Presumed runaway missing since June 28

By Molly Chapple

A 16-year-old Falls City girl reported missing was, as of Monday evening, last seen some 10 days ago, according to her mother.

Sarah Norton, of Falls City, was last seen on Saturday, June 28, at her home at 212 W. 10th St., according to her mother, Veronica Hall.

Sarah Norton

At the time, Sarah was serving house arrest in connection with past incidents of running away from home. She was wearing an ankle monitor, and Hall said that she was usually notified if the monitor transmitted a signal. However, shortly after Norton went missing, a neighbor found the ankle monitor hidden on the neighbor's property, underneath a lawnmower. Sarah had apparently cut it off before fleeing Falls City. Norton failed to appear at a court date last Wednesday regarding her probation.

According to her mother, Norton doesn't have a car, so it is possible that someone met her and picked her up.

When contacted by The Journal Monday, Hall said she has no idea where her daughter might be, or whom she might be with, but believes she probably left Falls City.

For Hall, this has been a nightmare she wants to end.

"I just want her to come home and I want her to be safe. I just want to know if she is safe," she pleaded.

Sarah Norton is 5 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs around 220 pounds. She has red hair and brown eyes. Anyone with information about her whereabouts should call the Falls City Police Department immediately at (402)

Sauces & Cycles a winner for Main Street FC

Darren Warth was all smiles as he walked down Stone Street with the last of his award-winning burnt end brisket tips.

Warth had a reason to smile. The day before he made his way to Falls City, he placed third in the Brisket category in Whiting, IA, and went home $10,000 richer after being named the Grand Champion.

Warth and other barbecue enthusiasts from as far away as Louisiana lined Stone Saturday morning to participate in the first annual "Falls City Sauce and Cycles" competition. The event, hosted by Main Street Falls City, brought in hundreds of eager barbecue fans.

Warth and his wife Sherrie competed the day before in Iowa, then high-tailed it to Falls City. Ranked third in the nation by the Sam's/Kansas City Barbecue Society, Warth has reached celebrity status with his Iowa's Smokey D's BBQ team.

"We've been doing it for 10 years. I don't have a clue how many we've cooked in but it's got to be three or four hundred," Warth said. "We've cooked in 17 competitions this year and won seven so far." When asked how this team which has been featured on and won TLC's hit show "Pit masters" made it to Falls City, Warth credited Chamber Director David Branch. "We were actually at an event in Council Bluffs and David was up promoting the contest so we said, sure and we were the first ones to sign up."

It wasn't passion that started this team, it was deer sausage.

"I went to pick up our deer sausage and it was $1,200 and I'm going I should be able to do this, so I went on the Internet to find out how to smoke deer sausage and I found competition barbecue. So my wife and I started a team and after about three years we started a catering business and now we own three restaurants."

The Iowa's Smokey D's team doesn't use anything fancy or crazy. They like to keep it simple with one key ingredient.

"I like to use Jalapeno salt from one of my sponsors, Big Papa's Smokers, out of California. It's not heat, it's not spicy, and it's a natural flavor."

Jalapeno Salt proved to be the winning ingredient for Darren and his wife; they finished big, taking home their second consecutive Grand Championship.

The locals also proved to be heavy hitters in the Sanctioned (Professional) competition. Matt and Danelle Cromer, of "Crome's Smoke," did very well in their first competition.

"We've done quite a bit of cooking for people. We like this sort of thing so we decided we would give it a try and see what happens" said Danelle. "We keep it pretty basic."

Basic worked for Crome's Smoke, placing second in the Brisket category, upsetting the nationally ranked "Iowa's Smokey D's."

Jason Mackey's "SunMart" team also did well in the professional category, placing sixth in both Ribs and Brisket.

Local teams also dominated the backyard grillers category. Allen Phroper of "Big Al's BBQ" has been barbecuing for about three years. This was his first competition and Phroper said, "It sounded like a lot of fun so why not?" He barbecues because it's a passion. Big Winners in the Backyard Grillers were announced later in the night to a massive crowd. Mitch and Julie Sailors and Brandon Liberty's team "Limp Brisket" won second in the pork category and took first in the overall division. Jeff Fankhauser and his team "Up in Smoke" took home second in Ribs, while Todd Finner, formerly of Falls City, placed first. The people's choice winner was Jason Mackey and his "SunMart" team who also placed

Council weathers storm of criticism, stands firmly on fire dept. decision

By Jason Schock and Nikki McKim

As storm clouds swirled above Falls City Monday, inside City Hall its City Council weathered a storm of criticism before seemingly bringing an end to the possible future of a full-time paid fire department.

After hearing a passionate plea from members of the FC Volunteer Fire Department and another 15 or so vocal supporters to reconsider a June decision to not replace retired fireman Ralph Gilkerson, the Council's silence spoke volumes. By not taking another vote, or even tabling the discussion, the Council is seemingly set on the City moving strictly to an all-volunteer fire dept.

This, about two months removed from a 7-1 vote to replace Gilkerson and keep two paid drivers on the department.

On May 5 of this year, against the recommendation of City Administrator Gary Jom, the Council voted overwhelmingly

STATE CHAMPS!

The Falls City Travelers 16-Under Team won the Class C ASA State Tourney on its home turf last weekend, beating Fairbury 12-2 in Sunday's final on Hartman Field. The 12-team tournament was the first of its kind held in Falls City and made possible by the recent ballpark renovation. FC beat Creighton 10-7 Friday, took out Todd's Feed of Sutton 8-5 Saturday and then Sunday morning defeated Fairbury 5-4 to advance to the finals, where a rematch with Fairbury proved to be no match at all. FC improved to 24-9 on the season, which wraps up this week at the league tournament in Humboldt.

Elegance and Comfort... with a Modern Spin

Last Saturday I was lucky enough to be asked to be a judge for the backyard grillers portion of the Falls City Sauce and Cycle’s competition. Now I can go ahead and cross barbecue judge off of my bucket list. In my fantasy it would be great. I would be sitting at a table with heaps of brisket, ribs and chicken in front of me. I’d eat until I was sick and then stumble home for bed. In reality things were very different.

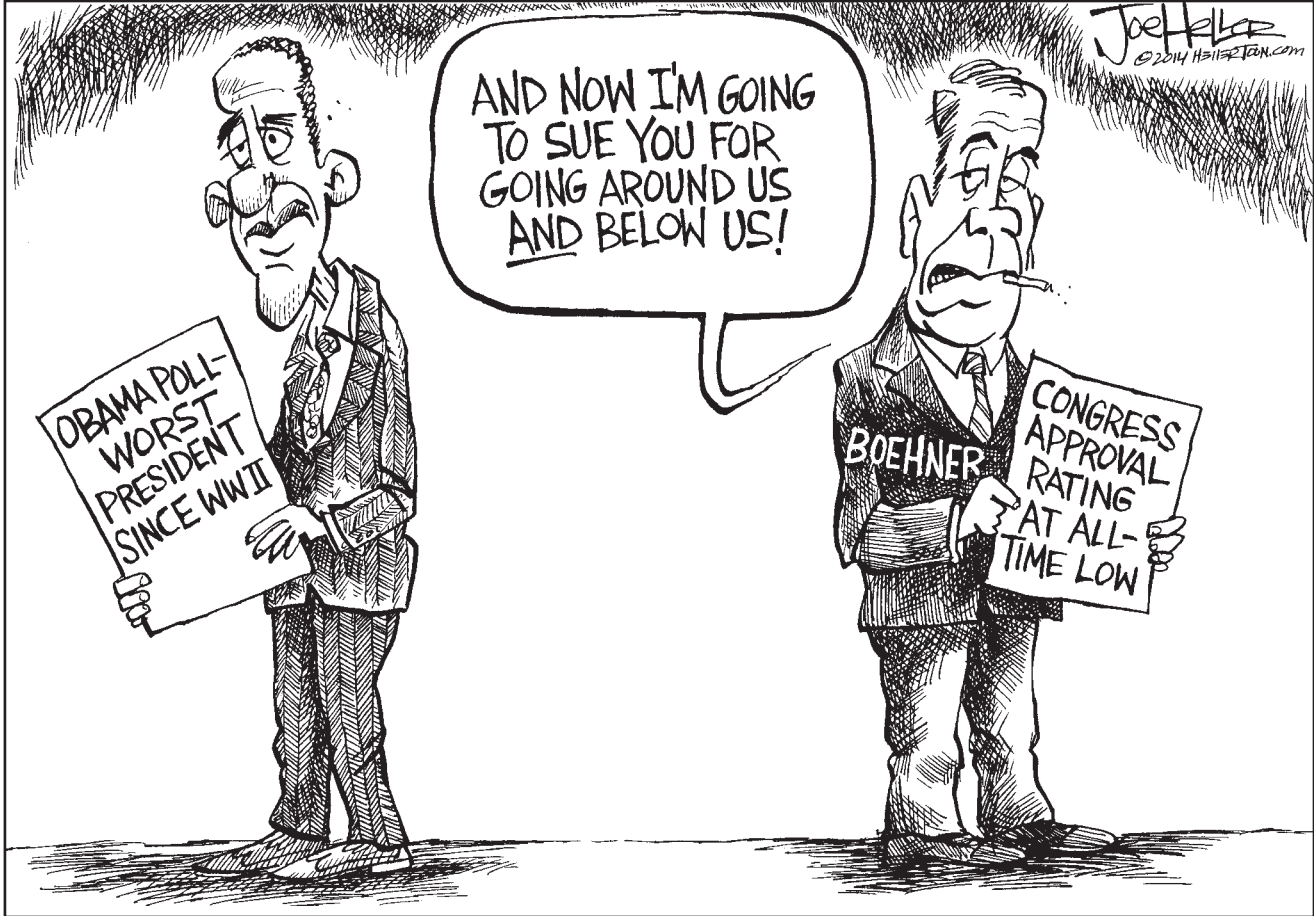

This competition was not your regular backyard barbecue contest. This was serious. I was judging with professionals. Actually they were more than professionals, some dawned shirts with the words “Master Judge” embroidered on the pocket. They had badges and ID numbers; I was clearly out of my league. As I sat down I was approached by one of the Kansas City Barbecue Society Master Judges. He wanted to educate me on what it really means to judge barbeque.

First I would need to know that my personal taste doesn’t matter. If I liked my barbecue with a sweeter rub, that wouldn’t matter. Next I would have to get rid of that Iced Tea I brought with me. You only get water and your bottle needed to be closed and on it’s side as they pass out the food. Our table captain was a lovely man who was more than happy to teach me how to properly judge. He sat down pulled out his zip lock bag with a wet washcloth, cleaned his hands and proceeded to tell me the rules. The phrase “Do not lick your fingers!” echoed through my head over and over. I’ve grown up licking BBQ sauce off of my fingers; it’s a way of life. He was incredibly stern on this rule. In fact there were a few times I’d be reaching my fingers to my mouth in a moment of not realizing what I was doing and he would catch me. The table captain then brought the entries over in their Styrofoam containers and sat them down. They would then open each entry and let you judge on the appearance. A score of a 2 was inedible and 9 was perfection. The contestant could use lettuce, parsley or cilantro to garnish their entry but had this been the professional competition anything with Kale or a cup of sauce would immediately be disqualified. When we opened a container with Kale the other judges sort of gasped. It was then that I realized I was so unhealthy that I wasn’t sure what Kale even looked like and to be honest I still don’t.

After judging the appearance we were allowed to hold the box and grab one rib or fork full of pork. In professional competition a rib that sticks to another from not being properly cut would count as one piece and the contestant would end with a low score. Luckily this didn’t happen during our judging. Once all the ribs were sitting on the paper tray that doubled as a placemat we were allowed to eat. There was to be no talking between judges until the scorecards were collected. Any yum noises were also strictly prohibited. I thought of my niece Olive and how she dances when she enjoys good food. Poor thing will never get to know the joy of judging food.

I had shown great restraint by not licking my fingers, now I was going to cut loose and go to town on those ribs. Wait not so fast! They suggested that I try one or two bites per rib. Torture just sheer torture! These ribs were pretty great and only getting a little taste seemed incredibly unfair. I promptly asked for a baggie so I could take my ribs home and actually eat them. After judging concluded I was told that I couldn’t judge on the smoke ring because that can be made artificially, something I never knew. Trevor Godemann and I were the only two at our table who were not professionally trained judges. The rib that both of us enjoyed was not enjoyed as much by our professional counterparts. It was then that I realized judging barbecue was not my life’s dream. One bite, ignore personal taste and don’t lick your fingers? It was then that I realized judging a food contest of any kind could be considered cruel and unusual punishment.

In the end I did what I came to do. I wrote down my scores and tried to look as professional as possible in doing so. I want to thank David Branch for asking me to judge. I learned more than I thought I would. There are many rules to Barbecue. It ended up being fun but I know I will never look at a rib the same way again.

Prison sentence calculations more than a numbers game

Capitol View
By J.L. Schmidt
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

“Mistakes were made.” That’s a comment that has become all too familiar in government these days. In Nebraska, if it isn’t health and human services, it’s corrections.

For the third time in less than a year, bad behavior on the part of inmates or officials have made alarming headlines. It started last summer when a work release inmate who was speeding in a state van caused a crash that killed a Lincoln woman. Then an Omaha man was released and allegedly killed four people in random incidents. Next came the word that the release dates of hundreds of inmates were miscalculated and a number of them got out of prison too soon.

Credit the Omaha World-Herald with discovering the discrepancies and alerting officials and the general public about what it claimed to be a two-decade pattern of sentence miscalculations by the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services.

By the numbers, Governor Dave Heineman and Attorney General Jon Bruning said: There were 306 inmates released early; 257 of them would have already completed their sentences; three have died; five have successfully completed parole; 20-25 warrants for arrests of the others have been issued in eight counties; another 567 had their release dates miscalculated but have not been released.

The two elected officials said the state would be rounding up the former inmates with the intentions of making them return to prison. Heineman had harsh words for the Department of Corrections saying they made a mistake that is now being corrected, adding they better not make a mistake in the future. Bruning said the case law is clear, the people incorrectly released early owe the state the time. But, not all of the people released early will be re-incarcerated. Those who have been in the community without incident will get credit for that time. For those headed back to prison, they could be making up anywhere from one to four years.

Public officials rattling sabers and talking tough is nothing new. But maybe the focus should be on the people who made the mistakes. Maybe a planned deep cleaning of the system should focus on who goes to prison in the first place and those troublesome mandatory sentences for certain offenses. State Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha and others have argued that is part of the problem because it takes away a judge’s discretion in sentencing. For sure, the sentencing laws, which have changed more than once since 1995 should be simplified, carved in stone and taught to the responsible corrections officials.

Not everyone is taking this well. There have been lawsuits filed by those who were freed and are being ordered back. At least one has enlisted the aid of Chambers who is a long-time member of the Legislature’s Judiciary Committee and a frequent critic of the system. The former inmate had been released three years ago and thought he had served his time. He has completed his parole requirements, has a full-time job and is the provider for a wife and three small children.

Chambers intervened and visited with Corrections Director Michael Kenney and Parole Board Chairwoman Esther Casmer, successfully arguing that the man would have been eligible for parole by now, so he should be allowed to live his new life. They all agreed that the cases deserve to be treated individually.

These are not just numbers. These are people who have gone on to make that fresh start that lawmakers and prison authorities always hope will happen. Chambers has vowed to help the state resolve the problem while bringing as few people back to prison as possible. He says it’s an ethical question for the state to officially discharge these people and then try to put them back in prison. He said these people didn’t escape from prison, they served all the time that was required and they were released by the state.

To his credit, Kenney says he is taking full responsibility and working with Heineman, Bruning and Chambers to clean up the mess. Let’s hope that the fruits of that labor will be sweeping prison reform that will reduce overcrowding by managing both who goes to prison and how long they stay.

ninth overall in the sanctioned category.

Thirty one teams participated in the barbecue cook-off. Branch was pleased with how things went but put in quite a bit of work to get it organized.

“I enjoyed it and look forward to doing it again. I learned a lot,” he said.

Branch first attended a four-hour BBQ judging class, where he also spread the word about the event. He also attended events in Council Bluffs, Marysville and Beatrice to spread the word and take suggestions. As for the beautiful trophies that were presented, Branch credits Kellen Sailors for the design and WASP in Falls City for laser cutting 42 trophies. Branch said he couldn’t have done it without the volunteers and sponsors.

“The sponsors were incredible and the volunteers really stepped up. They were worked to death and sometimes it wasn’t fun.”

The Abate Scavenger Hunt that was scheduled for that morning was rained out and appeared to keep some of the motorcyclists away. There were four categories in the motorcycle show. Winners were Jeff Ferris for Stock/Mild Custom, Chris Suedmeier for Custom, Terry McNally for Retro/Pre-1980, Brian Moody for Trikes and Dressers and Chuck Ferris won the People’s Choice category. Winners received a $100 gift certificate from Holstein’s Harley Davidson in Omaha, as well as a custom-made trophy.

Sauce and Cycles raised money for a movie system, such as the one used at last year’s Cobblestone Festival. The movie system will be available to any organization in Richardson County that is not charging for the movie presentation. They will have to pay a $100 fee to cover insurance and maintenance and pay a $100 deposit. Branch estimated at least 2,500 people went through on Saturday, with another 700 purchasing wristbands. Capping off the event were the bands “Gladys Kravits Band” and “High Heel Band.”

The Bee's Knees

Recent grad removes some 30,000 bees from Verdon church

By Molly Chapple

While his classmates were preparing for graduation, Brandon Schawang was preparing to remove a large colony of bees from the walls of a church.

Brandon, son of Rick and Lisa Schawang, of Salem, has been a beekeeper for the past three years. He entered the business when he met a man who was selling bees, and decided he wanted to give beekeeping a try. Brandon said he learned the basics on how to start the hive from the seller. From there, he did his own research on the Internet.

His initial plan in owning a beehive was to sell the honey. That's why he was so surprised when his Spanish teacher, Sherry Runnels, asked him to inspect the Verdon Christian Church for bees. Brandon was skeptical at first, but decided to check it out.

By listening through the church walls, Brandon was able to pinpoint exactly where the colony was located. On Monday, May 12, about a week before his high school graduation from Falls City Sacred Heart

Brandon Schawang, son of Rick and Lisa Schawang, of Salem, has been a beekeeper for the past three years. In May, about a week before his high school graduation from Falls City Sacred Heart School, he courageously removed a beehive - and some 30,000 of its less-than-neighborly dwellers - from the walls of the Verdon Christian Church.

School, he courageously removed a piece of paneling in the church walls. Brandon discovered a hive of around 30,000 killer bees. He had to return the paneling that day because the bees were aggravated.

The next day, Brandon returned and removed six honeycombs, each about four feet tall, from the walls of the church, along with the bees that occupied them. "You have to start moving bees until you get the queen bee, then the rest of them will follow her," Brandon said, referring to the removal strategy. Brandon relocated the entire colony into his own hive in just one day, without the help from a single assistant.

Brandon didn't do this for attention or praise, but out of the kindness of his heart. But Brandon does deserve some praise. The relocation of the bees saved the church from an infestation, and quite possibly saved lives. The wall that the beehive was located in had a large hole in it. If the bees had escaped through the hole and stung someone who was allergic, the results could have been deadly.

"He really did save our church," Runnels said.

Next fall, Brandon will be on his way to college, but his beekeeping will continue. He's headed to North Central Kansas Technical College in Beloit, KS, to study masonry and bricklaying.

However, Brandon said he'll take care of his hive when he visits home.

Make It Right

In the Public Record appearing in the July 1, 2014 edition of The Journal, it was incorrectly reported that a civil judgment was entered in favor of Keith W. Eickhoff, Verdon, and against Ryan Bennett, Verdon, in the amount of $3,500. The case was actually dismissed - with prejudice, and Eickhoff was ordered to bear legal costs. The Journal regrets the mistake.

ASA Class C 16-and-Under State Champion Falls City Travelers

bruster, Avery Scott, Shiloah Feighner, Marissa Ogden, Bailey Gilkerson, Erin Brewer and coach Matt Bletscher.

Home Sweet Home

By Lori Gottula

The Falls City Travelers' 16-and-under team put on a display this holiday weekend that showcased solid hitting, strong defensive plays, a two-punch pitching team, and big plays by a variety of players.

All of those things combined for an undefeated tournament, and a first place trophy in the 12-team ASA Class C State Softball Tournament, which was held at the Fiedler Family Ball Complex. It was the first ASA State event ever held in Falls City and made possible only by the ballpark renovation project, completed in 2013. The first - but not the last. Next summer, twice as many softball teams will flood Falls City for the ASA Class C 10-and-Under State Tournament.

But for now, the spotlight shines on one team.

The Falls City 16-and-U, which is coached by Matt Bletscher and Julie Frederick, went a perfect 4-0 over the weekend and improved to 24-9 on the 2014 summer. They started the tourney off with a 7-4 win over Creighton on a cool Fourth of July evening, beat Todd's Feed of Sutton 8-5 on Saturday as the temperature started to rise and then played it cool by sweeping Fairbury (5-4 and 12-2) during suffocating heat Sunday to capture the title.

There was little drama until Sunday morning's cliffhanger with Fairbury. On Friday, Bailey Armbruster threw six strike-outs in her six innings on the mound, and finished the game with the win, as FC brought five across in the fourth on hits by Josie Lunsford, Tayten O'Brien, Alyssa Frederick, Molly Brown, Armbruster, Morgan Bletscher and Erin Brewer.

The unseasonably cool weather was replaced by Nebraska's July norms on Saturday and Todd's Feed, which hails from south central Nebraska, like Creighton the night before, felt the heat in the fourth inning. The Travelers had only one run going into the frame, but the bats suddenly became hot. Brewer, O'Brien, and Lunsford all hit un-catchable pop flies to left field, so each got on base and advanced the previous batter. When center fielder Alyssa Frederick walked to the plate, the bases were loaded. Frederick pounded one to the left field fence, earned a double, and drove in all three runners.

Molly Brown followed that rally with a solid hit to right field, then Avery Scott hit a double to drive in Frederick and Brown. Six runs eventually scored in the fourth.

On the defensive side, Tayten O'Brien pitched the win, and was backed up by crisp, sharp play by both the infield and outfield, most notably Armbruster at shortstop, and Lunsford at third. The final score was 8-5.

Falls City's Avery Scott turned in perhaps the play of the weekend Sunday morning, helping preserve her team's 5-4 win over Fairbury. With FC clinging to that one-run lead in the bottom of the final inning, Fairbury had one out, the tying run on first and would-be game-winner at the plate. A drive toward second looked like it would sneak through for a base hit, so Fairbury's runner was off and running, halfway to second base when Scott dove to make the catch, landed on her stomach, and threw from that position to Erin Brewer at first base for the game-ending double play.

The biggest competition of the weekend came at 9 a.m. Sunday. The temperature was decent, and a breeze was blowing, but the Fairbury Elite was hot to play. On the scoreboard, the home team held the visiting Travelers to first-inning hits by Frederick and Scott, but allowed only one run. The Elite then turned the opportunity of errors into base hits, and emerged from the opening inning with a 2-1 lead.

In the second inning, Lunsford had a solid hit and scored on a Frederick single to right field. The score was tied at two until the fourth inning, largely because of the pitching efforts of Armbruster, and stellar catches in the field by Frederick and right fielder Bailey Gilkerson.

By the top of the sixth, Falls City was trailing 4-3, and things were getting tense. In that inning, 13-year-old Erin Brewer got a walk, and was driven to third base by a Lunsford double. Frederick then strolled to the plate and scorched a double to the left field fence, bringing in both runners.

Falls City was on top then, 5-4, and time had expired. The "home" team was set to bat, and the Elite had every intention to win. The first batter hit an easy pop fly to Scott at second for the first out. The next batter got on base, so the stage was set to ruin Falls City's hopes for an undefeated tourney.

The play of the day undoubtedly came then, as Fairbury's next batter hit a short shoe-string drive toward second base. It seemed like a hopper that would get away for a base hit, and Fairbury's runner was already halfway to second base. Scott then dove for the two-handed catch, landed on her stomach, and threw from that position to Erin Brewer at first base. The runner was caught off-guard, and had no chance to get back in time. The double-play sealed the deal with an exclamation point for the Travelers, whose 5-4 win sent them to the finals with an unblemished record. That meant the challenger - it turned to be Fairbury - would have to beat the tourney hosts twice to prevent FC from taking the championship.

Fairbury battled its way back through the loser's bracket, but two wins over Falls City was far too much to ask. They couldn't even make a game of Game 1.

On a sweltering Sunday afternoon, with temperatures that soared toward 100 degrees, the Fairbury Elite received the favored spot in the toss. Falls City was once again the visiting team on its own dirt. That didn't matter, though - FC's bats became as hot as the temperature. Brown, Scott, and Armbruster all had singles in the top half of the first inning, then Brewer socked the ball to left field, driving in both Brown and Scott. It was 2-0 and FC, even though it gave one back in the bottom half, never trailed and never looked back.

O'Brien took the mound and was backed up by a determined field that surrendered all of one run the rest of the day.

At the plate, O'Brien, Scott, Shiloah Feighner, Brown, and Bletscher all hit singles, and Frederick continued her attempt to hit the ball over the left field fence, adding two more doubles that drove in uncontested runs. Armbruster hit a double in the fourth, and the score soared to 12-2.

The mercy rule sent a hot and tired Fairbury team westbound on Highway 8 a little early, while the Falls City Travelers stayed close to home — and celebrated as champs.

The Travelers 10-and-Unders had a disappointing finish to an otherwise tremendous season, going 0-3 at the Class C State Tournament in Hastings.

FC, coached by Brian Poppe to a 26-6 final record, lost to Logan View (12-3), Roseland (14-13) and Hastings (7-6).

The team entered state having won nine of its previous 10 games, dating back to June 16. FC won its first 17 games of the year.

The Travelers 12-and-Unders went 2-2 its state tourney in Hastings and take an 18-8 mark into this week's season-ending league tournament in Rock Port, Mo.

FC, which is coached by Alicia Schock, opened with an 11-8 Friday afternoon loss to Shamrocks. Saturday, the team rebounded with wins over Ponca (7-6) and Kearney Flames (6-5) before falling out of the tourney with a loss to Stingers (8-4).

Journal Editor Jason Schock contributed to this report.

'Small' 2014 event good practice for next year

The 12-team ASA Class C 16-and-Under State Softball Tournament was not only good for the home team, which went 4-0 and came away with the championship trophy, it also proved to be a good learning experience for the entire Travelers program and its director, Carl Messner, who's a self-professed rookie in terms of hosting a major ASA event at the state level. "Was" a rookie, anyway. The founder of the Travelers has seen most everything in 18-years, from the inside of the Hall of Fame to the right side of 1,000 W/L decisions, but prior to last weekend he'd never before directed and hosted a tournament on the state level. There were about $2.5 million reasons that was going to change. "If you build it, they will come." Indeed. This year there were 12 teams when once there were none. Next year, there will be some 25 teams in Falls City for the ASA 10-Under State Tournament.

"We had a pretty good turnout," Messner said. "The number of teams was lower than what we would of liked - some of that being the 4th of July weekend and some being the 16-under team numbers across the state are down, but it was a good number for us doing our first state tournament. It was a lot of work, but we received a lot of compliments on our complex and the way we ran the tournament," he said. "It was a learning experience for us leading up to next year."

If the 2014 ASA 16-Under was a "pop quiz," then the 2015 ASA 10-Under is a "dissertation." Where this year there were 120-140 driving-aged girls to manage, next year there will be 250 or so 10-year-olds to direct.

"It will be twice as many teams and probably three times as much work," Messner said. "We will definitely need a lot more volunteers to pull it off. I want to thank the volunteers we had for the long hours that they put in."

(Falls City native and former staff writer for HuskerIllustrated.com and Rivals.com)

As the WR Turns

At this time last month, Nebraska was set to welcome former Rivals100 receiver Damore'ea Stringfellow (6-3/225) of Moreno Valley, Calif. Stringfellow was transferring from Washington. He actually signed transfer paperwork with Nebraska, however he and his mother then made trips to Alabama and Ole Miss before he eventually signed with the Rebels.

Given the scandalous history of the SEC, of which both Alabama and Ole Miss are members, alarm bells went off with Husker fans.

"How much do you think the bag man dropped on Damore'ea?"

"What's his mom's new job in the Ole Miss administration?"

"I wonder what his new ride looks like!"

The fact is that NU fans will never know exactly why Stringfellow changed his mind after previously gushing about his relationship with NU receivers coach Rich Fisher and his excitement for a fresh start in Lincoln. His mother, Kahlilah Levine, vehemently denied any wrongdoing to the Omaha World-Herald's Sam McKewon. Still, it's curious that she was unable to visit Lincoln with her son yet was on campus at both SEC schools during his trip and undoubtedly had a strong influence on his decision.

Losing Stringfellow along with 2014 signee Monte Harrison to the Milwaukee Brewers leaves NU's roster lacking in big, physical receivers. NU is still searching for a replacement for the recently-graduated Quincy Enunwa. Juniors Sam Burtch and Tariq Allen are the likely suspects, however only Burtch has starting experience and even that is limited. Incoming freshman Jariah Tolbert (6-3/185) of New Orleans, La. is likely due a redshirt season and sophomore walk-on Lane Hovey (6-4/210) is the only other receiver over 6-foot-1 on the roster.

Husker legacy Clester Johnson, Jr. (6-2/181) of Bellevue West was thought to be NU's next target, however he committed to Wyoming in early July. Whether a Nebraska offer will sway his choice remains to be seen, as Johnson's camp stop in Lincoln didn't evoke that coveted offer. Incidentally, Johnson also camped at Wisconsin and didn't earn a Badger offer either.

A long-shot possibility is George Campbell (6-3/183) of Tarpon Springs, Fla. Ranked as the No. 6 receiver nationally by Rivals, Campbell has his pick of schools like Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Florida State and Oklahoma. He has talked about visiting Lincoln with his friend and fellow receiver Ryan Davis (5-10/161) of St. Petersburg, Fla. who is also listed among Rivals' top 25 receivers.

A new name to pop up recently is Miami commitment Therrell Gosier (6-6/210) of Pompano Beach, Fla. Clemson, Kentucky and West Virginia are also in on Gosier, who committed to the Hurricanes on the spot after receiving his offer. Despite the pledge, Gosier plans to take official visits this fall and has listed Lincoln as a possible stop. Could a trip for the Sept. 20 Husker-Cane tilt be in the offing? We should know soon.

Safety Possibilities

Nebraska's two Big Red Weekends came and went without a new commitment. Two players whose visit plans changed, safeties Will Sunderland (6-2/186) of Midwest City, Okla. and Hunter Dale (5-10/191) of River Ridge, La., were among the missed opportunities for the Huskers.

Sunderland has narrowed his list to NU, Oklahoma and Ohio State and plans to visit all three schools, while Dale has flirted with visiting Lincoln on more than one occasion this spring but has yet to actually make the trip.

Sunderland's been quiet since the summer started, but Dale may be visiting Lincoln with NU running back commit Kendall Bussey in late July.

With four secondary players already in the class, getting either Sunderland or Dale isn't critical. However, both are prospects the Huskers would make room for in this class.

What about QB?

At the quarterback position, NU commitment Kevin Dillman (6-4/205) of Denton, Texas will not start for his team this fall and may play at all. The governing body for Texas' public school activities has declared him ineligible, but Dillman is appealing.

Even if he wins the appeal, Dillman may be beaten out for the starting job by sophomore Shawn Robinson (6-2/195), whose first scholarship offer came from Nebraska this past spring and who should be a high national recruit in two years.

Dillman remains committed to Nebraska, and the Huskers to him. Because of his size and athleticism, Dillman could switch positions in college if quarterback doesn't work out for him.

Nebraska has told Dillman that they will pursue another signal-caller, and Lamar Jackson (6-2/185) of Boynton Beach, Fla. seems to be at the top of their list. He had a good visit to Lincoln in early June and may return this fall for an official visit. He is also considering West Virginia, Auburn, Clemson, and Louisville.

Finishing the OL

NU would like to take one more offensive tackle in this class, and Mirko Jurkovic Jr. (6-5/276) of Bradenton, Fla. and Evan Applegate (6-6/270) of Mill Valley, Kan. are their top targets right now.

Jurkovic visited Lincoln in June with his mother and came away with NU in his top three along with Florida and Ohio State. He's planning a late July decision.

Applegate is also considering Kansas State, Arkansas, Oklahoma State and Minnesota and doesn't have a timeframe for a decision. One factor in NU's favor is that Applegate and Husker commit Christian Gaylord (6-6/270) have known each other since youth football.

In addition to 2015 tackles, top two 2016 targets John Raridon (6-4/271) of West Des Moines, Iowa and Matt Farniok (6-5/308) of Sioux Falls, SD visited Lincoln for Big Red Weekend.

Raridon, the son of former Husker tackle Scott Raridon Sr., also has offers from Oklahoma and Wisconsin among others. He's hoping to decide during or shortly after his junior season, and as a Husker legacy NU looks to be in good shape.

Farniok's brothers play at Oklahoma and Iowa State respectively. He's in no hurry to make a decision, but he has visited Lincoln multiple times at his own expense. NU sophomore safety Nate Gerry is also from Farniok's high school which will help the Huskers' case.

Six original Falter paintings depicting Medal of Honor recipients to comprise ‘Heroes’ art show this Veteran’s Day

Big things usually just happen in big cities. But the Richardson County Arts and Humanities Council seems to pull off some amazing events, and attract some pretty big names. One of the biggest events in recent memory will happen this Veterans Day, Nov. 11. The Council and local Veterans Day organizers are announcing it now so that readers can mark their calendars.

The event will be held in conjunction with traditional Veterans Day ceremonies, which are organized by Sherry Maddox

Due to the generosity of the Stalder Foundation, the Stalder Gallery in the Falls City Library and Arts Center will display six original John Falter paintings that were commissioned by Esquire magazine during World War II. All six feature Congressional Medal of Honor recipients whose stories were told by Esquire writer Paul Gallico.

The show, titled “Heroes,” will open on Veterans Day, at 7 p.m., with a gallery talk by World War II expert and author Dr. Adrian Lewis, a professor at the University of Kansas in Lawrence. Dr. Lewis will also speak at the Veterans Day ceremony at 11 a.m.

According to the professor's biography on the university's website, Dr. Lewis “earned his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago in 1995. His dissertation became his first book, Omaha Beach: A Flawed Victory, published in 2001 by UNC Press. Omaha Beach is still considered the best analysis available on the Normandy Invasion and the battle for Omaha Beach.

Prof. Lewis has researched and written extensively on war, national security, and military affairs. The second edition of his book, The American Culture of War, was published in 2012. Prof. Lewis has taught at the United States Military Academy at West Point, the University of California at Berkeley, and the University of North Texas at Denton, where he chaired the Department of History. Prof. Lewis has also taught the Strategy and Policy course for the Naval War College.”

Dr. Lewis was also a major consult on PBS's NOVA program titled D-Day's Sunken Secrets. The show, which aired on May 28, 2014, will be released on DVD July 8th. It tells, in vivid detail, the tumultuous account of the invasion of Normandy Beach. On June 6, 1944, more than 5,000 ships crossed the English channel, along with tanks and 200,000 soldiers. Hundreds of ships sank, and were buried under the sea in what became one of the world's largest underwater archeological sites. NOVA has unique access to a variety of specialists who have worked in collaboration to study the site. Dr. Lewis was one of them. Interested parties may want to view the DVD before the November events in Falls City, and the Falls City Library and Arts Center will have a copy available to check out. The library staff also encourages people to check out Dr. Lewis's books.

The activities are sponsored by Sherry Maddox's Veterans Day program, and the Richardson County Arts and Humanities Council. More information will be forthcoming as the date draws closer, but mark your calendars for Veterans Day. These are activities that you won't want to miss.

Add S'more to your campfires

(StatePoint) There is no hallmark of summer fun quite like a campfire -- whether you've gathered some neighbors and friends in your own backyard or you're on a backpacking adventure.

In fact, 99 percent of campers have a campfire and 91 percent of campers “roast” over their campfires, according to research from The MindClick Group. And now there are some great ways to give this age-old tradition some innovative twists.

Go Green

Take care of the nature that you're enjoying. Remember to keep the honorable principle of “leave no trace” top of mind. Regularly clear your campfire and your campsite of debris and garbage. This is also a good practice to keep bears at bay. Separate your bottles and cans, as many parks have separate bins for recyclables.

You can also green your campfire by your choice of what you burn. Instead of traditional firewood, consider a cleaner-burning roasting log to reduce your impact on the air around you. For example, duraflame Campfire Roasting Logs are made from 100 percent renewable resources and burn 60 percent cleaner than firewood in a fire pit.

The logs are resource efficient. Just five pounds of Campfire Roasting Logs creates a fire equivalent to about 24 pounds of firewood. And because they are made with wood charcoal, recycled sawdust and renewable bio wax, no trees are cut down to produce them. They are also easy to transport for your camping trip, and stack and burn like wood for a robust fire that creates hot, glowing coals safe for roasting marshmallows, hot dogs or other campfire food.

Old Treats Made New

S'mores, a staple of campfire eats, are a delight for children and adults alike. But you don't need to stick with the standard recipe at your next campfire. Get s'more out of the experience with these scrumptious suggestions from the experts at Duraflame:

- Everything But the Kitchen Sink: Graham crackers with peanut butter cups, white-chocolate covered pretzels and marshmallows sprinkled with crumbled chocolate wafers.
  - Mint Medley: Chocolate wafer cookies with mint wafer chocolate and marshmallows.
  - Strawberry Shortcake: Shortbread cookies with white chocolate and strawberry marshmallows or slices of fresh strawberry.
  - Turtles: Add chopped pecans and caramel to a standard-style s'more.
- More recipes and videos can be found at www.duraflame.com/recipes.
- Make a great campfire -- full of delicious treats, good times and camaraderie -- a centerpiece of your summer fun.

Stella Garden Club Minutes
June 24 at Brownville Lyceum

The meeting was held at the Brownville Lyceum after touring Marilyn and Steve Woerth's garden and pond near Brownville. Marilyn Woerth was the Club's guest for lunch.

The meeting was called to order by President Beth Eickhoff. The Minutes were read, changed from Jan Mc. to Jan M., and approved.

Chris Joy gave the treasurer's report. Beth Eickhoff presented a new bill for $24 for three rose bushes purchased at Orschlen's. Cathy D. asked to have a breakdown of the expenses we spent planting the plants and the amount of money donated for the year.

President Eickhoff welcomed Leslie Fatig as a new member to the Stella Garden Club.

President Eickhoff showed members the new notecards that we are offering this year. She has left six packages of notecards at Bonnie Hathaway's store in Brownville.

Pond report: Cathy D. has pulled moss daily. The two high school boys helped Jim D. clean out the pond and it really looks nice with the water lilies in bloom. She stated that the pond is not losing water at this time.

Chris Joy discussed the American Horticultural Society Reciprocal Admissions Program. With our membership we are able to visit 270 gardens, arboretums, and conservatories across the United States. Cathy D. will ask if we all can have our own membership cards or if we can copy the club's card.

Jan Mc. gave us a report on the Brownville Garden and Arboretum Tour that she attended this year. She thought it was a really good program with Graham Herbst as the speaker. He focused on trees and their care.

Plants requests for next year's planting are lemon basil, cilantro, common tomato types like Beefsteaks and lavender.

After discussion it was decided not to walk in Auburn's Nemaha County Parade this year.

President Eickhoff asked for suggestions for gardens in the area that we might want to visit this summer.

The fall membership drive discussion was tabled until next meeting.

We will clean up the greenhouse our next meeting if it is not too hot in the greenhouse. Next meeting was set for July 28 at 10 a.m. at the Stella Greenhouse.

Meeting adjourned.

How to acclimate pets to long car trips

Short jaunts in the car can be a special treat for pets who spend the majority of their time at home. Although car trips sometimes mean appointments at the vet, frequently such trips involve visits to family members or opportunities to romp and socialize in the park.

Pets that may be perfectly fine on short trips may not be as amenable to longer excursions. Pet owners should have a thorough understanding of their pet’s traveling proclivities and prepare accordingly when the animal will be riding along on a vacation.

Animals can experience motion sickness or stress from being in a moving vehicle, and this can result in vomiting or accidents in the car. Furthermore, anguished animals may attempt to jump into the front seat with the driver, which can cause distraction and/or lead to an accident. So it’s best for owners to acclimate their pets to traveling in a car before going on any especially long trips.

The ASPCA recommends acclimating pets to the car in a series of steps. The first may be sitting inside a parked vehicle with your pet. Owners can then gradually progress to short trips around the neighborhood, all the while paying attention to pets to see how they are responding to time in the car.

Keep the temperature in the car cool and open the window to allow fresh air to flow in. Do not let your pet hang his or her head out of the window, as debris can blow in the pet’s eyes or ears and pets may be tempted to jump out while the car is in motion.

Owners can reward pets who survive long trips by choosing a final destination that pets will find fun. If you are always putting the cat or dog in the car to go to the vet or groomer, your pet may associate the car with bad experiences and never truly adapt to trips in the car.

When traveling, pets must be properly secured in a vehicle to prevent injury to drivers, their passengers and even the pet itself. If a dog or cat finds comfort in a crate, use that to secure the animal during the ride. Otherwise, dog seatbelts and other restraint systems are helpful. Pets should ride in the back seat where they will be most safe and less likely to distract drivers. Drivers should resist the urge to have small pets sit on their lap while driving. Should an accident happen, a deployed airbag can injure or kill a pet that’s sitting on a driver’s lap.

As a pet gradually acclimates to longer trips, vary the route and subject pets to different sights, sounds and smells. Animals that are particularly skittish or simply do not do well in the car should not be forced to make road trips. Veterinarians can prescribe tranquilizers or motion sickness medication to make car rides tolerable.

Pet owners often enjoy taking pets on car rides or vacations. But not all companion animals are fans of riding in cars, and they may need some practice before they get used to life on the road.

Did you know?
Different branches of Christianity classify Confirmation in various ways. Some consider it a sacrament while others do not. For example, Roman Catholics consider Confirmation to be one of the Seven Sacraments and believe it brings a person closer to Christ while strengthening that person’s faith. In the Eastern Orthodox church, Confirmation is also a sacrament and is called “Chrismation.” It is believed the original apostles established the Rite of Confirmation. Among Protestants, Confirmation is not a sacrament but a profession of faith or an acknowledgment of God’s grace. Whichever branch of Christianity a person subscribes to, Christians believe Confirmation further cements a relationship with Christ and helps participants come of age within the church.

City Council

(Judy Murphy was the lone “nay” vote) to replace Gilkerson and, it seemed, Fire Chief Ken Simpson upon his retirement within the next several years.

Weeks later, on June 16, the Council reversed its decision on hiring a second fire department driver. With Council President Jerry Oliver serving in the place of Mayor Tim Hersh, who was absent, the Council voted unanimously to rescind the May 5 decision.

Last night, Doris Simpson, of Falls City, and the aunt of Fire Chief Simpson, appeared before the Council and renounced its collective change of heart.

“We were all happy in Falls City when you all voted to hire another fireman to replace Ralph, and then the next meeting you rescinded that, which upset a lot of us.”

As she addressed the council she became emotional and had to pause for a few moments.

“My emotions are not in the best of shape - its bothered me for 11 years” she told the room.

“Our fire department is one of the most important amenities we have, they save buildings and lives, as evident when Mary’s and Fire-side burned. We have now lost that protection. We now have one paid fireman who works 8-5, five days a week with an hour off for lunch.”

Get off your backsides and find out what these people want. Go ask the people who elected you — its not about what you want. How can we depend on our council? We can’t,” Simpson said.

Randy Scott also addressed the room, “I am here to show support for the FC Volunteer Fire Dept. I was a member of the volunteer department for about 19 years.

“I would like to tell of concern and comments I and others may have. First, Falls City is a ‘progressive community’ we hear this all the time. Why do we as a community want to take a step back with fire protection?”

“If we reduce our fire protection, our insurance rates will go up, but none of this money will come back to the city coffers,” Scott said.

“I ask that the council and administration take a lot of time and really think about this and try to achieve a level of fire protection that will not raise insurance premiums and be acceptable to everyone.

“I feel it is a decision to be made with a lot of public input,” Scott said.

To that, Murphy suggested the argument was being made too late.

“Why is it that after we made a decision the citizens come to complain?,” she asked.

This brought an angry response from Doris Simpson.

“Why would they come back, they thought it was a done deal?,” Simpson asked.

“That’s the issue, money finance,” Murphy said. “If we had the money, we would have a full-time fire department like we did with full time drivers; that would be great. A new fire truck - that would be great. The City honestly doesn’t have the money,” Murphy said.

Earlier in the evening, Simpson produced a letter, handwritten by Murphy, and directed to “All F.C. Volunteer Firefighters and Drivers.” In it, in the aftermath of the 7-1 vote in favor of the Council’s decision to hire a full-time fireman, Murphy writes that she was “glad for the 7-1 ‘In Favor’ tally,” even though she was the lone “nay” vote. “I’m happy that the vote was to replace Ralph’s position.”

The letter was dated May 9, 2014.

40 years of WIC

Effective May 19, 2014 the income guidelines to qualify for the WIC program have expanded allowing more families eligibility to be on the program.

What is WIC? WIC is a federally funded program that has for 40 years provided women, infants and children healthy food at no cost, as well as breastfeeding and nutrition information to help keep pregnant women, infants and children under five healthy and strong.

In October of 2009 the Nebraska Women, Infants, and Children Nutrition Program (WIC) expanded its food packages to include more healthful foods. The revised food packages boost WIC’s efforts to promote optimal nutrition and breastfeeding, and better accommodate participants with cultural preferences. WIC food checks include fresh fruit and vegetable vouchers, 100% whole grain bread, brown rice or tortillas, dried or canned beans, milk and dairy alternative soy products, tuna and salmon, cereal, 100% fruit juice, cheese, peanut butter, eggs, baby food fruits and vegetables, iron fortified baby cereal and infant formula.

Breast milk is best for baby. Breastfeeding women who exclusively breastfeed and do not supplement with formula will receive enhanced food packages and more food for their infants over six months of age.

You are eligible for WIC if you live in Nebraska, are pregnant, recently had a baby, you are a breastfeeding woman, or you have an infant or a child less than five years of age. Fathers, guardians or foster parents may apply for WIC for their children. You may qualify if your gross household income is less than or equal to the new income guidelines. Income guidelines are based on your household size, annual, monthly or weekly income; an example of income eligibility would be a household size of two persons with a gross weekly income of $560 dollars or less. Also, you automatically qualify for WIC if you currently receive ADC, SNAP (Food Stamps), Kids Connection or Medicaid.

Give us a call at 402-335-2988 or toll free at 1-877-691-8381 so we can assess your information to determine if you qualify for the WIC program and/or to schedule an appointment. Additional information on the WIC programs is available at: <http://www.dhhs.ne.gov/wic>

Family Health Services, Inc. WIC program provides services to Southeast Nebraska in the following communities: Auburn, Beatrice, Fairbury, Falls City, Hebron, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth, Table Rock and Tecumseh.

The library staff will help attendees learn about options for storing, scanning, printing and some creative ideas. All levels of computer literacy are welcome - we also encourage people with creative talent to share their secrets.

Four children’s summer programs remain on the schedule: Build Something Cool, Stranger Danger, Get Active & Healthy and The Beauty of Nature.

A July 24 discussion will be held on the book “A Thousand Days in Venice” by Marlena DeBlasi. The book is an enchanting true story of a woman who opens her heart, falls in love, leaves her St. Louis home, and marries a man in his city, Venice, Italy. This is a great armchair vacation.

During the month of June, the FCL&AC checked out 9,612 items and hosted 2,916 patron visits. The busiest day saw 300 people come through the door. The computers were used 1,662 different times.

What have you seen at the seashore?

Kids: color stuff in!

Hey! Look at that! You never know what you'll see in the sky, on the shore and even in the sand when you go to the seashore. What you see may depend on whether the tide is going out or coming in. Study the area where the land meets the sea. Is it rocky with waves crashing or is it a long stretch of white sand peacefully meeting the water? You might watch little crabs hiding and scurrying in the rocky areas. Different kinds of shells might be easier to find along sandy stretches. It's fun to find driftwood too!

Read the clues to fill in our seashore and ocean crossword puzzle:

- five vast _____ link across the planet, covering about 71% of Earth's surface
- tidal pools are home to many _____ things: seaweed, seastars, snails, crabs, etc.
- tide _____ are rocky; some may be seen separately at low tide
- a _____ beach is one that is natural, untouched by people
- energy from strong winds on the surface of the ocean causes _____ to form
- _____ have explored only about 5% of the world's oceans
- the ocean is mostly made up of _____, but there are many elements: sodium, chlorine, magnesium, calcium and more
- tides are the result of the gravity of the _____ pushing and pulling the ocean
- the ocean is Earth's largest habitat, with _____ such as whales, sharks, sea lions
- coastline; where the land meets the ocean
- a _____ resort is a place built for people to have fun and better their health
- grasses and bushes anchor the sand _____ and keep the beach stable
- many kinds of _____ live by the ocean: seagulls, sandpipers, albatrosses
- beaches change shape due to constant erosion by the beating force of coastal _____ and crashing waves
- _____ is made of fine grains of earth and rocks worn down by the wind

Summertime Grilling

Tackling Your Summer Travel with Ease

By Sarah Purcell
UNL Extension

’Tis the season to light up the grill! Grilling is a fun and convenient way to prepare food for family and friends. However, don’t let the hustle and bustle of summer gatherings interfere with safe grilling methods.

Safe grilling begins long before the cooking process. Frozen meat should be completely defrosted in the refrigerator. This allows meat to cook more evenly and prevents bacteria from growing while the meat is thawing.

Frozen meat can be thawed in the microwave as well. However, it should be grilled immediately because partially cooked portions create the perfect environment for bacteria growth.

If meat must be transported long distances to the cookout site, pack the meat in a cooler to maintain a temperature below 40 degrees F. Coolers should be placed in the coolest part of the car and moved to a shaded area of the cookout site as soon as possible.

It is important to pack meat in a separate cooler from beverages and side dishes. This will prevent cross contamination and minimize the number of times the meat cooler is opened which increases the internal temperature surrounding the meat.

Make sure grills are preheated before starting the cooking process. During grilling, remove only the needed amount of meat from refrigeration and carry to the grill using a clean plate and grilling utensil.

Don’t rely on the color of meat to determine if the meat is ready to serve. Instead, use a food thermometer to check the internal temperature of meat to determine if the meat is finished cooking.

Hamburger patties should reach 160 degrees F., hot dogs 165 degrees F. and chicken breasts 165 degrees F. Medium-rare steaks should reach 145 degrees F., medium steaks, 160 degrees F. and well-done steaks 170 degrees F.

After cooking, meat should be kept at 140 degrees F. or warmer. If the meat is not eaten right away, it should be set on the side of the grill rack so the meat remains hot without overcooking.

Remove the meat from the grill with clean cooking utensils. Once the meat has been removed, it should not be left unrefrigerated for more than two hours. This time limit is reduced to one hour if outside temperatures are above 90 degrees F.

If meat is given the opportunity to enter the temperature danger zone between 40 degrees and 140 degrees, bacteria is most likely to multiply and create problems. Although meat may look safe, the meat can still be contaminated and unsafe for consumption.

(StatePoint) The warm weather and long summer days offer the perfect opportunity to take a break from the daily grind. Ironically though, many find vacation planning to be a source of stress.

Figuring out where to go and affordable ways of getting there doesn’t have to be a headache. BlackBerry recommends leveraging the right technology and strategy to help you focus on enjoying the time off with family and friends in a productive and memorable way. Here are some simple tips from the productivity experts at BlackBerry to help you navigate this summer’s adventure:

- Expect the unexpected: In 2013, 58 percent of travelers surveyed by AAA ranked “unexpected expenses” as their top vacation frustration.

- Keep your travel budget in check by downloading the right tools in advance: airline-specific smartphone apps provide specific baggage guidelines, expense tracker apps such as My Budget Tracker or Expense Manager keep expenses organized, and travel booking and management apps help you stay on top of the best booking deals. More information about apps that are useful for travel can be found at Appworld.BlackBerry.com.

- Keep kids occupied: Thanks to the long battery life of today’s mobile devices, keeping kids entertained during travel is a lot easier than it once was. Even the days of crying during a longer flight can be gone: You can now use some personal electronic devices during takeoff and landing. Certain airlines even offer gate-to-gate WiFi.

- Ditch the accordion file folder: We live in a time where tickets, schedules, local recommendations and memos can be stored on your mobile device.

Give your printer and the planet a break and use your device’s native pass keeper app to manage boarding passes and ticket show stubs.

- On-the-go recommendations: In unknown territory, location-based apps can quickly get you up to speed on what’s good locally. Don’t know where to book dinner? Ask Yelp Restaurant Finder, WhereIs or Nearest Locator. Find a restaurant that looks good? Download and log onto Open Table to make reservations at the best eateries around you.

- Capture memories: As you’re navigating your days, flag specific photos in your camera roll to easily identify the best shots or to create a themed collage later. Camera features on mobile technology can help you take better photos and get the angle just right, relieving the need for an extra camera. To get the whole story, download a movie-making app, such as BlackBerry StoryMaker, to easily polish phone-filmed travel shorts for social sharing.

- Balance work and play: If work must make a cameo on vacation, try connecting with your team without lugging your laptop. Smartphones allow you to easily save and share files, video chat and screen share, so collaborating is as natural as if you were in the same room.

Take advantage of intuitive features like BlackBerry Balance, so that you can securely send emails to colleagues, while ensuring you

UNL report: ‘Time to act’ on expanding livestock industry

Nebraska’s uniquely intertwined agricultural economy, although still the engine of the state’s economy, may not be operating to its full potential, says a new University of Nebraska-Lincoln report that outlines the potential impact of several livestock-industry expansion scenarios.

“It is time to act,” said the report, titled “Nebraska Animal Agriculture: Economic Impacts of Cattle, Hog, Dairy, and Poultry Industry Changes.” Primary investigators of the study were Bruce Johnson, professor emeritus in UNL’s Department of Agricultural Economics, and Eric Thompson, UNL economics professor. The research was funded by the Nebraska Soybean Board and the Nebraska Corn Board.

Ronnie Green, vice president of the University of Nebraska and Harlan vice chancellor of the university’s Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the report is a key analysis of where the state’s agricultural economy now stands and how it might be strengthened.

“We know Nebraska is among the nation’s leaders in many facets of crop and livestock production,” Green said. “But we also know that it’s no time to rest on our laurels either. We must plan for how best to strengthen and expand our bioeconomy, and this report outlines some reasonable options that would result in significant impacts in communities and households across our state.”

The report notes that the total value of Nebraska’s agricultural production topped $25 billion in 2012, ranking it fourth among states. The net value-added of that production was $8.8 billion, representing nearly 10 percent of Nebraska’s total gross state product, the third highest percentage among the 50 states.

Key to Nebraska’s agricultural economy is its combination of crop and livestock sectors and associated processing industries.

“In what could be called the Nebraska Advantage,” the report says, “there is in place an interrelated system of crop, livestock and biofuel production capacity that is basically unmatched anywhere else in the nation.”

Perhaps nothing represents this interrelation more than the development of corn-based ethanol, which not only produces fuel but also distillers grains, the report notes. Once considered a marginal waste product, DGs are now a critical coproduct of the biofuels industry and used as a high quality livestock feed, especially for ruminants. Also, soybean meal, a coproduct of soybean processing, is produced in abundance and is a very cost-efficient ration ingredient for many animals.

“In short, the livestock industry of the state plays a pivotal role in utilizing the major crops produced in the state, as well as the coproducts of further value-added processing of those crops.

Substitution of animal manure for commercial fertilizer is another element of the production cycle.

The report notes that the strength of this agricultural system relies on all of its components’ thriving, “and there are concerns that this state’s current situation is not operating to its full potential and may even be slipping in rigor in recent years.”

Among its observations:
– Nebraska still exports out of state a high percentage of its crops – more than one-third its corn crop, more than 80 percent of its soybean crop and more than one-half its distillers grains. These would have more economic impact if they flowed into in-state, value-added processing.
– While nearby states have seen significant growth in livestock production in the last 10 years, Nebraska has not kept pace, particularly in the cases of hog and dairy production.

In light of these trends, Johnson’s team analyzed several livestock-expansion scenarios that industry leaders consider quite possible, taking into account the economic multiplier effects that ripple through the state’s economy from agriculture, especially in rural areas.

The report envisions the following expansion scenarios and estimates both direct and indirect economic impacts.

– A 25 percent expansion of hog finishing volume in Nebraska, scattered across three regions of the state and 15 counties. About 270 on-farm units, each with a 2,400-head capacity and a two-week-per-year turnover rate added.

Total economic impact: 2,676 new jobs; $6.1 million in local tax revenue – More than a doubling of the state’s current dairy herd numbers of 60,000, divided across three regions of the state and 18 counties. A total of 24 new dairy operations, each with a 2,500-head capacity and two new milk processing plants added.

Total economic impact: 3,128 new jobs; nearly $6.2 million in local tax revenue.

– A 10 percent increase in fed cattle production in the state, with expansion distributed geographically in similar proportion to current patterns of production.

Economic impact: 11,661 new jobs; $16 million in local tax revenue

– A tripling of poultry (egg-laying) production in the state.

Economic impact: 1,640 new jobs; $9.8 million in local tax revenue.

Other report authors are Anil Giri, graduate research assistant, agricultural economics; and Tshepelayi Kabata, research associate, agricultural economics.

The report acknowledges there are environmental and societal implications to any expansion of livestock production and said community leaders and residents will have to be part of any discussions of these expansions. But, the report adds, change in the industry is inevitable and the changes outlined in the report could help rural Nebraska thrive.

“Any one of the possible expansion scenarios analyzed here represents thousands of potential jobs and associated earnings distributed widely within and across Nebraska communities and households,” the report concluded. “And with that additional value added economic activity, developed in an environmentally and socially responsible manner, comes the potential for enhanced quality of life for all Nebraskans into the future.

“In sum, the economic challenges posed, as well as the associated economic opportunities afforded, are simply too weighty in Nebraska’s economic future to ignore. It is time to act,” the authors wrote.

Seek nominations for Grand Marshal of Cobblestone Parade

It's just passed the Fourth of July, and nobody wants to think about going back to school yet, but it's time to start thinking about the Cobblestone parade! It's just around the corner, so start planning your floats and other parade entries today! Cobblestone weekend is Aug. 21-24, 2014. The parade will take place at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 23.

According to Lori Gottula, parade chairperson, the theme this year is "A Step Back in Time."

"The theme is chosen by the Chamber of Commerce board, and this one is a good one," Gottula said. "It leaves the door wide open for ideas. The possibilities are really endless."

The Shriners will be here again, and Lori has hopes for more bands and other entries.

In addition, she encourages nominations for the honor of Grand Marshal.

"The Grand Marshal is an individual, couple or group who has gone above-and-beyond-the-call to serve the Falls City community," Gottula said. "This is like a lifetime achievement award, and the committee takes it very seriously. We have so many deserving candidates each year."

Although Gottula does not vote on the award, she oversees its administration, so if you'd like to nominate a candidate, send a letter stating why your nominee deserves consideration to Lori Gottula, 2703 Abbott St., Falls City, NE 68355. Nominations can also be emailed to gottula@sentco.net

"The candidate's contributions can be financial, or contributions of time and talent through volunteer work," Gottula said. Those who are nominated will remain in the pool of consideration for five years, and then can be re-entered.

Please send your nomination by Aug. 1.

Parade entries can also be sent to Gottula by either means listed above. Pre-registration is not required, but helps the parade organizers determine the amount of space needed.
