil and Helen (Schuler) Miller.

Norman was raised in Richardson County, Angus, NE and attended Dawson High School. Following high school he worked as a farm hand until being drafted into the U.S. Army on September 12, 1964. Following his discharge on September 22, 1967 he worked for Stella Soil Service and then became a truck driver for 35 years for construction crews. He married Patricia Rowland on March 13, 1993 at Salem. He retired in 2008 due to his health. He was a member of the Ohiowa American Legion # 193. He is survived by wife, Patricia Miller of Ohiowa; brother; Dave (Barb) Miller of Grand Island; brother-in-laws and sister-in-laws, and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, sisters; Evelyn Hoak and Dorothy Miller Ballue.

A graveside service will be held on, Thursday, July 14, 2016, at 11:00 A.M. at Maple Cemetery with Pastor James Sells officiating. Graveside military honors by Ohiowa American Legion #193.

Family will receive friends on Wednesday from 7:00-8:00 P.M. at the Dorr and Clark Funeral Home.

Wings of Freedom Tour coming to Omaha

The "Wings Of Freedom Tour," will be held, July 22-24, 2016, at Omaha's Eppley Airfield. Four flying World War II wartime aircraft will be arriving for walk through tours, hands on visits and even lifetime opportunities for flight time.

US Army Air Corps veterans are being lost so rapidly each day, and the Collings Foundation wishes to show the general public the valor, the courage and skill that the pilots, navigators, gunners, radio officers exhibited each time when climbing aboard these marvels of American creativity and science in the skies over Europe, Africa and the Pacific.

The only flying B-24 Liberator, "Witchcraft," a B-17m Liberator, B-25 Mitchell Bomber and a P-51 Mustang will be available touch and provide that once in a lifetime window into America's past.

This tour is America's thank-you to the engineering marvels and courageous veterans that climbed aboard these machines to fly through the most terrifying, dangerous and costly of battle zones during WWII to drop bombs on Tokyo, destroy the oil fields of Ploesti and carry the precision "daytime bombing raids" to Hitler's front door.

Through the gracious donations of several veterans and their supporters, two flight scholarships have been provided, and two WWII veterans will have an opportunity to once again fly in a half hour flight of remembrance on their bomber of choice, during this 3 day event. Any veteran wishing to attend can contact me to place their name into the drawing for these "Flight Gifts"

How to handle a wedding around a holiday

While summer and fall are the most popular times of year to get married, couples can tie the knot whenever they choose, including on holidays.

Holiday weddings tend to stray from the norm, and that can make for a memorable night for couples and their guests. For example, couples who choose to get married on Halloween may encourage their guests to arrive and celebrate in costume, making for a unique experience for all in attendance. But planning weddings that take place on a holiday or holiday weekend may require a little extra effort.

- Research venues before finalizing the date. Couples who have their eyes set on certain venues to host their ceremonies and receptions should research the availability of those venues on holidays or holiday weekends before finalizing their wedding date. Some venues may have preexisting agreements with local community organizations that may prohibit them from hosting weddings or limit their available time slots. Confirm the availability of your ideal venues before making your date official.

- Allow for a longer engagement. Regardless of which holiday you choose, keep in mind that many people make plans well in advance of a holiday. Holidays tend to be accompanied by long weekends, and your guests may already have plans for that time off from the office. In addition, families often travel to visit relatives during the holiday season at the end of the calendar year. If you plan to wed on a holiday or holiday weekend, allow for a longer engagement so your guests won't have to cancel existing plans or miss the wedding because they already have travel plans that weekend. Let guests know your holiday-wedding intentions as soon as you finalize the date.

- Start looking for vendors as soon as possible. Vendors, including caterers and photographers, tend to be busy on holiday weekends, so start looking as early as possible. It's important to comparison shop, but couples who wait too long to sign contracts with vendors might find themselves paying more and/or choosing whoever is available as opposed to their top choices.

- Plan to pay a little more. As noted, vendors tend to be busy on holidays and during holiday weekends, and their prices may reflect the high demand for their services. Budget-conscious couples should anticipate paying more on holidays than they might pay on other weekends.

- Expect some declined invitations. While an extended holiday weekend may seem like the perfect time to tie the knot, guests may not share that perspective. Many would-be guests likely cherish their existing holiday traditions and may be unwilling to abandon those traditions to attend a wedding. Every couple has at least a few friends or family members decline their wedding invitations, but those numbers may be more substantial for couples hosting holiday weddings.

Holiday weddings can make for some great memories, but couples must be especially diligent when planning weddings on holidays or holiday weekends.

Kids: color stuff in!

Beachcombing!

Yeah, yeah, I know all about the beach so I'm stuck hosting the page. Listen closely, because I don't repeat myself.

What kinds of things might a beachcomber find in the sand or in shallow waters? Read the clues to find out:

A beachcomber is a person who likes to search the sands and shallow waters for things that he can use, make into something else or sell because they have some value. Pretend that you and your family live on the beach and are beachcombers. What do you think you might discover?

Grab your colored pencils and color in everything!

Fill in the blanks to name 2 pieces of equipment used to comb beaches for treasure.

Let's Go Beachcombing!

★ More free puzzles: www.readingclubfun.com

Across

- box of valuable jewels in the ground
- forts with moats around them
- trash
- glass tube formed in sand when lightning strikes the sand
- soft-bodied water animals live in these
- carry their "homes" on their backs
- plants that live in the ocean
- broken pieces worn smooth
- paw prints

Down

- reddish-brown coated piece of metal
- have tentacles that can sting
- have large oval shells and long stiff tails
- pieces of trees, furniture, etc. washed ashore
- birds that live by the seashore
- soft-bodied water animals with narrow, dark-blue shells

You and your family are diving deep into the sea. You find a cave and explore it. In the center, this is what you see! Everything is mixed up in this sea scene. What silly things do you see?

Sea Scene

Motion in the Water

B = Blue G = Green

All sea creatures use different body parts to move through the water. The body part you will see in the box below works with the fish's muscles to push it through the water. It also keeps the fish from "rolling over." It helps the fish steer and "brake," too. What part of a fish is like a man's arms and legs?

2 in 1 puzzle!

Treasure hunting time! Yay!

Treasure Hunt After crowds leave for the day, Pinch scuttles around looking for treasure. What did he find today?

G = gold
S = sand
B = black

Corn harvested near Lexington, about 1905. Note the “bangboard” that caused ears of corn tossed by the “shucker” to fall into the wagon.

Garnering the Golden Ears

“Northeast Nebraska was right at the top in the state cornhusking contest last Thursday when two of her favorite sons of the soil tossed the Indian maize against the bangboard . . . to claim first and second places in the Midwest’s greatest rural athletic event.” So said the Pierce County Leader, Nov. 4, 1937, in praise of winner Louis Korte of Stanton County and runner up Harold Korth of Cedar County. Korte shucked 27.79 bushels to Korth’s 27.54 bushels. Both men qualified for the National Cornhusking Contest to be held in Missouri the next week. Third place went to Sherman Henriksen of Lincoln, who won the national contest in 1933.

The Nebraska contest, held on the C. R. Arbuckle irrigated farm northeast of Kearney on October 28, drew twenty-nine competitors. It also drew a crowd estimated at from twenty-five to thirty thousand, based on an aerial survey made during the event. The winner was determined by weighing the corn shucked by each competitor during an eighty-minute period and assessing penalties based on the amount of corn left in the rows each man had worked and the amount of shucks and stalks that remained on the ears thrown into the wagon. Korte noted afterwards, “I left too much corn in the field,” but “I sure do like this hybrid corn to shuck in.” In addition to being eligible for the national contest, Korte won $100 and Korth received $50. Later newspaper reports noted that Korte had failed to place in the national contest, which was held in a pouring rain.

The 1937 contest prompted the Norfolk Daily News to editorialize about Nebraska Cornhuskers, in the cornfield and on the football field, under the title, “Huskers and Huskers”: “The 25,000 or 30,000 people who traveled to Kearney Thursday to watch the state cornhusking contest had something more important on their minds than the similar number who journey to Lincoln to see the big football games.

“For much as we all thrill at the gridiron spectacle, the sight of twenty-nine men testing their skill at garnering the golden ears was more in line with the substantial interests of the state. Football is all right, and it has a recognized place as a wholesome sport, but after all it is of the froth of the cup, while the gathering of Nebraska’s greatest crop is the real liquid that nourishes the business of the state and keeps it healthy.

“Louis Korte of Stanton should be as big a man in the eyes of Nebraska as the youngster who happens to be able to kick a football between two goal posts, or who can dodge tacklers on his way to the end zone. More people will know the name of the football star, but submitted to a vote it is probable the overwhelming majority would say that a good cornhusker is of greater value to Nebraska than a half dozen Cornhuskers.”

The national cornhusking contests were suspended with the outbreak of World War II. In the postwar period, mechanical corn-picking rapidly replaced the work once done by hand. Hand corn-picking contests are still held in many agricultural states, but are no longer the spectacles they once were. The 2016 Nebraska State Hand Cornhusking Contest is scheduled to be held near Gothenburg on September 17.

A WILD NIGHT: Area residents awoke Thursday morning, June 7, to some minor and major destruction caused by an overnight storm. According to Richardson County Emergency Management, it looks as though the worst of the storm affected southeast Falls City and south of Falls City, including areas around Preston and Rulo. Some areas around the county experienced winds reaching 100+ MPH. (ABOVE) This tree was split in half and corn blown clear over at 653rd Blvd., east of Falls City. ## National Night Out in Humboldt

The Richardson County Sheriff’s Office will be hosting a National Night Out event for the citizens of Humboldt, and the surrounding area on Aug. 2, beginning at 6:00 P.M. at the Humboldt City Park.

The Sheriff’s Office will be serving hot dogs, chips, and water to the participants at the park. After enjoying the meal participants are invited to watch demonstrations from the Sheriff’s K-9, look at the police, fire, road, and ambulance vehicles. Finally, all participants can go for a dip in the swimming pool to finish the evening events. The National Night Out is an annual community-building campaign that promotes police-community partnerships and neighborhood camaraderie to make our neighborhoods safer, better places to live. The Sheriff’s Office would like to thank all businesses who have offered to help make this event possible including Falls City Mercantile, June Dettmann, Table Rock Bank of Humboldt, American National Bank Humboldt Branch, R&D Grocery, Sun Mart Foods, Community Insurance, Marburger Shoe, Nancy Chandler, Farm and City Supply, Sapp Bros, and the many other sponsors that helped this event succeed.

SEZ-I Irrigation Wells

The story in the Journal (June 28, 2016), about Shubert’s water supply includes a paragraph, “In February 2016 another local farmer applied for two permits for irrigation. Director Jim Gerweck commented on concerns expressed by neighbors about the wells.” I was one of the people with concerns.

I have a domestic well adjacent to the farm that applied for the wells. The wells were approved. In January we registered our well. The NRD measured the water depth at that time and again at the end of June our well was 26 feet lower. The NRD won’t admit irrigation wells affect neighboring wells that much. The answer seems pretty clear to me.
