SANTA CLAUS VISITS FALLS CITY

 Cool temperatures and rainy conditions last Friday night forced the Falls City Chamber of Commerce to postpone Santa's visit from Friday night to Saturday at six p.m. However, the Christmas opening and "Shop Small Saturday" events continued on as scheduled, and appeared to be unaffected by the weather.

The majority of chamber businesses were open Friday night, and were busy despite the rain and Santa's postponement.

Dozens of business owners and managers commented that they were very pleased with the walk-in traffic that night, and echoed that sentiment Saturday. They were happy with the resulting sales, as well. One manager even commented that her store's sales had been good all week.

"We've been very busy since last Sunday, when we started our 20 percent off sale," said Joan E. Stice, manager of the Brown's Shoe Fit store on Harlan Street. "But this weekend has been particularly busy."

Debbie Witt and Barb Sailors agreed. The two joined together for a pop-up store in the building south of Brown's, and saw foot traffic from Missouri and Kansas in the morning, and the Falls City area primarily in the afternoon. Debbie sells country crafts and home goods through DKW Creations, and Barb sells packets of dried goods that, when combined with a few additional ingredients like eggs or meat selections, make delicious dishes. The company she represents is called The Gourmet Cupboard.

"We've had a really good day," Debbie said. "The weather has been great, so that has helped."

Misty Voltmer at Hometown Floral on Harlan said the same. "We've been pleasantly surprised," she said. "We thought that the relocation of the craft show from Pritchard Auditorium to Seid's Event Center north of town might hurt us, but we've been really busy because of the great weather."

Representatives of the craft show were excited as well. The show's $2 admission fee and other proceeds go annually to the Richardson County Cancer Fund, and organizers were happy that the 54-degree day brought a steady flow of traffic out to Seid's.

"A lot of people are walking out with bags in their hands, so that's good," organizer Mike Gilmore said. "We had a lot of people this morning, and it's been steady all afternoon."

PROJECT RESPONSE GIVES THE GIFT OF HOPE ALL YEAR LONG

 Let's call her Hannah, even though that's not her real name. Her real name is confidential because revealing it would put her in danger. Why? Because Hannah is a survivor of domestic violence.

Her name and story are both familiar to Ashley Robertson, executive director of Project Response, a non-profit advocacy agency based in Auburn, Nebraska. Ashley prefers to call her a "survivor" rather than a "victim."

"We don't call any of our clients victims because that term suggests weakness or powerlessness," Ashley said, during a recent interview at her office. "The survivors that we serve are anything but weak, and our objective is to help empower them, not to make them feel like victims."

There are a lot of "them" out there, too. People just like Hannah. Their stories are very similar, too.

Hannah is a contributing member of society, a Sunday school teacher, and mother of two grown children. She's been married to her abuser for decades, but has never told anyone that he belittles, controls and hits her.

Her husband is the primary breadwinner in the family. He's a deacon at his church, and a coach for his grandson's city rec baseball team. Behind closed doors, he's an abuser who controls the money and everything Hannah does. He "lets" her go to the grocery store, but makes her stick to a list. He doesn't let her have friends, so she has no one to talk to. He won't let her go anywhere without him, and if she does, he hits her. People just think she's a homebody. She's not.

She stays for a variety of reasons. One is because she really does love him. He's not abusive ALL the time. He's charming, funny, and often a good dad. She believes that the good times are worth the bad ones.

Another reason she stays is because she's been isolated for years. Her family and friends have abandoned her because she was never available for them. She's never told anyone about the abuse, so she thinks no one will believe her. She has no money either, so she has no resources if she does leave.

She's scared, too. She's been told if she leaves, he will beat her, kill her, take the children, hurt the children, hurt someone in her family. The list of threats goes on and on. So it's easier if she stays.

There are a lot of women in our communities who are just like Hannah. She could be anyone—your neighbor, relative, friend, or the girl at the end of the block who rarely leaves her house. No matter what her name is, if you know her and suspect abuse in her home, befriend her. Ask Questions. Don't walk away then. Listen. Really listen. If she confides in you, then tell her about Project Response.

The agency, which serves Richardson, Nemaha, Johnson, Otoe, and Pawnee counties, is based primarily in Auburn, but has a satellite office in Nebraska City. It has a 24-hour hotline at 1-800-456-5764, and a website with an escape button, just in case a survivor needs to end the search for help immediately. That website is projectresponseinc.org.

Project Response has come a long way since its beginning in 1987. It was born when one of the founders, Phyllis Oakley Heidzig of Auburn, discovered that the five counties in southeast Nebraska were the only ones in the state without an advocacy agency for women and men in abusive situations. (Men are sometimes the survivors rather than the perpetrators, but because the majority of cases involve abused women, we will use the term "her.")

Phyllis herself was a survivor of domestic violence, and after 13 years of marriage, left her abuser for the sixth and final time.

"My husband and I had left Colorado and were living in the country near Humboldt," she said, in a recent telephone interview. "When I left him, I moved back to my hometown of Auburn with my three children. He showed up one night with a gun and forced me to wake our kids. My son, who was 10 at the time, told his dad he was sick and ran to the bathroom. He slipped out the back door and ran to my uncle's"

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS VOTE TO MEET EVERY TWO WEEKS

By: Charlie Radatz
 After having discussed the possibility a week earlier of changing from weekly meetings to a schedule of meetings every two weeks, Commissioners voted during their Tues., November 26, meeting to do just that. A motion was made by Commission Chairman David Sichel to adopt Resolution 2019-2020-21 to change the meeting dates of the County Board for the year 2020 to every two weeks beginning January 14, 2020, with the Annual Reorganizational Meeting. Commissioner Caverzagie seconded the motion, and when the vote was taken, it was passed with all three Commissioners voting aye.

The Resolution states that while the Richardson County Board of Commissioners has historically met weekly, the Board determined that scheduling meetings on a bi-weekly basis is sufficient to conduct and finalize the business of Richardson County.

The Board designated the following as the regular meeting dates in the year 2020: January 14 (the Annual Meeting) and 28; Feb. 11 and 25; Mar. 10 and 24; Apr. 7 and 21; May 5 and 19; Jun. 2, 16, and 30; Jul. 14 and 28; Aug. 11 and 25; Sept. 8 and 22; Oct. 6 and 20; Nov. 3 and 17; and Dec. 1, 15, and 29.

Laura Osborne, Grant Administrator of the 4 County Juvenile Grant program requested the Board considers entering into revised contracts with her and Maxine Schatz to implement the 4 County Juvenile program and diversion program in Nemaha, Johnson, Pawnee, and Richardson counties. The agreements were revised to include some minor changes in wording and to provide more detail on payment for services provided to youth who are being served. Commissioners voted unanimously to approve the revised contracts with each of the program administrators.

Sheriff Hardesty and Chief Deputy Roland Mervin reviewed with the Board the routine business within the Law Enforcement Center during the prior week.

Clayton Hardenberger, the Jail Administrator, informed the Board that Sheriff's Department personnel had met with Community Medical Center staff.

GROWING OPPORTUNITIES FOR A WORLD-CLASS WORKFORCE

By Governor Pete Ricketts

As I travel across Nebraska, one thing I hear consistently from businesses is their need to find skilled workers. Whether to replace retiring teammates or expand their business, Nebraska companies are looking for talent to help their operations grow and thrive. In a statewide survey of businesses, more than 71 percent stated it was difficult to find skilled workers.

To meet this need, my team has partnered with the US Department of Labor (USDOL), businesses, and educators to establish Registered Apprenticeship (RA) programs in a wide range of industries. Registered Apprenticeships are recognized by the USDOL and involve a mix of on-the-job training and educational instruction. RA programs result in a certification accepted throughout the United States.

In July, the Nebraska Department of Labor (NDOL) received a grant from the USDOL to expand Registered Apprenticeships across the state. Since January 2016, Nebraska has increased its number of RA programs by 44%, and several more are in development. In total, there are approximately 4,700 Registered Apprentices currently participating. Of these, 3,770 enrolled during the federal fiscal year of 2019.

National Apprenticeship Week is celebrated annually in November to promote the value of this "earn while you learn" model of workforce development. Last week, Lieutenant Governor Foley attended a signing ceremony to mark the launch of a new RA program. Duncan Aviation in Lincoln started the first airframe technician Registered Apprenticeship program in the state. "We now have a true pathway to help new team members become knowledgeable, well-rounded aircraft technicians," said Jeremy Rangel, Duncan Aviation Airframe Manager. "The work-based learning strategy helps Duncan Aviation increase team member skills and engagement while developing the company's future leaders."

To give the next generation of Nebraskans exposure to great-paying professions, we're introducing students to IT and manufacturing careers at ages 12-13. Gaining familiarity with these opportunities at an early age greatly increases the likelihood that students will pursue them. In 2015, we started the Developing Youth Talent Initiative (DYTI) to bring together local businesses and public schools to introduce middle school students to in-demand occupations. Through DYTI, students can explore these jobs through hands-on learning activities.

Students who develop an interest in IT or manufacturing can then take part in a high school career academy to gain industry-specific skills. From Sandy Creek to Scottsbluff, schools are creating these academies to enhance students' workplace readiness and to give them the opportunity to earn college credits prior to graduation. In many communities, schools and businesses have partnered to offer Youth Registered Apprenticeships so that high school students can supplement classroom study with work-based learning. College students seeking a 2-year or 4-year degree can register for an RA program to gain a working knowledge in their chosen vocation while simultaneously earning college credits. Alternatively, youth can go directly into an RA program after high school. All RA programs include a classroom learning component, and many employers will pay the way for apprentices who later wish to attain a degree. This arrangement allows them to make money right out of high school and limits their college student debt. With these programs, we're building a pipeline of talent—starting in middle school and extending through college—to fill the many jobs that companies like Facebook, Google, Cargill, and Costco are bringing to Nebraska.

Last week, I led a trade mission to Germany to promote Nebraska as a place for companies to invest. The German American Chamber of Commerce in the Midwest and German businesses in Nebraska are developing new apprenticeships in our state to create an educational pathway to great-paying jobs. Earlier this year, CLAAS and Graepel, two German companies with North American headquarters in Omaha, launched Nebraska's first German-style apprenticeships with the Industry Consortium for Advanced Technical Training (ICATT). The program trains to German standards of excellence and cooperates with Metropolitan Community College, allowing graduates of ICATT to receive an associate's degree upon completion. ICATT graduates are exactly the sort of highly skilled workers that international manufacturers are looking for when they set up operations in Nebraska.

Private businesses are not the only organizations creating apprenticeship opportunities. Our team at the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) is developing a pre-apprenticeship program. DHHS has partnered with Associated Builder and Contractors to create a USDOL Quality Pre-Apprenticeship program for welders and electricians. It will be offered at the Youth Rehabilitation and Treatment Centers. Pre-apprentices completing this program will begin earning industry-recognized credentials. They will have the opportunity to participate in an Associated Builders and Contractors (ABC) Registered Apprenticeship program when they turn 18.

These are just some of the examples of Registered Apprenticeship programs creating opportunities for Nebraska workers and filling business needs. If you are interested in becoming an apprentice, contact your local Nebraska Department of Labor office. Companies interested in starting a Registered Apprenticeship program should contact Elliott Cain (elliott.cain@nebraska.gov) or Scott Asmus (scott.asmus@nebraska.gov). More information is available on NDOL's YouTube channel and at <http://dol.nebraska.gov>. If you'd like to tell me about your experience as an apprentice, I hope you will contact me at pete.ricketts@nebraska.gov or by calling 402-471-2244.

Property Tax solution faces competition from petition drive

Capitol View
Nebraska Press Association
By: J.J. Schmidt

It looks like a legislative committee has come up with a plan to address the state's nagging property tax problems. Weeks of meetings by the Revenue Committee resulted in the plan, which now needs buy-in from the Governor. Aye, there's the rub.

During a recent legislative retreat, Revenue Committee Chairwoman Sen. Lou Ann Linehan of Elkhorn told her colleagues the committee has spent a large portion of the interim looking at the property tax problem from a number of angles. While it won't be easy to get a bill passed in the 60-day session, the Legislature has no choice.

Looming over the whole discussion is a petition circulating that would provide landowners a state income tax credit equal to 35 percent of their annual property tax bill. Of course, it would also blow a $1 billion hole in the state budget to provide the necessary funding.

Linehan said the petition drive is not the best way to go; yet she understands that it comes from people who are so frustrated with legislative inaction that they are willing to put lawmakers "in a box." But, she said, local officials — members of county boards, city administrations, community colleges, natural resources districts and school boards — have to cooperate, too. They have to slow down their spending.

She suggested that lawmakers become educators and set the record straight with constituents about where the money comes from and where it goes. A failure to find solutions will result in people and businesses leaving what they perceive to be a high tax state.

Senator Steve Erdman of Bayard, a staunch supporter of the petition drive, said his colleagues are focused on the wrong thing if they're only looking at those who collect and spend the taxes instead of those who pay them.

If you've read this column before, feel free to insert my favorite property tax line here. It's all about whose ox is getting gored. Erdman is a farmer and farmers claim they pay more than their fair share of property taxes.

He said the proposal from the Revenue Committee, as it stands, would simply fuel more people to sign the petition. "We need to focus on the taxpayer and not those who receive the taxes."

Committee member Sen. Tom Briese of Albion said he fears the final product will not provide meaningful and sustainable property tax relief. Committee member Sen. Mike Groene of North Platte thinks the end product will be enough to make a dent in property tax bills, but not enough to slow the petition drive.

Groene and Linehan have been meeting with Gov. Pete Ricketts who sharply opposed the committee's initial tax plan during the 2019 session. He said the governor is reasonable. He is listening.

Groene said the petition initiative proposal would embed the property tax reduction plan within the state constitution. He thinks it could be a tool to scare the status quo, scaring people to try to be reasonable.

He might be right, but let me tell you three things that scare me:

The initiative would change the constitution. Once changed, those changes are hard to undo.

The initiative would be on the ballot at the same time as half of the Legislature is up for election. How many of those senators are going to chance speaking up on a topic that could cost them an election?

Yes, the governor might be listening. But to whom?

Aye, there's the rub!

Project Response gives the gift of hope all year long

house across the street. The police arrived just in time.

After Phyllis found the stamina to stand on her own, she wanted to empower other survivors to do the same. She wanted them to be free to live their best lives. While researching grants, she discovered that the Department of Health and Human Services had money available for the very services that she wanted to offer. As a result, she, a volunteer board, and then Falls City police chief Gary Spencer helped open the first Project Response office at St. Mary's Hospital in Nebraska City. Realizing that the facility needed to be more centrally located, they later moved it to Auburn.

Fast forward thirty years. The agency is now funded by donations, grants, commitments from four of the five counties that it serves, and revenue from the Neighborhood Closet, a thrift store in Auburn. However, Project Response's mission has remained the same: the elimination of domestic violence and sexual assault through empowerment, education, social action, and support services.

Ashley Robertson has been the agency's director for the past two years. However, she has worked at the office on-and-off since 2014. She also has a degree in psychology from Peru State College.

She currently works with four other full-time advocates at Project Response plus two full-time employees and one part-time at The Neighborhood Closet. All of the advocates are trained for emergency and non-emergency situations. Every case is kept strictly confidential.

"We are required by law to report child abuse," Ashley said, "but everything else is absolutely confidential. We are so committed to confidentiality that we won't even acknowledge a client in public unless she approaches us first. Then, we will be cordial, but we will never act like we know her professionally."

That confidentiality is one of the main reasons for the organization's success. Another is its open-door policy. "There is no judgment here," Ashley said. "If a woman tells us that she has been or is being abused, we will believe her and serve her. There are no income requirements, and no questions asked. If she needs emergency shelter, we'll find it. We will exhaust all resources to help her, and we'll do so without judgment, whether she leaves her abuser or not."

"Research has shown that survivors go back to their abusers an average of seven to nine times before they finally leave," Ashley said. "We know that statistic, we understand it, and we will be there for the survivors no matter what."

Being there means several things. "Most importantly, it means that we listen to and believe those who come to us," Ashley said. "Sometimes survivors just need someone to listen! If one of them asks for professional advice or guidance, then we offer it."

Being there also means providing basic needs for the less fortunate, whether they are survivors of domestic violence or not. Project Response does so with its food pantry at the back of the office building at 908 13th Street in Auburn. People are asked to use the alley, find the Project Response office, and ring the doorbell.

"We keep the pantry at the back so that we can maintain privacy for anyone who may be in the office at that time," Ashley said. "The pantry is primarily funded by the Auburn Presbyterian Church, and is there for anyone who finds himself or herself in need."

Families or individuals can use the pantry once a month, and in emergency situations. It is stocked with non-perishables like canned goods, cereal, and boxed dinners, and with necessities like soap, shampoo, and diapers.

The agency also provides clothing vouchers that its clients (or those in need) can use at The Neighborhood Closet, which is located at 1118 J Street in Auburn. The vouchers can be used every three months and in emergencies.

And finally, being there means providing aid to anyone in the five-county service area who has experienced or is experiencing domestic violence, sexual assault, or human trafficking. The advocates at the office will do anything they can to help make things easier.

They will help fill out requests for protection orders, provide temporary shelter, and find housing. They will also locate short-term counseling. In emergency situations, they will even meet survivors at the hospital, to provide support and assistance during very frightening times. "We just want survivors to know that they are not alone," Ashley said. The same is true for those who are caught up in the world of human trafficking. All of the advocates at Project Response are trained to handle such cases, but Robyn Bateman, the program coordinator, has dealt directly with the issue in all five of the counties that Project Response serves.

"We all want to bury our heads in the sand and think that sex trafficking isn't happening in our communities," she said, during a short interview. "But it is happening. I have seen it first-hand in all of the larger communities, including Falls City."

Robyn said that she witnessed the trafficking of women inside a public place that she frequented when she was working in town. A young woman would leave the location with one man, return a short time later, then leave with another man. When the manager of the location grew suspicious, the police were called, and the trafficking stopped.

"But that just means it moved to another location," Robyn said. "The men who typically traffic young women and girls aren't going to stop doing it as long as there is a demand. They're just going to move somewhere else. Typically, they are watching the girls, too. They are either with them, or are lurking somewhere in the shadows."

The handler, (or pimp, as he used to be called) is often a boyfriend or relative, but sometimes he's a captor who has lured the girl away from her loved ones under false pretenses.

"We know of one girl who came here from out of state. She was promised a place to stay while she got a CNA license and a job," Robyn said. "When she got here, her captor took her driver's license, and forced her to sell herself for money. These horrific actions won't stop until we stop the supply and demand," Robyn said.

"We have to educate residents of our communities about the reality of trafficking, as well as the reality of domestic violence and sexual assault."

The advocates at Project Response are doing both to the best of their abilities. But ending these violent crimes will take us all. So what can we do?

"Pay attention to your surroundings," Ashley Robertson said. "If a situation appears questionable, or you believe it's dangerous, call the police. If you think a woman is being abused or trafficked, ask questions. And keep asking, even she says she's o.k. Secondly, if you have the means to provide shelter for someone who's being abused or trafficked, then do."

Those who can't help directly can help indirectly by donating to Project Response. Its longevity speaks for itself. The office accepts donations of all kinds—money, or contributions of food and necessities for the food pantry, clothing and household items for The Neighborhood Closet, or gifts of time. Volunteers who are willing to work the hotline are especially coveted.

"We provide all of the training," Ashley said, "When our office isn't open, the calls are transferred to our cell phones. That way, we can live our lives and still serve."

If you can't serve in that way, then give.

Every donation tells a survivor – survivors like Hannah—that someone really does care. Hannah could be anyone—your niece, your sister, your friend. She could be the girl in your class who wears the same clothes every day, or the woman on Facebook who looks like she's got it all together.

The thing that all of these women need more than anything else is hope. Hope that their lives can be different and better. Hope that they can break free of the chains that bind them. So search your heart this Christmas, then call Project Response at (402) 274-5092, and give the gift of hope.

Santa in FC

Hannah Wright, whose family traveled to the show from Columbus, NE to sell custom-made hair-styling products through Lilla Rose, was equally positive. "It has definitely been worth the trip," she said.

Susan Losson of Susan's Quilt Friends out of Troy, Kansas, said her sales were worth the trip, too. "I wasn't sure what to expect when my husband and I left the house in fog this morning," she said. "But the day turned out to be beautiful, and the sales have been great so far."

That beautiful day turned into a blustery, cold night as soon as the sun went down, but that didn't stop the 250-plus Santa seekers from forming lines at 5:30 p.m. to catch Santa's arrival at 6:00.

At the top of the hour, a team of black horses pulling a white carriage pranced up to the mini-park, with Santa on the carriage seat and driver Jesse Balman of Chillicothe, MO, at the reins. Wide-eyed children and a group of carolers welcomed them.

Santa, who eerily resembled former resident Mike Pethoud, took his place in the Santa house while parents hustled their children into one of two lines. One was for Santa's lap, and the other was for free carriage rides on the beautiful Cinderella-style carriage owned by Wayne Duncan of Savannah, MO.

A third line formed then, too. It was for hot chocolate and cookies, provided by the Falls City volunteer fire department. Former fire chief JR Wisdom said that the firefighters' contribution was part of the department's outreach program. "We do a lot more than fight fires," he said. And it was obvious that the firefighters enjoyed it as much as the children did. Nearly one-dozen showed up in battle-ready gear to distribute hot cocoa to shivering patrons.

The cocoa was needed, too. Kids in stocking caps, mittens, blankets, and sleeping bags waited their turns in line as bitter winds blew. But each child who left the Santa house, or climbed out of the carriage, had a smile a mile wide. Each also received a coloring book from the Falls City Chamber of Commerce via board member Kaylie Ractliffe, a gift that produced even brighter smiles.

And that is the reason the volunteers do it. The smiles on the kids' faces and the twinkles in their eyes. The twinkles that show that magic is still alive and well at Christmas.

Jones Air Conditioning is the Chamber's Member of the Month

By Amber Holle

Like previous honorees Jim Hill's, Jones Air Conditioning is another business on Chase Street that is not lacking in the experience department. Forty-five years in business makes the Jones' team heavily equipped to handle all your heating, cooling, and plumbing needs.

Gary and Linda Jones started Jones Air Conditioning in 1974. In the beginning, it was a small operation, but they quickly realized there was an increasing need for their services. They moved into a storefront on Chase Street in 1984. In 2014 they needed more space and moved their office across the street to the corner of 16th and Chase, where they are located today. They employ four additional individuals, not including Tugs, the loveable office cat.

Jones' offers a variety of services for your home or business, including heating, cooling and boilers. Installation and repair, plumbing, sewer and drain service. They stock equipment, parts, and supplies. They also install water softeners, water heaters, disposals, faucets, sinks, toilets, and much more. Basically, they can do it all!

Southeast Community College receives $500,000 for distance learning project

USDA Rural Development Nebraska State Director Karl Elmshaeuser today announced that $500,000 will be utilized for a distance learning project in Southeast Nebraska.

"Increasing education through technology, enhanced equipment and software that brings educators and students together virtually, helps rural areas to have access to expanded education," said Elmshaeuser.

Southeast Community College (SCC) will implement a distance learning project in Southeast Nebraska for health-care education in a 15-county service area (Cass, Fillmore, Gage, Jefferson, Johnson, Lancaster, Nemaha, Otoe, Pawnee, Richardson, Saline, Saunders, Seward, Thayer York).

Elmshaeuser's announcement is in coordination with U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Deputy Under Secretary for Rural Development Donald "DJ" LaVoy who announced today that USDA is investing $42.5 million in 133 distance learning and telemedicine projects in 37 states and two U.S. territories. USDA is providing the funding through the Distance Learning and Telemedicine (DLT) grant program. These investments will benefit 5.4 million rural residents.

Applicants eligible for Distance Learning and Telemedicine grants include most State and local governmental entities, federally-recognized tribes, nonprofits, for-profit businesses and consortia of eligible entities. In Nebraska, contact General Field Representative Roger Meeks for more information on the DLT program at 402.416.4936 or roger.meeks@usda.gov.

In April 2017, President Donald J. Trump established the Interagency Task Force on Agriculture and Rural Prosperity to identify legislative, regulatory and policy changes that could promote agriculture and prosperity in rural communities. In January 2018, Secretary Perdue presented the Task Force's findings to President Trump. These findings included 31 recommendations to align the federal government with state, local and tribal governments to take advantage of opportunities that exist in rural America. Supporting the rural workforce was a cornerstone recommendation of the task force.

Lions Club News

By Ron Rist, Past District Governor, Lions of Nebraska; Humboldt Lions Club President
Communities around the world are in great need, facing challenges that seem to grow and multiply. Nevertheless, Lions work tirelessly, whether it is reaching out to neighbors cross town or across borders. They create lasting positive change. Thanks to grants from Lions Clubs International Foundation, Lions receive the support they need to take on some of the world's most daunting cases.

Through Campaign 100, Lions and LCIF are preparing to make large-scale, deep-rooted change by increasing service impact by providing the resources needed to reduce global vision impairment, empower youth worldwide, and support disaster relief. Lions fight diabetes. By reducing its prevalence, it improves the quality of life for those diagnosed. Expanding Lions' global causes to combat hunger, battle childhood cancer, and protect the environment are significant issues to deal with.

Lions have long taken a stand against hunger. Now, with the LCIF Hunger Pilot Grant Program, Lions can do even more to feed the hungry. Imagine the impact of a new or expanded school-based feeding program, or the development of new ways to store food so it does not spoil, or a dedicated vehicle to collect and deliver food to elderly community members. With funding for initiatives like these, Lions can ease the burden of hunger.

Every two minutes, a child is diagnosed with cancer. This startling statistic prompted Lions to adopt childhood cancer as a cause area, and LCIF is empowering Lions to support families with children battling cancer. Through the LCIF Childhood Cancer Pilot Grant Program, Lions can create housing where families rest, sleep, or cook while their child is receiving treatments or provide reliable transportation. Lions can also improve patients' quality of life by creating programs where the children can learn, exercise, and play.

Lions' success through grants is thanks to the generosity of donors. Lions who attended the recent Lions Clubs International Convention in Milan, Italy, received the great news that Campaign 100 reached its 2018-2019 fundraising goal, with funds totaling $110,903,738.00. This is substantial progress toward the campaign's ultimate aim of raising $300 million. This is an ambitious goal that needs participation from every Lion worldwide.

Janice Ione (Berkley) Roush

Janice Ione (Berkley) Roush, 83, long time resident of Morrill, KS, passed away peacefully on Sunday, November 24, 2019 at the Sabetha Community Hospital in Sabetha, KS. Janice will be forever remembered for her love of children, her kindness and the pure, simple joy she always maintained in her life.

Janice was born in Hamlin, KS, on August 6, 1936, to Dale and Dorothy (Kimmel) Berkley. Janice's mother passed away shortly after Janice's birth, leaving Janice, and her brother, Clair, to be raised by their grandparents, Maurice and Ione Berkley. Janice attended school in Hamlin, KS, and graduated from Hamlin High School in 1954. Janice met the love of her life, Samuel Roush, at the Sycamore Skating Rink, and they were later married on September 25, 1955, and enjoyed 63 years of a wonderful marriage.

Janice was particularly gifted in caring for the elderly, and always had at least one elderly person she loved and cared for. She also had a devotion to children while being a member of the Morrill Baptist Church and leader of the Morrill Tip Top 4-H Club. Caring for the elderly and being with children gave Janice her greatest joy and allowed her to touch so many lives. She particularly loved the Church Women's Missionary Society and the Sunday pot luck dinners following church services. She was a long-time leader of the 4-H Club and spent hours encouraging and coaching the members. Janice was an excellent cook, managed a huge garden, enjoyed craft projects and loved times spent with family on her front porch waving to passer-by's.

Janice leaves a Christian legacy of kindness, gentleness, faithfulness and joy, all qualities she passed on to her children and grandchildren. She is survived by her son Eldon Roush, wife Janet, granddaughter Emma, all of Overland Park, KS, daughter Jane Sunderland, husband Robert, granddaughter Anna, grandson Isaac, of Sabetha, KS, grandson Luke and his wife, Carlotta, both of Lawrence, KS, and daughter Mary Kaye Howard, husband Scott, granddaughter Christal, granddaughter, Makayla, granddaughter Kate, granddaughter Charli Kaye, all of Topeka, KS. Janice was preceded in death by her husband, Samuel Roush and brother, Clair Berkley.

The family wishes to express love and gratitude to the physicians, staff and caregivers at the AC Home and the Sabetha Community Hospital. The family suggests memorials in memory of Janice, in lieu of flowers, to the Kansas Foster and Adoptive Children Scholarship Fund in Topeka, KS or Grains for Hope in Sabetha, KS sent in care of Popkess Mortuary, 823 Virginia Street, Sabetha, KS 66534.

Celebration of Life Service was held on Friday, November 29, 2019 at 2:30 p.m. at the Popkess Mortuary Chapel in Sabetha, KS. The family greeted friends from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. prior to service time. Shane Spangler officiated. Interment was made in the Morrill Cemetery.

Online condolences may be left for the family at www.popkess-mortuaries.com.

Unfinished business for Lady Irish basketball team

By Brian McKim

Heading into the 2019-20 basketball campaign, the Irish girls' basketball team has one thing on their minds, finishing what they started last year in Lincoln. The Irish came within one point of a Class D2 state championship last March, falling 39-38 to Wynot at Pinnacle Bank Arena. The Irish are coming off a 25-4 record and #2 final ranking in D2.

Coach Luke Santo will return for his 14th season and will be helped out by Adam Santo and Holly Westgaard. Santo sports a rather impressive record of 312 wins against just 45 losses.

The Irish will return four starters from last year's team. Sr. McKenzie Witt, a 5'7 point guard, will anchor the Irish offense. Witt averaged 6.2 ppg and 5.5 assists per game last season. Jr. Danielle Bippes, a 5'8 forward scored 6.2 ppg and pulled down six rebounds per game last season. Santo will start two sophomores this year. 5'10 Rachel Magdanz led the Irish in scoring as a freshman with 10.6 points per game and four rebounds. 5'10 Erison Vonderschmidt will also be a potent option on offense as she averaged 9.8 ppg and eight rebounds per contest as a freshman. The Irish lost three seniors from last seasons team, Ahren Ebel, Elizabeth Keithley, and Rande Witt.

Witt, a two-year starter, will handle the ball most of the time for the Irish. "We need her to look to score more and be more aggressive offensively," said Santo. On leading scorers, Magdanz and Vonderschmidt Santo said, "Rachel is one of the better ball handlers, but we would rather have her off the ball so she can score more. Erison is as athletic of a post player as you will find in Class D2. She has a nice jump shot, she can drive and get to the rim with her left hand, and she can score with her back to the rim."

Last season the Lady Irish won the Freeman Holiday Tourney, the Pioneer Conference Tourney, the District final, and finished second at the State Tourney.

Sacred Heart lost the second game of the season last year, 50-45 against Lourdes Central on December 4. The Irish then won 11 consecutive games before falling 25-23 in OT against Sterling in the MUDECAS tourney on January 10. Five days later, the Irish fell 31-25 at Jefferson Mo. SH didn't lose again until the state championship, winning 12 in a row.

"We went through a low point last year in January that cost us a chance at a MUDECAS championship and led us to not playing well for a stretch," said Santo. "That will also be used for motivation this year. Solid leadership can help us get through or avoid those low points. Last year was another great year, but we're disappointed that we came up short in the championship. That should provide plenty of motivation for us this year to try to get back and give ourselves another shot. It won't be easy because Class D2 will have some pretty good teams at the top."

Look for the Irish to get back to Lincoln, but they will have to contend with defending champ Wynot and a very athletic Humphrey St. Francis. Allison Weidner of Humphrey just committed to the University of Nebraska to play basketball.

The season gets underway this Friday when the Irish host the Sterling Jets with girls JV action set for 5:00 p.m.

Irish boys have sights set high

By Brian McKim

The Class D2 Falls City Sacred Heart Irish boys basketball team put together a dominating season last year but ultimately fell short of their championship goal. Entering the state tournament, the Irish boasted a 24-1 record and seemed like a sure bet to repeat on the floor at Pinnacle Bank Arena. The basketball gods had other ideas, as all-stater Tyler Witt went down in the opening round with an ankle injury, and the Irish battled to a first-round win at the buzzer thanks to a three-pointer as time expired by Jamie Stice.

No one gave the Irish much of a chance against Johnson-Brock in the semi-finals. The Irish led by double digits halfway through the fourth quarter, before Johnson mounted a comeback and eventually beat SH 48-45 and went on to win the Class D2 championship.

Doug Goltz enters his 34th season as head coach of the Irish. In his time at Sacred Heart, Goltz has won 645 games to just 175 losses. Goltz has also won nine state championships, winning his first in 1988 and his last in 2018. The Irish will enter the season as a favorite to be in the finals again, along with Humphrey St. Francis, Loomis, Mullen, Johnson-Brock, Mead, and Stuart.

On the plus side, the Irish return four starters from last year's team, the downside, they lose All-State guard Drew Bippes. Bippes was second on the team last year, averaging 13.3 ppg and led the team with 142 assists and 53 steals. Sr. Tyler Witt, a 6'3 forward, will anchor the Irish again this season. Witt average 17.7ppg, and 9.7 rebounds per contest to lead SH last season. Also returning is 6'3 Sr. Jarrot Simon. Simon added 9.8 points and 4.9 rebounds per game last season. 5'11 Sr. guard Jake Hoy returns, averaging 6.6 points and three rebounds and Jamie Stice, a 5'10 Sr. guard averaged 3.7 points and two rebounds per game.

Look for juniors Kyle Bauman, a 6'1 forward (1.7ppg and 1.3 rpg), Del Casteel, a 6'0 forward (2.6ppg and 3.1rpg), and Jack Feigener, a 6'2 forward/guard (1.4ppg and 1 rpg) to all contribute this year. Also, look for 5'11, sophomore guard, Jakob Jordan (3.2 ppg and 1.1 rpg) to be on the court this winter for SH.

"We return four starters, including All-Stater Tyler Witt. We must replace our All-Stater and four-year starting point guard Drew Bippes. We have good experience and athleticism. Our schedule will make us tough," said Coach Doug Goltz.

The Irish boys will tip-off the season at home on Friday, December 6, against the Sterling Jets. JV action will begin at 5:00 p.m. on Friday at Pritchard Auditorium. Sacred Heart will then hit the road for two consecutive games on Tuesday, December 10, at Lourdes Central and then Thursday, December 12, at Doniphan West. Big games on the Irish schedule this year include the Freeman Holiday Tournament (Dec. 27 and 28), the Steve Vertin Classic in St. Joe on January 4, the MUDECAS Tourney Jan 13-18, at Auburn January 21 and against Johnson-Brock on January 30.

The orange and black struggle on the football field in 2019

By Brian McKim

The Falls City Tiger football team wrapped up the 2019 season, dropping their final six games of the fall, finishing at 3-6. After a 44-8 win over Syracuse on Homecoming, the Tigers were on the cusp of being ranked it Class C1 at 3-0. FC then suffered a loss to Fairbury, followed by a defeat at Lincoln Christian and dropping their third game in a row, a 38-7 loss to Ashland-Greenwood. The Tigers saw their losing streak continue with a loss at Nebraska City, a loss to Lincoln Lutheran, and finally a hard to swallow 15-10 loss to the Auburn Bulldogs to finish the season.

For the season, the Tigers offense gained 2,271 yards while their opponents finished with 2,468. Falls City had 1,039 through the air and 1,232 on the ground, averaging 252 yards of offense per game. The Tigers turned the ball over 24 times while Falls City's defense took the ball away 13 times.

Senior Kade Bredemeier did all the passing for FC throughout the season, completing 64 of 140 pass attempts for 1039 yards. Bredemeier threw for seven TD's and while getting picked off 12 times. His longest pass of the season covered 81 yards. Leighton Vice led the ground attack for the Tigers, finishing with 484 yards on 105 carries. Vice had a long run of 42 yards and scored two touchdowns. Drake Butler was next for FC with 272 yards on 44 touches, and Bredemeier finished with 85 carries for 134 yards and six scores.

Trey McAfee was the leading receiver this season with 22 grabs for 552 yards and four scores. Jayden Kreifels had 13 receptions for 296 yards and two scores, Butler finished with four catches for 70 yards, and Jace Heckenlively added ten grabs for 69 yards and a TD.

Defensively the Tigers were led by defensive back James Eickhoff. The senior led the team with 77 total tackles and a team-high three interceptions. McAfee was next for FC with 60 stops, seven for loss, and a fumble recovery. Butler finished with 58 tackles and two ints. Hunter Arnold added 56 tackles, including four for loss, and Jaden Nolte added 53 stops, three sacks, and nine tackles for loss.

Kicker Lukas Aldana finished the year making 3/6 field goal attempts and converted 13 of 14 PAT kicks. Aldana handled the bulk of the punting duties as well, averaging 20.72 yards on 36 kicks. Bredemeier led the kick returner, averaging just shy of 21 yards per return on 14 tries, and Heckenlively had nine returns for 149 yards.

"The season obviously didn't end the way we hoped it would have," said Coach Darin Fritz. "We started the season 3-0, then ended with a six-game losing streak. These players were hard workers and continued to work hard throughout the season, with good attitudes. The senior class will be missed next year; they are a good group and good students who will do well after graduation. Looking forward to next season. We will have a lot of experience coming back, as well as some players coming back from injury. Our work ethic during this offseason will be pivotal in how we do next season."

The All-District teams were recently announced and FC was represented by two seniors, WR/LB Trey McAfee and C/NG Braden Oliver. The Tigers also had five players named honorable mention. Seniors Hunter Arnold, TE/LB, QB/DB Kade Bredemeier, WR/DB James Eickhoff, Junior Jayden Kreifels WR/DB and sophomore OL/DL Jaden Nolte.

Tigers look to rebound from last season

By Brian McKim

The Falls City Tiger boys basketball team will look to build from last season's success and improve upon their 8-13 record from a season ago. Gone from last year's squad are leading scorer Collin Cook (12.6 ppg) and Cade Schawang (95 rebounds).

Returning for Coach Don Hogue will be 6'1 Sr. guard Mason Crawford. Crawford averaged just under ten points a game last season while adding 36 assists. 5'11 Sr. guard Kade Bredemeier finished last season scoring nine points per contest and 6'3 Sr. swingman Caden Simon was solid with eight points per game, 41 assists, and 23 blocked shots. Bredemeier was a 40 percent three-point shooter a season ago, and Simon is a great athlete and decent shooter. Also look for Trey McAfee, a 6'0 Sr. guard to contribute. McAfee is a hard-working, defensive specialist. In the post, look for 6'5 Hunter Arnold and 6'3 Tyler Uhr to work for rebounds under the glass. Also, Brock Hogue, a 5'10 Jr. and Will Vitosh, a 6'0 Jr., can lead the offense and handle the ball.

Coach Hogue is beginning his 21st season as Head Coach of the Tigers. Hogue enters the season with an overall record of 269-213. Hogue will be assisted in his coaching duties this season by Jason Bredemeier and Riley Schoemaker "We should be better and have a little more depth," said Hogue. "We've got to play great defense and transition the ball. Running our sets in the half-court will be key."

The Tigers will begin the season on the road for the first four games. The season will tip-off on Friday, December 6, at Syracuse. The Tigers will then travel to Diller-Odell on Tuesday, December 10, and Johnson-Brock on Thursday, December 12. The following Tuesday, December 17, FC will be at Southern, and finally Friday, December 20, the Tigers will play in front of their home crowd for the first time, taking on Plattsmouth. FC will take on Ashland-Greenwood this season in the SE Nebraska Shootout in Auburn on January 2 and will play at rival and defending Class C1 State Champion Auburn on January 31.

Better start essential for Lady Tigers

By Brian McKim

The Lady Tigers will be kicking off the 2019-2020 basketball season this week when they travel to Syracuse on Friday, December 6. Last season the Rockets beat the Tigers 58-37 to begin the year. FC started slowly last year, dropping the first five games of the season before rebounding and finishing the year with an 8-13 mark.

Head Coach Max Milam will be entering his tenth season at the helm for the Lady Tigers. Milam brings with him 92 wins against 120 losses. Milam will be helped out on the sidelines this season by John Furrow and Allison Haines.

Coach Milam will have lead-scoring Hannah Clary back on the court this winter. Clary, a Sr. averaged nine points per game and two assists. Also back is Sr. Brynna Bruxellas, who averaged eight points, three rebounds, and two assists per contest. Bruxellas made a team-high 25 shots from beyond the arc last season. Falls City will also return Sr. Michelle Beer, who averaged six points and five rebounds per game.

The Tigers lost three seniors from last season's team, Hannah Kirkendall, Ellicyn Gilkerson, and Jessica Burns. Kirkendall averaged eight points and seven rebounds per game last season. Gilkerson made 21-60 three-point shots last season while adding 42 assists. As a team, the Tigers made 38 percent of their shot attempts last season. Also look for junior Eryn Sneathen, Jr. Sara Black and So. Chase Nolte to contribute to FC this year. All three started games last season and will have high expectations.

"We also have a very talented group of underclassmen that should help us improve as they gain game experience," said Coach Milam. "The girls have been working very hard in practice, and we are looking forward to a fun season. If we play with confidence and the young girls get game time, we feel the talent is there to play into March (state)."

Just like the boys, the girls' team will begin the season on the road for the first four games of the season, finally returning home on December 20 for their home opener versus Plattsmouth. The Lady Tigers will be at Auburn on Friday, January 3, at Maryville, Missouri, on January 17.

The Lady Tigers need to get off to a better start this season. Two seasons ago, Falls City went 0-8 to start the year, and last season they were 1-7. If the Tigers can pick up a couple of early wins, they can gain confidence and momentum, and turn it into a very successful season.

ATTENTION PIZZA LOVERS

Jim Larkin owned a Casey's General Store and received permission from the company to experiment selling "made from scratch" pizza and launched Obsey's into pizza. In 1985, he co-founded Brededeux Pizza and by 1992 grew Brededeux to be one of the Top Ten pizza chains by number of locations in the USA.

Jim has improved his pizza recipe and just opened Great American Pizza in St. Joseph, Mo. He is looking for someone to open a Great American Pizza in this community or for a current pizza operator to convert. This is NOT a franchise. There are no franchise fees or on-going royalties. Keep safety in mind when decorating for the holidays Decorations help make the holiday season a magical time of year. Stores are awash in color and twinkling lights, and similar imagery is on display in private homes.

Designing holiday displays can be a great way for families to spend time together and kick off the celebration. In fact, according to Electrical Safety Foundation International, around 90 percent of Americans decorate their homes for the holidays.

When trimming the tree and decorating this holiday season, families must keep safety in mind. A little planning and some precautionary measures can ensure displays are enjoyed all season long. Travelers Insurance offers the following holiday decorating safety tips.

- Do not overload outlets. Plan displays according to the number and location of available outlets.

- Never exceed the maximum number of light strands that can be attached together.

- Use lights and products that have been tested for safety. Certification marks like UL, ETL and CSA are from nationally recognized laboratories.

- LED lights should be used whenever possible. Such lights consume less energy and run cooler than other bulbs.

- The ESFI says candles start almost 50 percent of all decoration fires. Minimize the risk by using candles only when they can be monitored. Artificial candles can be used in place of real candles.

- Check for freshness in live trees. A fresh tree will last longer and is less of a fire hazard than an old tree.

- Place Christmas trees at least three feet away from all heat sources, including fireplaces and heaters.

- Use decorations that are non-combustible or made from flame-resistant materials.
- Pay attention to the age recommendations of decorations to see if they can be used in homes with young children. Some items, however common, are choking or strangulation hazards.

- Avoid putting small, "mouth-sized" decorations near the ground or on lower limbs of trees, where young children can easily reach them.

- Exercise caution when hanging decorations at high heights. Make sure the ladder is secured and have a spotter who can hold the ladder and pass items up safely.

- Outdoor electric lights and decorations should be plugged into circuits protected by ground fault circuit interrupters, or GFCIs.

- Exercise caution when decorating near power lines that extend to the house.
- Keep hung stockings far away from open flames so they do not catch any errant embers.

These are just a few suggestions for decorating a safely for the holiday season.

THE ANNUAL COUNTY GOVERNMENT DAY was held Nov. 18 at the Richardson County Courthouse. High school juniors from the two county schools — Falls City High, and Humboldt-Table Rock-Steinauer received a day-long introduction to local government operations. The day started with General Assembly in the District Courtroom and welcome by David Sichel. An Invocation was given by Norma Arington of the Richardson County ALA. Curtis Maschman, Richardson County Court Judge, gave the Oath of Office. David Sichel, Richardson County Board of commissioners gave the Introduction of County Officials and Dick Arington, Richardson County Legion gave the introduction of the American Legion and Auxiliary Officers. The students were then given a tour of the Nebraska County Government by Richardson County ALA President, Tana Brown. The students then heard from Senator Julie Slama and a National Guard Speaker before a visit to the Richardson County Law Enforcement Center.

ACCIDENTS

On November 18, 2019, according to police reports, Abigail Harms, of Falls City and Hellen Walker, of Falls City were both parked in the parking lot of Falls City High School. Video from the school showed that Harms started backing out of the parking space but stopped to allow pedestrians to walk through. Walker began backing out and struck the bumper of Harms, scraping the side of Walker's vehicle. Harms said she stopped to let people go by and Walker said she never saw Harms' vehicle. An estimated $800 in damage was done to each vehicle. No citations were issued.

On November 14, 2019, according to police reports, Ruth Groothuis, of Falls City, stated that she turned onto McLean Street from 21st Street. Groothuis stated she didn't see the parked vehicle owned by Eric Holle, of Falls City, until just before she hit it. Groothuis hit the parked vehicle. Groothuis' vehicle went under the vehicle owned by Holle lifting it and pushing the rear of it into the street and the front into a street sign. An estimated $5,000 in damage was done to the Groothuis vehicle; Holle's vehicle was totaled and $50 in damage was done to the street sign. No citation's were issued.

On November 16, 2019, according to police reports, Forrest Gaston II, of Morrill, KS, pulled into Dylan Leafy, of Rulo, and hit the driver's side door. Gaston pushed/pulled Leafy half a block south on Harlan Street causing severe damage. Gaston then took off south out of town without stopping at the accident scene. Leafy's vehicle was totaled; there was an estimated $500 in damage done to the Gaston vehicle. A citation is pending.

So, year two of the Scott Frost project is in the books. Not quite the improvement fans were hoping for, 4-8 to 5-7, but, baby steps people. We need to flat-out come to terms with the fact that Nebraska football was awful when Coach Frost took over, and he is trying his best to pull us out of the black hole.

One thing we learned this season is we need to temper our expectations a bit. While Frost and Company are slowly rebuilding a once-proud program, it will take time to get all the athletes in the positions that they need. Recruiting needs to be at the forefront. We need big, mean offensive and defensive linemen. We need tall and fast wide receivers who can get downfield or catch a pass in traffic over the middle and big, fast running backs who can run North and South, not so much East and West. Mostly we need athletic players, looking to sell out on every play.

I may have been off just a little bit in my sure thing, lockdown, preseason column. I had Nebraska at 9-3 with wins over Colorado, Indiana, Purdue, and Iowa. Come next season, I will probably make the same mistakes because even after all the hardships, I still bleed red.

Now on to the Iowa game. As much as I try to keep positive about Coach Frost, one thing I can't get on board with is his play-calling. How many quick outs can we run to a receiver? A play that loses yards more often than it gains yards. Also, the end of the game play calling gets to me. With a game on the line or within reach, our coaches look to playing it safe, going for overtime instead of the win. When your 5-6 and need a win to become bowl eligible, you pull out all the stops, be aggressive. Leave Luke McCaffrey in the game at QB if he has the hot hand, because really, what do you have to lose by giving the freshman a chance? McCaffrey has looked good in his limited opportunities and looks decisive when he decides to tuck the ball and run. I smell a quarterback battle brewing for the Spring, and I'm excited about it.

Now I'm going to try to get the NSAA's attention a little bit. First off congrats to a very talented Humphrey St. Francis Flyers football team on winning the Class D2 title last Monday at Memorial Stadium. Now here's my problem with the whole playoff system, and I'm not sure how you fix it. No offense to the teams from the West side of the playoff bracket, but they usually aren't as well equipped to hold up to the competition like the teams from the East. From the best that I can tell, going back 32 years to 1988 when Humboldt won the State Championship, the East team has prevailed 26 of the 32 times. Once again, I'm not sure how to remedy this problem, but often time the semi-final in the East is the real State Championship. This year SH lost to HSF 24-16 in the Semi's, and Humphrey defeated Pleasanton 70-16 in finals. Now you tell me which two teams deserved to be in Lincoln
