Male pointer gives FC vet national award

Two time National Amateur CH “Nemaha Yankee,” a three-year-old white orange marked male pointer, gave breeder-owner-handler Dr. Pat McInteer, of Falls City, his first Purina Award in the highly competitive Top Shooting Dog Amateur competition.

“Yankee” outperformed 100 shooting dogs to capture the 11th annual award during the year-long program.

“I feel very blessed to win this award,” said Dr. McInteer in accepting the honor.

“The biggest contributor is my wife, Margaret. Today is our 45th wedding anniversary and we are honored to have our four children and their spouses and eight of our 11 grandchildren here with us.

“A good bird dog will make you travel, and it’s not the wins, but the field trial people who are special. Seeing Yankee go across the field, run to the front with his fancy, high tail is breathtaking. The reason I enjoy this sport so much is because of the many

Among his wins, the standout Pointer won the National Amateur Pheasant Shooting Dog Championship last August in Circle, MT, the National Amateur Shooting Dog Championship in March in Ardmore, OK, and the Missouri Amateur Shooting Dog Classic in April at Grove Springs.

Whelped Jan. 15, 2011, Yankee was sired by Nemaha City Slicker out of Cajun Queen Ring of Fire. Dr. McInteer has devoted more than 40 years to dogs as a veterinarian and a field trial competitor. “My goal is to breed a better dog,” he said.

A passionate shooting dog enthusiast, Dr. McInteer started out hunting quail for the dinner table. That led to a search for better bird finders and eventually participating in field trials. Although Yankee is Dr. McInteer’s first Purina Award winner, he has bred and trained six National Champions earned 53 plus championship placements and won over 450 field trials. Locals roll up their sleeves for Pilger

By Molly Chapple

Many of us have had nightmares involving loss; whether it is the loss of a loved one, a home, a job, a dream. Unfortunately, life isn’t always fair and those nightmares may become reality.

For 350 people living in small-town Nebraska, our nightmares of loss and despair have become everyday life.

On Monday, June 16 two twin tornadoes destroyed the town of Pilger, NE, leaving two dead and at least two dozen injured. Pilger, a town lying east of Norfolk, was hit by two EF-4 tornadoes, which ranged in speed from 166 to 200 mph.

The cyclones, which traveled a 60-mile path, devastated around three-quarters of the town. It was reported that no building on Main Street was untouched by the storm.

Along with numerous homes, the middle school, bank, co-op, convenience store, city hall, fire station, post office, and a church were damaged beyond repair.

Jerry Weatherholt, Stanton County commissioner, estimated that around 75 percent of the houses were damaged, while at least 50 percent were completely devastated.

Five-year-old Calista Dixon wanted to be a doctor. She carried a toy stethoscope with her to check people’s heartbeats. Her life was cut short when the tornadoes swept up her mobile home, leaving her mother in a coma.

David Herout, of Clarkson, NE, died when his vehicle was torn off the road about 2.5 miles east of Pilger. The 74-year-old was report-

After twin tornadoes almost completely ravaged the small town of Pilger, NE, local volunteers open-handedly joined the Red Cross, Salvation Army, and other groups to help repair the damage. edly ejected from his vehicle.

When tragedy strikes, there are always heroes present. Unselfish people who want to help, donate their time and money, and drop everything to assist those in need.

Rock star Bret Michaels visited Pilger for a day to help repair and rebuild the town. The Red Cross, Salvation Army and other area relief groups provided food and supplies to the volunteers and victims.

A group of local people open-handedly donated their time and efforts to help restore the small town of Pilger. On Tuesday June 24, Dan and Katy Gifford, their daughter Anne, Noala Fritz and her son, Ethan, Mara Dungan, Russell Chapman and Lauri Auffert traveled to Pilger to help clean up.

Dan and Katy Gifford arranged the trip and gathered volunteers. Donations to the people of Pilger were collected from community members and dropped off by the volunteers.

“Since I had a bed, a closet full of clothes, and all of my belongings safe at home, it was shocking to meet people who didn’t have anything anymore,” Anne Gifford commented.

The group cleaned a house that had been totally devastated by the dual tornadoes. They separated the drywall and wood from the home. Anne said they would find personal possessions, the few remaining items this family owned. The homeowners came while the group was working and expressed their gratitude.

Volunteer Lauri Auffert was impressed with how organized the volunteer groups were. “They had

I write this column from over 3,500 feet in the air somewhere between Branson, Missouri and Little Rock, Arkansas. I am headed to New Orleans with others from the Falls City Elks Lodge #963. I nearly didn't make this trip because of my fear of flying. For weeks I have managed to ignore the preparation for this trip by working long hours and watching a lot of television. So when I woke up this morning hours from boarding a plane I had not allowed myself time to imagine all the scenarios that possibly happen. This worked out to my advantage. The hives I broke out with were only minimal and started four days before I left instead of a month.

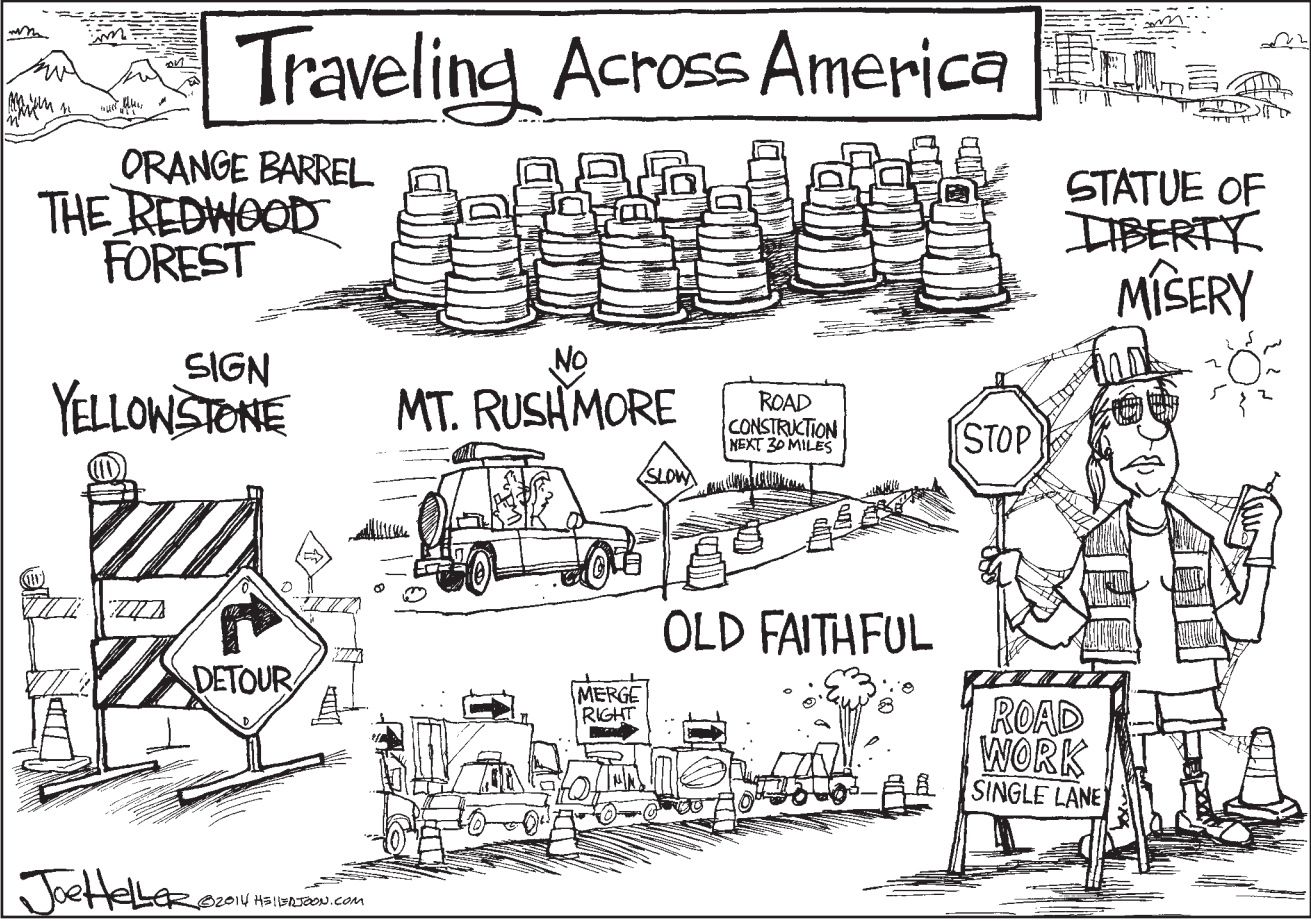

Now that the worst part is behind me, the take off, I have had about 25 minutes to really think of this whole flying business. First off, how insane is it that we live in a world where we find it totally normal and acceptable to spend outrageous amounts of money to load into a sardine can and be launched through the sky at 500 miles per hour? I find it insane and not acceptable in any way shape or form. Do I know this pilot who I am trusting with my life? (Has anyone seen the Denzel Washington film Flight?) No I probably don't. All of these people around me are strangers. Yet we are all practically seated on each others laps expected to deal with the fact that someone may have on to much cologne. That would be the quiet gentleman who is sitting beside me opening and shutting the window shade every 5 seconds. Flying you have to deal with crying babies like the one sitting directly behind me letting out blood curdling screams. Im not angy about this little guy whose name I've heard a dozen times when his mom yells "Charlie, SHHHHH!" I find it comedic that everyone talks about that one crying baby on a place. Poor Charlie is a cliché. Possibly you will be trying to write a column for work while keeping your mind off of being terrified and the man next to you will read what you're typing and notice you said he was both strange and wearing too much cologne, making the last 25 minutes of this flight a bit awkward. Lastly there is that one horrible person who has a Starbucks drink right in front of him, resulting in horrid, foul, intensely strong coffee breath. That horrible person who is drinking coffee at 5:00 p.m. and breathing coffee breath in such close quarters is me. I didn't think this one through. I feel for the nosey cologne man to my right who I keep breathing towards. I tried to breathe through my nose but the cologne is getting to me and our air blowers are not working. Hey its better than that time I hit up an Airport restaurant called Burrito 360. Mexican food before a flight it a horrible thing but in my defense the burrito was delicious and the size of my arm. So worth it was definitely worth it in hindsight.

Did I mention I not only have a fear of flying but I also get motion sickness? It's terrible, in fact I get sick on the swing set in the park.

I just don't believe in flying. I will likely forever be a "American Girl." I like my vacations with a side of 15 hours or more in a car. For starters you're on the ground. Then you have the luxury of stopping to use a rest room if you need to. There is no cramming yourself into a tiny phone booth they call a bathroom while someone yells at you through the door. The fear that scenario evokes is enough to bring me to tears days before a flight.

So really when did we start thinking we as human beings belonged up here among the clouds? We can swim, we can walk but we can't fly. We should take the point. Let the professionals fly while us normal human beings pile up in our cars and see the country. I know driving is more dangerous but it adds to the adventure and the food you find along the way is amazing.

My flight is now starting its decend. Nosey cologne man is now pointing out what we are seeing out the window. Lake Pontchartrain is on the left side of the plane and that right there is the Mississippi he cheerfully tells me. We are now making out the boats on the river. We're landing soon. I survived this flight by writing this column. It was the shortest and smoothest flight of my life. Maybe I was wrong about flying. Maybe its not so bad after all.

Preservationists win some, lose some in Nebraska

Capitol View
By J.L. Schmidt
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

You win some, you lose some. Folks in Lincoln have lost an important piece of history to the University of Nebraska's whims and preservationists in Omaha have apparently lost a battle to save a couple historic buildings from the Mutual of Omaha wrecking ball. Meanwhile, the Saline County Commissioners are to be commended for agreeing to build an appropriate addition to their historic courthouse in Wilber instead of tearing it down and building a new one. Likewise, kudos to the folks in Omaha who are rehabbing the historic Flatiron building west of the Old Market.

Preservationists mounted a campaign to save the Clarinda-Page apartment buildings and several retail buildings earmarked for demolition so Mutual of Omaha can build an office tower and parking lot. But the Omaha City Council gave unanimous approval to removing the landmark status from the buildings, which will clear the way for the project in the popular Midtown area.

The University of Nebraska had already begun demolition of the original Cushman Motorworks plant (opened in 1913) when preservationist Matt Steinhausen started waving a red flag to save the building, which represented early manufacturing in Lincoln. The University had claimed the building was too unstable to save. When Steinhausen saw a 3-ton skid loader operating on the pre-cast concrete second floor, he knew the mission deco style building was better built than anybody thought.

A city planner threatened to halt the University's demolition because they didn't have a proper permit. But, a University spokesman responded that their action was based on past precedent with the city. He added that he would coordinate with the city in the future. The University further said it has no plans for the vacant land.

A 2005 UNL Campus Plan noted that Chancellor Harvey Perlman said the site could become home to an early incarnation of Innovation Campus, where the university would partner with the private sector on research and development in coordination with a research center at the remodeled Whittier Junior High School, which is nearby.

But those plans were later abandoned after UNL secured a new Innovation Campus site at the former Nebraska State Fairgrounds. Preservationists fought to save the Industrial Arts Building on that site after it was named one of the nation's 11 most endangered historic buildings by the National Trust for Historic Preservation in 2011. New innards and a second story are being added to that building's first floor, which has been saved.

Perhaps learning a lesson from the well-publicized Innovation Campus plan that resulted in the historic 4-H and Industrial Arts Buildings being saved, the University was mum on plans for the Cushman buildings. It's hard to make the case for saving a building if nobody knows it's going to be demolished.

Saline County's plans to build a $4.1 million addition to its historic courthouse was approved in May as a reasonable alternative to demolition and construction of a new $12 million courthouse. They say the addition will satisfy modern requirements for safety, security and accessibility while maintaining the integrity of the 86-year-old classical revival style original structure ... and for about a third of the cost. That's the economic argument that is so vital for a positive spin on preservation.

Another positive spin comes from announcement that the historic Flatiron building in downtown Omaha will undergo a $5 million renovation with unoccupied office space being converted into luxury apartments. A new plaza and lighting also are planned for the area. Now, that's pro-active. That's money spent locally on labor and construction materials.

Numerous studies have shown the positive economic impact of historic preservation. That's the message that needs to be delivered in Omaha and Lincoln. What would be even better is for preservationists to put their money where their mouth is and work with developers to finance a project to showcase redevelopment of a building. That entrepreneurial approach has worked in other states.

The other lesson here for preservationists is to be aware of their assets. That realization started when Cushman sold out to a corporate giant in another state, which then cleaned out and folded up shop. Keeping a wary eye on the University, encroaching on the neighborhood from the west, would likewise have provided some cues.

It's time for more wins before Nebraska loses more history.

‘Thinking About Health’

Quiz of the day: Will next year’s insurance rates go up or down?

“Thinking About Health,” is part of the Nebraska Press Association’s partnership with Rural Health News Service, which will provide Nebraskans with unbiased health-related information, designed to help better understand the health issues facing our communities, state and nation.

By Trudy Lieberman, Rural Health News Service

It’s now the silly season for insurance rates with government agencies, consulting groups, and the media all speculating about next year’s premiums. Will your insurance premiums go up or down this fall? Never before have I seen such intense interest in insurance rates which editors have usually considered a snoozer of a story.

It’s no wonder, though, that insurance rates are hot news. They’ve become as politicized as the Affordable Care Act itself. Supporters of Obamacare have focused on what people pay for health coverage—remember all that stuff about it being affordable? And opponents? Well they jump into overdrive when any shred of evidence points to higher rates. So what’s really going on?

For starters you’re apt to hear a lot of talk about average increases or decreases. Forget about them! Averages are just that---averages. That reminds me of the old joke: Did you hear about the statistician who put her head in the oven and her feet in the refrigerator? She said, “On average I feel just fine.”

Although Obamacare supporters, opponents, and state insurance regulators use them to indicate a general direction of where rates are headed and sometimes twist them to suit the political points they want to score, most of us don’t pay average rates. “The end game is the actual rate someone pays,” says Jim O’Connor, an actuary with the consulting firm Milliman. The increases themselves, he adds, don’t tell you which policy has the most affordable rate. Some people will pay higher premiums in 2015; others will pay less.

What premiums a company charges for next year will depend somewhat on what it charged this year. O’Conner explained that a carrier which charged high rates in 2014 may be asking for lower rates for 2015 to make its policies more competitive. Insurers that sold coverage with lower premiums last year in an effort to grab market share may be raising them for the next round.

In those cases, a company may have experienced a lot of sick people signing up for coverage. That means a lot of claims to pay and the need for higher premiums next year. Remember insurance companies are not charitable institutions.

In Colorado, for instance, Denver Health, a safety net health system, has asked for a 17.5 percent increase in premiums because it says they have been taking care of really sick patients and that requires more resources such as medications and testing. Access Colorado has also asked for a hefty 22 percent increase, but another carrier Colorado HealthOP wants to cut its rates by 10 percent.

O’Connor told me that pattern is pretty typical in most states.

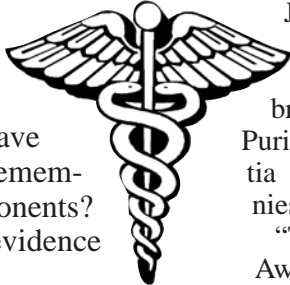

Is Obamacare to blame for the rate increases many will see?

The answer to that requires some understanding of how premiums are set. Determining rates involves a complicated mix of variables, which include the cost of medical care that continues to rise although at a somewhat slower pace than in past, the number of sick people in a company’s risk pool, and now the impact of the pricey hepatitis C drug Sovaldi.

But Obamacare does play a role, too. Government fees imposed on carriers will boost premiums for some and so will the beginning of a phase-out of government payments that the ACA called for to help out insurers. The “transition” program for people who had old policies with non-standard benefits also plays a large part.

Most states allow consumers with those old policies to keep them until 2017, and insurers think the ones keeping them are healthy and young. Sick older people are trading them in for new coverage. Depending on how many have switched, that alone could add as much as 15 to 20 percent to a premium.

The old advice about shopping around still stands and will be super important for those with exchange policies. To help out consumers, avoid last year’s marketplace meltdown, and keep people insured, it might be too easy to find yourself with a high-priced policy you don’t want or can’t afford. Buyer beware may be the best advice for now.

president from 2001 to 2003.

As the owner of the Purina Top Shooting Dog Amateur Award winner, Dr. McInteer received an original oil painting of Yankee by artist Ross Young. He also received the traditional green sporting blazer awarded to the owners and handlers of Purina Top Shooting Dog Award winners and a year’s supply of Purina Pro Plan SPORT Performance 30/20 Formula - the food that powers Yankee - for one dog.

The winners were recognized June 20 at the Purina Top Shooting Dog Award Banquet held at The Thoroughbred Center in Lexington, KY. Purina Area Manager Pat Laman-tia served as master of ceremonies.

“The Purina Top Shooting Dog Award program recognizes the finest dogs and handlers who have attained the most points in yearlong shooting dog stakes,” he said. It is our honor at Purina to sponsor this award program and to pay tribute to these celebrated winners.”

The winners of the Top Shooting Dog Awards are determined based on the number of points a dog earns at Purina Point events, which is calculated according to the number of dogs entered. During shooting dog horseback field trials, dogs are judged on their ground application and the way they handle game. Scores are tabulated by Mike Husenits, a member of the Purina Top Shooting Dog Committee, from the official records of the American Field Publishing Co. and are verified by the Purina Award Committee. Points are accumulated from April 30 of consecutive years.

On hand for the Purina Award banquet were members of the Purina Top Shooting Dog Committee: Dwight Smith of Norwood, NC, Mike Husenits of West Lebanon, PA, and emeritus member Ray Jeffers of Cedartown, GA. Bernie Matthys, publisher of American Field, serves as an advisor.

gloves, boots, masks, hats, etc. if you didn’t have your own. It was very well set up. They had trailers full of tools, ladders and wheelbarrows that you would check out and use. Safety was their main concern,” she stated.

After cleaning up the home, the volunteer groups walked around the town and assisted the families in cleaning up wherever they could.

“We saw houses that were totally gone, and across the street houses would only be missing a couple windows,” Anne remembered. “It was touching to see families so thankful for our help, and families helping other families.”

It is enlightening to see people helping in times of trouble. There are always heroes present, and many of those heroes are right here in Falls City. That’s the beauty of small-town USA. There are always people who want to keep giving back.

Auffert said she would love to return to Pilger and continue restoring the town. “I went because I cannot imagine going through something like that and I had the time. I would love to go back.”

Dear Fellow Nebraskans:

The recent Bio International Convention in San Diego drew stakeholders from around the world zeroing in on issues and cutting-edge research and technologies that will impact and shape our world for decades to come.

Representatives from the Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED), Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, University of Nebraska, Innovation Campus, UNeMed, University Nebraska Medical Center, as well as private industry members from Benchmark Biolabs and Nature Technologies attended on behalf of Nebraska.

A sampling of forums at Bio International included Biofuels & Renewable Chemicals, Personalized Medicine & Diagnostics, R/ Evolution of Agriculture Technologies, Regenerative Medicine, Vaccines and Immunotherapeutics. All of these topics are woven throughout Nebraska’s goals to grow healthy, happy, productive communities.

For example, a team of University of Nebraska-Lincoln scientists recently received a four-year, $1.9 million grant from the National Institutes of Health and the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases to begin the next research phase toward what may ultimately result in a breakthrough vaccine for people with HIV. The number affected by this disease is now estimated at more than 35 million with 2.5 million new infections recorded yearly.

An Omaha biotech start-up company is paving the way to create a new tool that may help combat antibiotic resistance worldwide. One of its very first applications may be for treating methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus more commonly known as MRSA, which often leads to serious and often deadly infections. The company is working toward creation of a new drug application for animals with the ultimate goal of an application for humans.

An Omaha biomedical startup is developing technology to simplify orthopedic surgeries. The $3.2 million capital the company raised included $500,000 from Invest Nebraska Corporation, which partners with DED among other organizations.

Nebraska has enjoyed a favorable uptick of 1,000 or more jobs in the wide-ranging biotechnology field from 2007-2012 according to the Battelle/BIO State Bioscience Jobs, Investments and Innovation 2014 study.

I am proud of the fact that Nebraska was named 3rd in Biotechnology Strength Specialization Leaders, and in the Top 10 in Biotechnology Strength Emerging Biotech Hubs by Business Facilities in the past two years.

During my years as Governor, we have recognized and fully supported the ongoing need for and development of bioscience and medical technology companies by providing financial assistance in the form of the Nebraska Small Business Innovation Research Initiative, Nebraska Innovation Fund, and Nebraska Research and Development Program. Nebraska is home to approximately 106 biotechnology companies targeting Agricultural & Animal Health, Biofuels & Chemicals, Medical Devices & Equipment, Drugs & Pharmaceuticals, and Research, Testing & Medical Facilities or Laboratories.

Bob Campbell, of Falls City, caught this monster blue catfish in the Missouri River last Wednesday. The fish weighed in around 91 pounds. The monster catfish was around 52 1/2 inches long and ate a live baitfish. Bob caught the fish in only four or five feet of water. Once the fish was hooked, Bob and his fishing partner had to follow it down river for awhile before grabbing it by the jaw and pulling it in.

Community Action of NE launches statewide survey

Community Action of Nebraska will be mailing 10,000 surveys to residents all across Nebraska. The survey aims to discover the most pressing challenges Nebraskans face so that the Community Action agencies across the state will be better equipped to address those challenges.

This survey is different from the Census survey. Those selected for the survey were chosen at random from among the residents of Nebraska and are encouraged to complete and return the survey as soon as possible. Each person’s responses are important because they represent other households similar to their own who will not receive a copy of the survey.

Southeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership and other community action agencies across the state have worked closely with Wayne State College to develop the survey which asks questions that focus on food and nutrition. The survey is funded by the Community Action agencies of Nebraska and the Department of Health and Human Services.

Community Action agencies are private, non-profit organizations dedicated to helping low-income people attain economic stability in all 93 counties of Nebraska. The surveys will be arriving in peoples’ mailboxes the first or second week of July. If you receive a survey, please complete and return it as soon as possible. Each person’s responses are very important to help present a more accurate picture of life in Nebraska.

For more information about the survey, please contact Community Action of Nebraska, (402) 471-3714. For more information about services provided by SENCA, please contact the SENCA Central Office in Humboldt at 402-862-2411 or 888-313-5608.

Building a culture of healthy communities in Nebraska

By John L. Roberts, MA., Executive Director
Nebraska Rural Health Association

Health is about more than access to high quality care. The conditions that influence health in our workplaces, our schools and our communities are as important as access to health insurance, a doctor's office, or a hospital.

The annual release of the County Health Rankings, a collaboration between the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and the University of Wisconsin Population Health Institute, reports on these conditions and their effect on a communities health factors.

This collaborative project shows us that the conditions impacting how well and how long residents live are connected to a multitude of factors beyond medical care. The Rankings allow each state to see how its counties compare on 29 factors including smoking, high school graduation rates, employment, physical inactivity, access to healthy foods, and much more.

The Rankings show us that where we live matters to our health. The report can motivate community leaders and citizens to work together in new and creative ways to build a culture of health and improve their own lives, and the lives of their neighbors. The Roadmaps offered in the report give communities resources to move from awareness to sustainable change for the better. The County Health Rankings & Roadmaps website is available for anyone at www.countyhealthrankings.org

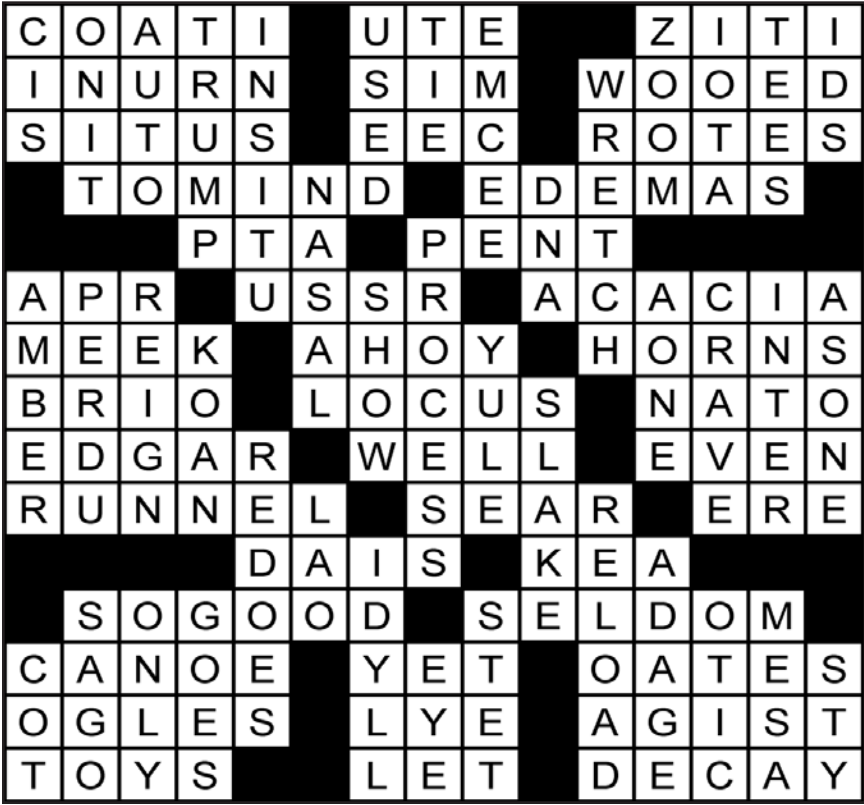

Most rural counties rank below average in health status. You might think this data should make rural health care providers defensive. But as Paul Harvey often said, here is the "rest of the story." When you look at the factors that determine health status—how long we live, how well we feel—health care is of course important, but not the only driver to wellbeing. We know that individual behaviors like smoking and exercising matter, and when we look at the data, we see for example that on average, more adults still smoke in rural communities as compared to suburban and even urban areas and have less access to opportunities to exercise.

The Rankings also teach us that education, jobs and income matter to how long and how well people live, and our rural communities tend to have higher rates of unemployment and childhood poverty. The cumulative effect can be, quite literally, deadly.

Quite a few rural Nebraska counties are doing something right, even in the face of disproportionate challenges. Does this let rural healthcare providers off the hook? Not at all. No single person or organization can tackle this problem alone. Healthcare reform is part of the answer, but it is not enough to accomplish real and total community health reform.

What we care about most deeply is our health and the health of our family, friends and neighbors. When that caring translates into a priority across the whole community, health improves and medical costs decline.

Across Nebraska and across the country, communities are using the Rankings to understand the health challenges they face, and create local solutions to address them. The Rankings underscore how important it is to build a culture of health where we work together to make sure that everyone—young and old in rural communities and urban neighborhoods—can have an opportunity to live a long and healthy life.

Travelers 18s second in Class B

3-Man, 2-Day
this weekend

By Jason Schock

The Falls City Travelers 18-and-Under Softball Team last weekend in Norfolk didn't add another State Championship trophy to the program's coffers — like the 16s did one week prior — but made some Travelers history nonetheless, finishing runner-up at the 20-team ASA Class B Tournament. It's the highest finish ever in Class B for the 18-year program with 1,100-plus victories to its credit.

FC went 5-2 over the course of three days (officially 6-2 because of a forfeit win), losing only to the hometown state champion Norfolk Golden Girls, 7-4 Saturday night and 3-2 Sunday in what could've been — in the event of a Travelers victory — the first game of a championship doubleheader.

The Travelers outscored its seven opponents 41-17 to improve to 37-8 on the season, but if jaw-dropping numbers are what you're after, look no further than No. 9. That's what adorns the jersey of pitcher/third baseman Claire Poppe and while it's a team game, No. 9 by-and-large carried the FC nine in Norfolk.

Numbers don't lie: 6 homers in seven games, 16 RBI, .579 batting average. Entering Sunday, having beaten Hastings Crush (8-2) on Friday, Yutan (5-0) Saturday and falling to Norfolk GG Saturday night, Poppe was 7-of-9 (.778) and had driven in 11 of her team's 17 runs.

It must be something about ASA's biggest events. A year ago at Class C in Lexington, Poppe hit home runs in four-straight games and finished with five dingers and a .524 batting average.

She was similarly in a zone on the mound. In the 5-0 win over Yutan, Poppe (3-1 pitching over the weekend) had a perfect game going through three innings and eventually scattered just three singles in seven innings, striking out nine — in-

WHAMMY! The Falls City Travelers 18-and-Unders may have been the second-best team in Norfolk at the ASA Class B State Tournament over the weekend, but there was little question they also had the best player. Claire Poppe, who hit .524 with five home runs in the 2013 Class C Tourney in Lexington, somehow improved on those numbers one year later, hitting .579 with six homers and 16 RBI. Entering Sunday's games, Poppe was hitting .778 and had driven in 11 of her team's 17 runs. The term is "Ruthian." (Look it up, girls.)

cluding the last three batters she faced — while issuing not one walk. It proved to be the first of two complete game shutout victories for her, and in neither did any batter receive a free pass. In a 4-0 win over Oakland-Craig Rockets, which sent FC to the championship, Poppe was perfect through seven batters and eventually struck out six. Oakland saw three girls reach base in seven innings and just one reached third.

Poppe retired the final 10 batters in order, three by K.

The Travelers' other starting pitcher, Kirstyn Buchholz (2-1), was similarly untouchable at times for the Travelers, though she didn't always get the same defensive assistance at did her teammate. In the 8-2 Friday afternoon win over Hastings Crush, Buchholz surrendered a lead-off single, but struck out four consecutive batters to end the first inning and start the second. Buchholz retired the side in order in both the second and fifth innings and Hastings didn't get into scoring position until the sixth and final inning. She struck out seven and didn't walk a soul.

The Travelers, which won its league tournament in Humboldt with a 3-1 victory over Tecumseh on July 9, go to Topeka, KS, Thursday for the four-day USSSA Class C World Series to finish the 2014 season.

FC 8, Hastings Crush 2

Friday afternoon, Poppe drilled a three-run homer in the first and finished 3-for-4 with five RBI and three runs scored. Shortstop Syd Merz was 3-for-3 with a double and a walk and Buchholz scored twice to help her cause on the hill. FC stranded 11 runners, which proved to be an ominous sign of things to come.

FC 5, Yutan 0

FC earned a forfeit win, so didn't face Yutan until Saturday afternoon. Poppe pitched perhaps the game of the year and helped her cause by going 2-for-3 with a two-run double to open the game and a two-run single in the third. FC added one in the sixth when Chelsea Rapp walked and scored on back-to-back singles by Meredith Poppe and Cassie Tharp.

Norfolk GG 7, FC 4

Buchholz allowed just five hits and two earned, and FC led 2-0 after two innings. In the first, catcher Brooke Scheitel hit a one-out single and scored on a hit by Tressa Chandler. At that point, FC had bases loaded with one out, but failed to capitalize, getting fanned back-to-back to end the threat. In the second, Tharp dropped a one-out bunt single and scored on a two-out double by Buchholz.

But a two-run NGG homer in the third tied the game and a quartet of errors in the fourth and fifth innings saw Norfolk build a 6-2 lead.

Poppe hit a two-run homer in the fifth,

but the damage had been done.

FC 14, Tekamah-Herman 2

Early Sunday morning, FC's bats were alive and well: Armbruster, 2-for-4, 2 doubles, RBI, 2 runs; Scheitel, 1-for-2, RBI, 2 walks, 2 runs; Buchholz, 3-for-4, 2 RBI, 3 runs; Claire Poppe, 2-for-4, 3 RBI, 2 runs; Tressa Chandler, 2-for-4, 3 RBI, double, 2 runs; Meredith Poppe, 3-for-4, RBI, run scored.

C. Poppe struck out seven and walked one in five innings.

FC 4, Columbus Bullets 3

Poppe reached all four times to the plate, hitting a two-out, two-run homer in the top of the first and providing what would be the game-winning RBI in the seventh. Scheitel led off the seventh with a double and Poppe scored her with a one-out single to left.

In the bottom half, Bullets had the tying run on second with just one out, but left fielder Tressa Chandler pulled down consecutive flyouts to preserve the win.

FC 4, Oakland-Craig Rockets 0

In the third game Sunday, if Poppe had previously pitched the game of the year a day earlier against Yutan, this one wasn't far behind.

FC went up 2-0 in the third when Meredith Poppe and Tharp each singled and scored. Claire hit a solo homer to open the fourth to make it 3-0, and FC got its final insurance run in the bottom of the sixth when Armbruster hit a one-out single to center and scored on a two-out single by Buchholz.

Norfolk GG 3, FC 2

In the finals, Armbruster hit a lead-off single and made her way to third, but FC wouldn't see another positive offensive play until the fifth inning. Armbruster got stranded on an inning-ending strikeout of Poppe and FC went in order in the second, third and fourth.

Meanwhile, NGG led 2-0 (could've been far worse - the team left bases loaded in the first and two on in the second). A two-out rally in the top of the sixth made it 3-0. Again, though, runners were stranded at second and third.

FC, always just one swing of Claire's bat away, made things interesting in the sixth. Armbruster doubled to left to start the inning. Two outs threatened a repeat of the first inning, but Poppe, uncharacteristically 0-for-2 on the day, came up and drilled No. 6 to left-center.

Travelers got NGG in order in the seventh, setting up a potential dramatic walk-off win. Center fielder Katie Meyer led off with a single to center, but it wasn't meant to be. A fly out to right, then Meredith grounded to short and NGG got Meyer on the force at second. With Meredith at first, Tharp grounded to second to end the game. Almost as if on cue, the storm clouds that had threatened the previous hour or so completely opened up - soaking everything, including Norfolk's victory celebration.

season with walk-off thriller

The Falls City Blue Storm Senior baseball team captured a dramatic 4-3 home victory over Silver Lake Sunday afternoon and will take momentum and a 19-10 record into the Class B-1 Area District Tournament in Syracuse. FC will open against the hosts at 8 p.m. Friday, July 18.

The game was tied at three entering the bottom half of the seventh inning at SNC Field, as center fielder Tyler DiGiacomo led the inning off with a walk and advanced to second on a sac bunt by shortstop Chaz Dunn. After second baseman Rudy Vrtiska line out to second to make the second out, first baseman Chase Thompson came to the plate, having gone 0-for-2 with a walk. Thompson turned on a 1-2 pitch, driving it down the left field line, scoring DiGiacomo to win the game.

It was the first win of July for Falls City, which had lost three games to Seward (6-4), Sabetha (6-5) and Doniphan County (2-0) by a combined total of five runs. Before Sunday, FC had last won on June 27 over Nebraska City.

A win over Syracuse Friday sends FC to the 7:30 p.m. Saturday game against either EMN Nationals or Auburn. With a loss to Syracuse, FC would play at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The District Tournament runs through Tuesday, July 22. Goto www.fcjournal.net to get up-to-the-hour results of Blue Storm baseball at the Class B-1 District Tournament in Syracuse.

FC Swim Team 2nd in league

The Falls City Barracuda swim team earned a second place finish at the Sunflower League Swim Meet. Sabetha's 96 swimmers won the title with 1,135 points.

Falls City was the smallest team at the meet with 35 swimmers, but the Barracudas scored 511.5 points for second. Marysville's 79 swimmers placed third with 492 points. That is now the second time in three years that Falls City has beaten Marysville for second place at the league swim meet. Hiawatha's 42 swimmers finished fourth with 375 points, and Seneca's 37 swimmers rounded out the competition with 221.5

In the 8 and under division, Vaughn Lenard was the league champion in breaststroke (27.46) and in the individual medley (2:17.94). In the 9-10 division, Carson Bredemeier took first in backstroke (18.97), butterfly (16.47), and individual medley (1:30.09). Caden Simon won the freestyle (14.38), Sloan Lenard won the backstroke (19.65), and Kiefer Salimo won the butterfly (18.45). Kade, Caden, Sloan, and Kiefer teamed up to win the medley relay (1:14.14) and the freestyle relay (1:00.66).

In the 13-14 division, Hannah Kirkendall was the league champion in extended freestyle (1:15.84), and Azlynia Lenard was the league champion in backstroke (39.56). The Falls City swim team will have its annual potluck and awards celebration at 7 p.m. Wednesday (July 16) at the gazebo next to the Aquatic Center, with a pool party to follow until 10.

The Society will look for additional funding to maintain the monument site, possibly from the Brown County Historical Society.

Book of Gaia in Brownville Aug. 1-2

The Brownville Concert Series is thrilled to bring the best of Kansas City Jazz, Book of Gaia. They will perform in cabaret Friday and Saturday, Aug. 1-2 at 7:30 and in concert on Sunday, Aug. 3 at 2 p.m.

Book of Gaia is a female vocal ensemble featuring Angela Hagenbach, Nedra Dixon, and Pamela Baskin-Watson. They dynamically weave together eclectic musical genres from the classical to the contemporary with an added touch of spoken word, all infused with a jazz sensibility. Their sophisticated arrangements, original compositions and intricate harmonies engage the ear, elevate the mind and stir the soul. Mixing masterful musicianship with the sheer joy of performing, they magically turn an ordinary evening into a captivating and powerful musical experience.

We give special thanks to Annie Thomas, Dr. Charles & Carole James, and Jan Chism Wright in Honor of David Wright for helping to sponsor these concerts.

Angela Hagenbach is one of those rare jazz vocalists who finds more in a song than the composer penned. She’s owner of AH Entertainment, Inc. and Eden’s Gate’s Music. She has produced and released multiple recordings earning critical praise. Angela’s sultry contralto voice moves easily between musical genres and excels in her interpretations of Jazz Standards and Latin Jazz. Widely known as a masterful interpreter of songs written by others, Hagenbach is an accomplished songwriter in her own right.

Pamela Baskin-Watson is a multi-faceted pianist, vocalist, published composer-arranger and educator. She honed her skills in New York City as a freelance accompanist. As an educator, she taught at the notable Harlem School of the Arts where she founded and directed the Vocal Jazz program. As a composer/arranger, she has works recorded by notable jazz musicians and has also written musical theater. Since moving back to the Midwest, Ms. Watson continues her work as accompanist/vocalist/educator.

Nedra Dixon, classically trained lyric soprano and currently, “Featured Vocalist” on 12th STREET JUMP, Kansas City, MO’s NPR affiliated weekly broadcast jazz radio show, is known as a “triple threat” performer (actor/singer/dancer) and she is a director/choreographer. She has received critical acclaim in venues from Broadway and Off-Broadway, to the concert stage, and in NY, D.C. and LA cabaret hotspots.

Cabaret tickets are $25, concert tickets are $19 ($15 for students). To purchase tickets online go to www.brownvilleconcertseries.com or call 402-825-3331. Stay overnight at the River Inn Resort and get a 10% discount on tickets. Eat dinner at the Lyceum before the show and get a free dessert with your ticket. This Series is a program of the Brownville Fine Arts Association. The Nebraska Arts Council (www.nebraskaartscouncil.org), a state agency, supports this program through a matching grant funded by the Nebraska Legislature, the National Endowment for the Arts and the Nebraska Cultural Endowment.

Great summer road trip activities for kids

(StatePoint) While the saying “getting there is half the fun” is a great concept in theory, in practice, a road trip can be quite stressful on families. But with a bit of smart packing and preparation, you can make your long summer road trips and shorter commutes more entertaining for kids.

This summer, be sure to stock your car with some great activities and books.

Science Fun

Science and fun can go hand-in-hand, especially in the car. Try the middle-grade adventure series “Nick and Tesla,” which follows the adventures of two tween siblings who use their inventions to solve mysteries. The series is co-authored by “Science Bob” Pflugfelder, an award-winning elementary school science teacher and regular guest on “Jimmy Kimmel Live,” and Steven Hockensmith, a former journalist.

Their latest book, “Nick and Tesla’s Secret Agent Gadget Battle,” features a riveting mystery plot as well as easy-to-follow instructions and diagrams to recreate the devices the characters use to solve their conundrums.

With this action-packed book in your arsenal, kids won’t even realize when you’re stuck in bumper-to-bumper traffic! Information about the series can be found at www.NickandTesla.com.

A Novel Idea

There is no better way to kill time than with one of the oldest forms of entertainment -- a novel. Teens can check out “Hollow City,” the sequel to the 2011 best seller, “Miss Peregrine’s Home for Peculiar Children.”

A mix of fantasy and vintage photography, this book aims to mesmerize young readers into a state of perpetual road trip complacency. For more information, visit www.quirkbooks.com/hollowcity.

Fun and Games

Take Tic Tac Toe to the next level with “Tic Tac Tome.” No apps, batteries or touch screens are required to enjoy this addictive “book that will beat you in tic-tac-toe.”

Created by Willy Yonkers, the lead industrial designer at ThinkGeek, Inc., it features more than 1400 pages, hundreds of draws and losses, and only one way for a reader to win each game. Take this one along for a guaranteed distraction from the boredom of endless highway. Visit www.quirkbooks.com/book/tic-tac-tome to learn more.

When it comes to road tripping, don’t leave home without a comprehensive toolkit. Drinks and snacks will keep bellies full, but brain food in the form of books and activities is a great solution to put the brakes on that age old question -- “are we there yet?”

What's Hiding All Around Us?

I live by the ocean. When birds swoop too near or people's feet come too close, I quickly bury myself in the mud. You may see a tiny ripple and some air bubbles in the sand where I have "disappeared."

When you scurry through woods or fields, near ponds or in your own yard, you miss many creatures of nature. Try walking very slowly. Creep at a snail's pace. If you are very quiet, you will have many surprises. Living things are hiding all around you!

Read the clues to fill in the BIG crossword:

- has a stiff back and dark coloring – looks like a floating log in the swamp
- these babies in a nest are often the same color as twigs and branches: brown, striped, spotted
- gila _____ hide in saguaro cacti to stay out of the heat (New Mexico) and keep safe from coyotes, hawks, snakes
- hide in base of hollowed out trees to keep out of sight from bobcats, coyotes while sleeping all day
- brown fur lets them hide in fields and sneak up on prey
- stay hidden in trees; sleep until the sun goes down, then hunt for food
- tree _____ hide from birds, snakes; green skin blends with leaves, pond scum, lily pads
- live in trees; can change color to match the green or brown leaves they are on
- have shells to protect their soft bodies; pull back inside their shells to escape danger
- may blend in with flowers or dead leaves so that hungry birds pass by them
- hide in mud; only eyes and nostrils show; shells can look like a rocks in the water
- boneless sea creatures; change their skin color or patterns; squirt 'ink' to escape

How Do Animals Hide?

I had to run away quickly to keep from being eaten, but Mother Nature has wisely given her creatures many ways to protect themselves.

Some animals:

- puff up to appear larger
- play "dead"
- blend into the tall grasses or snow
- taste bad or are poisonous
- run swiftly or leap great distances
- use "false eyes" which are not eyes at all, but look like them

Can you match each insect below to one way it protects itself?
(Hint: Use each of the answers twice.)

- ladybird beetle (lady bug)
- bee
- caterpillar of the swallowtail butterfly
- wasp
- monarch butterfly
- cecropia silkworm moth

A. scares with false 'eyes'

B. tastes bad

C. stings

Who Am I?

My hard, bony back helps to protect me from bears, coyotes and other animals.

You might not be able to see me, but I can see you!

Follow the dots to see me.

Can You See Us?

I'm eating my lunch in this cool, moist spot. Follow the color key to color in the puzzle to see me:

G = Green
Y = Yellow
B = Brown

I am a _____.

Can you see me? I am an _____.

Merz reported the total amount raised was just under $11,000. The winner of the Poker Run was Jake Babb (photographed with Merz), of Falls City. Kyle Dishong, Falls City, won the TSMF demo car.
