Hot topic on Council agenda

To burn or not to burn. And when. Those are the questions. A proposal to reduce the time for allowed burning of trash from two days per week to one day - between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. - will almost certainly dominate the discussion when the City Council meetings at 7 p.m. Monday at City Hall.

Councilman Hal Sutter made the proposal Feb. 20 and it advanced by a 5-3 vote, with Ryan Rieschick, Steve Scholl and Jim Wisdom casting nay votes, while Sutter, Brad Campbell, Kirby Roubidoux, Mike Moore and Jerry Oliver voted in favor of the new regulation.

Since both Roubidoux and Oliver were both absent at the March 5 meeting, Councilmembers voted to table the first reading until March 20. Had Sutter's motion to table the issue not been approved, it would've died if Mayor Tim Hersh was left to cast the tie-breaking vote. He fervently opposes the proposal.

"Limiting the public to four hours per week is next to impossible for those who need to burn because of work," he said. "I myself have garbage pickup, but if I want the choice to burn, I should have that freedom of choice."

FOR THE FAINT OF HEART

By Jason Schock

Last deer season, in late November, when Al Comer emerged from the timber and an arduous 1/2-mile roundtrip hike to track a wounded animal, he new skinning and dressing the kill only comprised a portion of his 'to-do' list.

He could barely breath, so he needed to see the doctor. Al had battled a failing heart for more than a decade and (finally, according to his wife, Sharon) that afternoon he earnestly paid notice to what his body was telling him.

"It got to where I couldn't walk anywhere without stopping," he said. "I couldn't go a block."

What he learned was that while his formidable will still said, "go," his heart finally said "no."

"The surgeon told me I was standing on a ledge waiting for something to push me off it," Al said. "If I knew I was in that bad of shape, I wouldn't have been doing what I was doing."

In 2000, doctors told Al a virus had weakened his left ventricle and that someday down the road the organ would need help doing its job. That day arrived last deer season and Al was admitted into the hospital for open-heart surgery, where Dr. John Um of the Nebraska Medical Center implanted a left ventricular assist device, or L-VAD, into Al's chest. Al's was one of 20 such surgeries performed at the UNMC in 2011. A pump draws blood out of his heart, up into the aorta, and then circulates it through the body. A computer controller, a power pack and a reserve power pack remain outside the body. Al, essentially, is living without a heartbeat.

After spending four weeks in the hospital, Al was released and has steadily recovered. Now, the 66-year-old retired factory worker and farmer is "much more active than before. It's helped me quite a bit," he said.

When Al isn't participating in cardio rehab at Community Medical Center three times a week, you can find him walking at Prichard Auditorium - two miles at a time. Though fluid retention became a problem in January and sent him back to the hospital for a short stay, Al's recovery has gone very well. He's getting stronger with the help of the L-VAD, and is on the active waiting list for a heart transplant.

"If I had to live with this the rest of my life, I could," he said. "But I'll get the transplant if I can."

Having to carry the batteries to power the machine, Al, an avid fisherman, can't be submersed in water. That rules out fishing boats, where "man overboard" would take on a whole new meaning in Al's case. He says he can't swim, anyway. So the benefits of the L-VAD far outweigh the cost for Al. "It's keeping me going," he said.

"We're seeing some amazing things - things we wouldn't have seen before," Dr. Um said.

Bern, KS school to close at end of year

The Sabetha Herald reported in last week's edition that the Board of Education of USD No. 113 Prairie Hills (Sabetha) has voted to close the facilities at Bern and Summerfield.

Board members voted to close Bern Schools, effective at the end of the 2011-12 school year, and the Summerfield Elementary School, effective no later than June 30, 2013.

The board's action had been under discussion for some time, with district patrons' meetings, etc.

The Herald's report included a comment by board member Roger Brockhoff, "This whole thing has been tough. No one wants to close schools, but the dollars and cents dictate what we do."

G.A.R. Hall retired from active duty

By Bill Schock

The G.A.R. Hall at 1505 Lane Street, which has served as a meeting place for veterans for about 150 years, has been retired from active duty.

Civil War veterans and their Grand Army of the Republic organization bought the wooden building from St. Thomas Episcopal Church in 1884 and moved it to the Lane Street location. It was purchased by World War I veterans after the Armistice closed down that war, and Chapter 43 of the Disabled American Veterans bought it in 1984 and utilized it, under the guidance of Charles Schlicker, a World War II veteran, as a meeting hall until several months ago when the local chapter merged with Nebraska City's DAV unit.

Schlicker, who has served as state commander of the Nebraska Department and commander of the local unit off and on since it was formed, said lack of participation by the local membership forced the merger with Nebraska City.

But the old building, believed to be one of only four G.A.R. Halls still standing in Nebraska, isn't dead yet. The walls are lined with photos dat-

A little history comes along with the decision to discontinue its use by the DAV.

Down goes Frazah! Down goes Frazah! Howard Cosell's famous call of Ali's knockdown of Smokin' Joe Frazier came to mind in the days after yours truly went down for the count. The term "curtains" also registered.

The extremely limited skills (virtually no skills at all) I once had in the domestic engineering department appear to have waned with age, to the point that I can no longer trust myself with the simple task of hanging curtains. One has to wonder what trauma I would inflict on myself with anything more complicated. Screwing in a light bulb, for example.

After placing an order with Penney's that I picked up at Mary's Appliance and JC Penney catalogue store, I returned home Tuesday to finish a job that was half done. I'd hung two panels of curtains to cover a couple of windows on the east side of my house, then decided two more panels were needed. Thus the order and the Feb. 21 after-work job. Piece of cake.

I wouldn't need a ladder. The little stepstool would suffice, I carelessly determined. The job was undertaken, one additional panel installed on each side. All that was left was to secure the brackets that held the curtain rod in place. I was attempting that very thing when the two panels on the left side shifted. I grabbed for them, throwing me off balance. The stepstool went over, with me on top of it.

I'm not quite sure what happened next, except that gravity took over and I crash landed. Somehow, my right leg got caught in a compromising attitude, sort of tangled up in the stepstool. As I've told friends and relatives, it's unfortunate that my head didn't take the blow. It is so hard as to be virtually indestructible.

But my head was not on the receiving end, my right leg was. I didn't hear a "crack" or "crunch" and figured I had somehow severely sprained my ankle. For a very short time, I pulled myself to my feet, then realized walking upright was not a good option. So I crawled on my belly, dragging that leg behind. Into the bedroom I went, took a couple of sleeping pills and laid on the floor for much of the night. By early morning, things were worse. While crawling with the leg behind, I thought I felt some sort of movement inside the leg. I made the first — and I hope only — 911 call in my life. Ambulance personnel from the volunteer squad and Falls City Medical Center quickly arrived, stabilized the leg the best they could and carted me down my very steep driveway. My first ride in an ambulance, too. I cannot say enough about the caring professionalism of those first responders.

At the hospital, the excellent care continued, x-rays were taken and Dr. Borg came in to say I had a "spiral fracture" of the large bone south of the knee in my right leg. Repair would require surgery, he said, and the destination was Nebraska Orthopaedic and Sports Medicine at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Lincoln. I had been given pain medication and was then loaded into the back of my car, with Jason Schock at the wheel. I'm sure I wasn't the greatest of company on the way to Lincoln. And Jason wasted no time.

A brief check-in and I was assigned a hospital room. Not long after, I was scheduled for surgery. More firsts. I'd never had any sort of major surgery. My only other experience was a colonoscopy and we were in a whole new ballgame, here. The surgeon, Dr. Steven J. Volin, used a rod or "nail" that was inserted in the bone from just below the knee to the ankle area. The part of bone that had sort of sheared away was reattached with wraps of some sort. Screws were inserted where necessary (five in all, I think). This all happened on Wednesday. On Thursday, I was dismissed and Jason hauled me home, along with my new walker and a pair of crutches.

Since then, I've basically been flat on my back on the sofa, right leg elevated and cooled with ice packs. Monday was my first day at the Journal since my swan dive. Jason and I went back to Lincoln last week and the new x-rays looked good. The doctor wants to see me again in six weeks. So it's going to be this way for a while.

I called Butch Young and he came over and hung those damnable curtains. Took him about three minutes. He left the house unscathed, I'm happy to say.

CAPITOL VIEW By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent Nebraska Press Association

Lincoln — Tom Pristow has to know his new command is the social services equivalent of taking charge of Pearl Harbor Dec. 8.

Pristow also must be a guy who lives for a challenge. He is going to work for the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

Pristow, now of Mineral, Va., is going to take charge of the division of children and family services.

The division has for years engendered adjectives ranging from "embattled" to "woebegone" to a great many not eligible for print.

It's the place where careers and good intentions and revised, revised, revised plans go to die.

The view from here: Two things in his background might serve him particularly well. One is that he's had 18 years experience. The other is that he served in the Marine Corps, as well as the Army. He is a martial artist and instructor in jujitsu, aikido, judo, laido and ko-budo.

Lawmakers Seek Higher Pay And Longer Terms

The perpetual two-part debate over how much state senators should be paid, and how many consecutive terms they should be allowed to serve, may be headed to an election near you. Maybe more than one.

Some lawmakers think pending constitutional amendments — one to increase term limits and the other to hike senatorial pay — should be offered individually. One at the May primary, one at the November general election.

State senators have been limited since 2006 to a pair of consecutive four-year terms. The Legislature has given first-round approval to a proposed constitutional amendment that would let voters decide whether to extend service to three consecutive terms.

Lawmakers have also given initial endorsement to a constitutional change that would have voters decide whether to raise their annual compensation from $12,000 annually to $22,500. Senators' pay was last raised in 1988, when it was $4,800 yearly.

Some senators are concerned that the term limit proposal could be so unpopular that it would sink any hope for the proposed pay raise if they appear together on the November ballot.

Their preference is to have the term limits amendment on the May ballot.

Trash Can Fine Tougher Than Trash Talk Penalties?

Professional athletes are sometimes fined for "trash talk" aimed at opponents. Observers often note the penalties are piddling amounts in view of pro sport salaries.

But there's nothing small-time about the trash can fines faced by Omahans these days. Leaving trash cans on the curb past the deadline will mean a $100 first-time fine. Each subsequent offense could cost $500.

State law gives local government broad regulatory and enforcement powers in a variety of areas. In other contexts, it's known by its cheerleading proponents as "local control."

Be careful what you wish for.

For or against burning isn't issue

Councilman Sutter has authored an amendment to City Ordinance 7-218. This amendment in short would reduce the burning to Wednesday for only four hours in the middle of the workday. This would be the same as no burning at all. Councilman Sutter is against burning to the least. Regardless of the "psycho-babel" he uses to defend his crusade, the fact is, he wants to take "LIBERTY" away from local citizens. Being for or against burning isn't the issue. The issue is having the "Liberty" to make a "CHOICE." If Councilman Sutter's amendment passes what will be the next "Liberty" he steals? Will it be wood-burning stoves, barbeque grills, gas ranges, or a simple marshmallow roast with the kids? The citizens who choose to burn responsibly deserve that "LIBERTY" or "CHOICE!" Councilman Sutter's amendment is a slap in the face to everyone in Falls City and violates each and every one's "LIBERTY!" If you want to stand for "LIBERTY/CHOICE," I would ask that you contact your respective council representative before next Monday evening's vote and ask them to leave the burning ordinance as is, at least throughout the 23rd Century.

Sincerely, Tom Jones

Another huge jump in land values

In SE Nebraska, ag land values up 61 percent since 2008

Nebraska's agricultural real estate values jumped 31 percent in the last year, the largest increase in the 34-year history of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's annual survey.

The 2012 UNL Nebraska Farm Real Estate Survey "confirms what most people close to agriculture already knew -- agricultural land values across the state have shot upward in recent months," said Bruce Johnson, the UNL agricultural economist who conducts the survey.

Preliminary survey results show the state's all-land average value as of Feb. 1 to be at $2,410 per acre, 31 percent above the year-earlier level. The annual gain is a new record in both dollar amount and percentage.

Cropland especially showed significant value gains in every region of the state, with increases of 35 percent or more noted in several areas.

"Clearly, a booming cash-grain economy in 2011 translated into spirited bidding for cropland," Johnson wrote in this week's Cornhusker Economics, a weekly publication of UNL's Department of Agricultural Economics. "And, at the same time that demand was robust, the amount of land for sale in any given local area was generally minimal."

Johnson said survey reporters said the land-transfer market has been so thin that it's difficult to get a good reading on it.

Grazing land classes showed more modest value gains for the year, but overall for the state still showed a 19 increase for non-tillable grazing land. The tillable grazing land class, which is land considered to be potentially converted to cropland, recorded significantly higher values and larger higher percentage value gains in those areas of the state where no moratoriums preclude further irrigation expansion.

Reflecting the great resource diversity across

"...there is no question that some retreat of these value advances could easily happen in the next few years,"

- UNL Ag Economist Bruce Johnson

the state, the per-acre values of land vary significantly. For example, the average value of center pivot irrigated land (pivot not included in the value) ranges from about $2,600 per acre in the Northwest District to nearly $8,000 per acre in the East District, with the highest quality irrigated land exceeding $10,000 per acre. Dryland cropland values show an even greater spread of more than seven-fold from west to east.

UNL survey reporters also reported higher cash rental rates for 2012 for all the land classes. But the percentage advances of cash rents over the previous year were considerably below the land value advances. For cropland, the cash rent advances usually fell in the 10 percent to 20 percent range.

Johnson said it's reasonable to ask whether the gains of last year are sustainable.

"If one assumes that farm incomes will remain at 2011 earnings levels or higher, then one may answer with a guarded yes," he wrote. "However, more likely is an immediate future that is economically volatile for production agriculture, triggered by weather patterns, the strength of the dollar, interest rates, international financial fallouts, and political unrest both here and abroad."

"That said, there is no question that some retreat of these value advances could easily happen in the next few years," Johnson added, calling that a "reality reset."

"And it may be just what is needed as market participants are able to more accurately assess the underlying market fundamentals," he said.

Final figures from this year's report will be available later this spring. For more information see the Department of Agricultural Economics newsletter at the departmental website, www.agecon.unl.edu.

Guest Editorial

Rick Martin departs from FC Chamber

This communication is respectfully intended for the Falls City Area Chamber of Commerce and the Community of Falls City, Nebraska and especially for the many wonderful volunteers I have had the privilege of working with these past eight months.

I am saddened to announce my departure as the Executive Director of the Chamber and I wish the best of success to the new director/manager.

The next Executive Director will begin the position faced with the same unresolved issues. Such unattended conflict in which there is no tolerance for any type of disagreement will quickly become dysfunctional. It is important to reach closure and seek accountability and address issues. That goes for the Executive Director or Board Chair. Likewise, the potential for conflict among board members of nonprofit organizations comes with the territory. However, issues with the Executive Director's performance should not be used to disguise the negative outcomes of board conflict.

Prior to my acceptance of the Chamber position I had stressed the importance of priorities. In addition, to the priorities set by the board of directors, I believed some very heavy lifting by the Chamber needed to be implemented over the next three years. The heavy lifting being the creation of specific fundamentals. These fundamentals would enable the Chamber to be more than what it had become. They would attract additional streams of revenues for the Chamber. And, also enable our Chamber to be more competitive with our peers, such as Beatrice, Norfolk, York and Columbus. And also, promote the Chamber as a premiere leadership organization and change agent.

Let's take a look at what has been accomplished in a few short months... It's important to look at the principles an Executive Director must operate within. There are three basic areas to juggle: keeping the members happy; making sure the finances are in good shape; and abiding by all applicable federal and state laws and regulations, as well as supervise, control and execute all these processes to report to the board.

In spite of stepping into a position, that had been unattended for more than three months - Membership grew. I did my best to interact with all the merchants and brought a new harmony between them and the Chamber. In addition to coordinating and implementing well-attended events, such as Cobblestone, Harlem Ambassadors, Nightmare on Stone Street and the annual Christmas Opening with the personal delivery of the Hometown board games. I finished the completion of a new professional appearance for the office.

Then down to making sure finances were in good shape. An audit was performed prior to the endeavor of sending out annual dues billing. We then had an increase in new business for the Chamber. Effectively, retained two separate businesses to continue in Falls City, as well as locating a new manager for one of the businesses.

Finally, I was very pleased to offer my support and the endorsements from the Chamber and the Falls City Ministerial Association to encourage a third look by the owners of the former, Immanuel United Methodist Church to consider a proposal offered by Northridge Falls City. The proposal to acquire this beautiful structure with a most proud and impressive heritage and allow it to seek a new and equally proud mission which was before it. Mission accomplished.

In January, the community showed an over-whelming support of our 75th Annual Banquet celebration. The best in many years! The event was highlighted by the attendance of many of our Past Chamber Presidents. And, I thank each and every one of them for helping celebrate the 75th Anniversary or our great Chamber. Synchronized a new Area Acquaintance group as well as organize a volunteer ambassador committee to man the front desk. In addition, we have been very active in exploring with others the possibilities of bringing home to Falls City the Nebraska Historical Society's "John Falter Studio."

However, one of the most rewarding moments during the past eight months was participating with the publication of an article for the "Nebraska Life Magazine." Assisting the editor, publisher and team with the November 2011 issue was thrilling. Their eagerness naming Falls City, their city of the year, in "Falling for Falls City" was a very big deal for our town and how we are perceived by our Nebraska peers.

In conclusion, running a Chamber is a rich, varied, and a never-a-dull moment kind of a career. And you can feel good about your work-enhancing the quality of your community, helping people's businesses and families, and making friends for yourself and others. My goal upon undertaking this role has been nothing more than to be part of the growth for the Falls City Area Chamber of Commerce and for our distinguished city. This endearing place we call home.

Thank you for the opportunity to have served as your Executive Director; I wish the city well, and the Chamber success. It is hoped the Chamber continues its focus on Richardson County's proud heritage and will renew its commitment to build a foundation to be responsive and assertive for their mutual interests. To all of you who worked either as a volunteer or in a more defined relationship who loves this City and County, thank you. We may have different ideas in how to utilize our commitments for our Community. The main thing at the end of the day to remember is that we love this community and this is why we live here and this is why our town and county will remain strong and vibrant.

Respectfully,
Richard K. Martin

The Falls City Area Ministerial Association recently updated and restocked the supply of CareNotes available in the Chapel at the Community Medical Center. CareNotes are 6-7 page booklets which provide strength, help, and healing for those who are hurting.

The newest additions include five booklets designed for Teens, and six booklets especially for Kids.

"Some counselors, funeral homes, and pastors give CareNotes as a supplement to the service or ministry being offered, but these booklets can 'stand alone' as personal reading for individuals," said Pastor John Sipf of St. Mark's and St. Peter's Lutheran churches.

CareNotes are published by Abbey Press of St. Meinrad, Indiana and are purchased by the Falls City Area Ministerial Association which provides them free to the public. A literature rack in the hospital Chapel contains 24 titles, with an additional 50 titles available in the Chapel bookcase. A booklet listing all titles on hand may be found in the literature rack.

For more information, visit the Chapel at the hospital – just inside the front entry way across from the reception desk, or call First United Methodist Church at 402-245-3281. For more information about CareNotes, visit their website: www.carenotes.com.

Founders Day Dinner March 1 in the meeting room of the Pioneer Plaza. Richard Zentner led the group in a blessing, and a good meal was enjoyed by all.

Following the meal, Norma Thompson called the meeting to order. Jorene Herr took roll call and read the minutes, and Richard Zentner gave the treasurer's report. Terri Stradtman, archivist, continues to add pictures and articles, and the surname Pattison was added to the county's GenWeb page. All other projects remain unchanged.

Correspondence was received about the founding of the Prairie Union Cemetery. A newsletter from the Eastern Nebraska Genealogical Society was shared. Upcoming events include the Greater Omaha Genealogical Society family history classes on the 3rd Saturday of each month through June, The GOGS Spring Workshop on April 28 in Omaha, and the Nebraska State Genealogy Conference in Grand Island on May 4-5. Queries were received for the Sloan, Scott and McManus families.

In old business, the next meeting has been scheduled for March 29, instead of April 5, so that members can attend Maundy Thursday services. There will be no meeting in April. Carolyn Zentner will have the meeting put on the Pioneer Plaza calendar. A program is still needed. The group was reminded that the Founder's Day dinner marks the beginning of the group, which was organized in 1984, 28 years ago. Three of the charter members are still a part of the group. The nomination for NSGS was tabled until the next meeting. Richard Zentner will be setting a date to do another class on Ancestry.com at the library, probably sometime in March. Email, radio and newspapers will be used to publicize it.

In new business, the group was given a royalty check by the Nebraska State Genealogical Society. This covered publications sold from January 2009 through May 2011. A copy of a book of clippings from the Falls City Press was shared. Richard made the motion that the group should purchase a copy for the Falls City and Humboldt libraries. Susan Sipple seconded, and the motion carried.

For the program each member was encouraged to bring an obituary, story, or other item to share. Stories included great-grandparents, great-aunts and other relatives, and one of the pastors of the Episcopal Church. Items included childhood hats, and a set of keys.

The meeting ended with some discussion about the TV show, "Who do you think you are?," which recently featured the actor Blair Underwood. The meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be on Thursday, March 29, in the Pioneer Plaza meeting room.

will feature Mid Bauer on the program. She will sing and reminisce about her growing-up years.

After the meeting, Mary Glathar gave the lesson, "The Heart Broken by Guilt." Vicki Beilke and Chris Bredemeier served refreshments.

Stella Circle

Eight members of Stella Community Church Women's Circle met at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 28. They answered roll call with a response to the statement, "I could be happy if ----."

President Carolyn Bredemeier opened the meeting with devotions and prayer, and then members sang the hymn, "Happiness in the Lord." Reports were given.

The Mother-Daughter banquet theme will be "Recipe for Life." Part of the decor for this event to be held in April, will be members' cookbooks. This will lead to a cookbook being created with recipes submitted by church members.

Celebrating Nebraska 4-H Month in February, the Town & Country 4-H Club presented the Community Medical Center with Blanket Wraps which were constructed by the club members. The idea came up when a club member's grandmother was hospitalized and needed a warm blanket to keep her shoulders and upper body warm. The blanket wraps are made from fleece fabric with ribbon ties. Club members spent an afternoon cutting, pinning and sewing with sewing machines to construct 11 blanket wraps. The Blanket Wraps were exhibited as a community service project at the 2011 Junior Fair and received a Purple Ribbon and a "Judges Choice Award." At the NE State Fair, they received a Purple Ribbon. The Blanket Wraps will provide warmth to patients and make their stay at the hospital a little more comfortable. # Creating landscapes in our backyards

When we look at our own backyard it can be difficult imagining our actions there having much impact on others -- except for maybe the next door neighbor. Yet what we do there really does matter, far beyond the property line. Though we may not realize it, our developed landscapes are part of the ecosystem, and how we create and maintain them determines whether their contributions are positive or negative.

Sadly, the list of negative impacts of many current landscaping practices is long, including flooding, erosion, air, noise and water pollution, excessive consumption of natural resources, reduction in biodiversity and high costs in time and dollars. Yet many of these impacts are difficult to see or gauge, making them also easy to ignore.

The good news is that if we make wise choices, our landscapes can offer all of the following: shade, habitat, pollinators, natural pest controls, fertile and stable soil, clean air and water and a range of psychological benefits. Well-designed and managed landscapes also sequester carbon and are generally healthier, functional, productive, attractive and resilient.

The best teacher in our quest for these benefits is nature itself. Natural landscapes are incredibly diverse and efficient, wasting nothing in closed-loop systems. By mimicking nature, and working with it rather than against it, we can make our landscapes more beneficial. The following strategies are a good starting point.

-- Use resources wisely and efficiently. Much of the water, fertilizer and pest controls we apply to our landscapes are wasted or not necessary in the first place. Use the "as needed" approach instead of "more is better."

-- To make mowing faster and easier and return nutrients to the soil, try "grasscycling" and leave the clippings on the lawn.

-- Consider reducing the size of your lawn, the most energy and resource demanding part of any landscape, and replace that space with a productive garden or low-maintenance ornamentals.

-- Diversify and plant more natives, which are easier to grow with minimal maintenance. They also offer more benefit to native insects, birds and other creatures. Having evolved together, they provide exactly what the other needs, from food and nutrients to pest control, pollination and seed dispersal.

-- Reduce runoff and hold moisture by improving soil, mulching, planting deep-rooted natives and installing rain gardens, rain barrels and porous pavement.

-- Turn yard and kitchen "waste" into valuable compost.

-- Strive less for unachievable, unnatural "perfection" and strive more to treat your landscape as the dynamic part of nature that it is.

Speakers prepare for districts

The FC Sacred Heart Speech Team finished second out of 10 schools at the Conestoga Trendsetters Invite Saturday.

Tami Rethman led the way with first place in Serious Prose. She was also fourth in Persuasive.

Matt Mullins finished third in Informative; Rachel Aitken was fourth in Informative; Chaz Dunn finished fourth in Entertainment; Molly Chapple, sixth, Entertainment; Colin Niemeyer and David Bangert combined for sixth in Duet Acting.

"This was the last regular season contest for these teams, and this was the first time Sacred Heart competed against some of these schools," Coach Diana Eickhoff said. "The judging seemed a little uneven in preliminary rounds, and many SH competitors missed qualifying for finals by a few points."

The next meet for the team will be Districts on Wednesday, March 14 at Meridian.

HTRS finished third at Conestoga, as Kade Stanley was second in Poetry and fourth in Serious Prose. Joel Svoboda was third in Humorous Prose; Jana Joy, fifth in Serious Prose; Carissa Carlin, fifth in Informative; Jake Clancy, sixth in Persuasive.

G.A.R. Hall

Army of the Republic was formed at Salem on May 13, 1880, with 25 charter members. Falls City post #84 was established Jan. 19, 1882, and its Auxiliary was the Women's Relief Corps. In 1883 there were three other G.A.R. posts in Richardson County—at Shubert, Dawson and Rulo and later, posts at Barada, Verdon and Stella.

As its members died, the Falls City GAR post faded into history, as did the state Department of G.A.R.

However, G.A.R. Hall Post 84 is not forgotten in signage on the old building's facade, and neither is WW I Barracks 1485 and D.A.V. Chapter 43. They're all up there together, big time.

As long as the old wooden building stands, its military

A lopsided fourth quarter coupled with too many turnovers led to a quick exit from the Class D2 Boys' State Basketball Tournament for Falls City Sacred Heart.

The Irish fell to the eventual third-place finisher Wynot, 46-33, in the first round last Thursday at Lincoln Northeast High School. The Blue Devils outscored the Irish 16-7 in the fourth quarter and 30-18 in the second half, including 10-10 at the free-throw line in the fourth to keep Sacred Heart at bay.

"They were clutch in the fourth quarter," said FCSH Coach Doug Goltz. "Wynot played with more poise than we did. They played three games at State last year, which probably helped them.

"We just couldn't overcome ourselves. We had too many turnovers and were shaky handling the ball all game.

"I'm proud of our team. We lost to some very good teams, but we steadily improved all season. Finishing ranked fifth shows what kind of season we had."

After David Bangert's three-pointer with 1:18 to play in the third cut the lead to 29-26, Wynot put the clamp down defensively holding the Irish without a field goal until the final minute of the game.

Actually, Wynot came out of the lockers at halftime with one thing on their mind and that was to pound the ball inside to 6-foot-8 junior Nathan Wieseler. The big man scored 11 of his 13 points in the third and was a force on the glass the whole game.

The Irish managed to handle Wynot's zone press, but their problems came in the half-court. Sacred Heart turned it over 20 times in the game – the most since the Jan. 14 game against Sterling in the Mudecas Tournament – with most of those coming while running their half-court offense.

"The press wasn't the problem," said Goltz. "We had a hard time attacking their match-up zone. We just didn't attack it well enough and that led to a lot of bad passes. Offensively we just never got on track."

Chaz Dunn did his best to carry Sacred Heart, especially early. The wiry sophomore went up-and-under for a sweet left-handed reverse layup for the Irish's first points of the game, then hit a huge three-pointer at the end of the first half to cut the lead to just one at the break to give him 10 first-half points. Dunn, like the rest of his teammates struggled in the second half, but finished with a team-high 13 points.

Fellow soph Matt Goltz, who didn't practice last week because of a bad back, scored six and grabbed nine rebounds.

The loss definitely stung, but Goltz is well aware of the benefits that his young team should reap from getting a taste of the state tournament.

"Making it to Lincoln was great for a young team like ours. Our guys need to keep working at developing their individual skills and play a lot of basketball this summer."

Sacred Heart loses only David Bangert, who had a solid year averaging right around six

SENT BACK

Irish junior Brady Cromer takes one to the face as Wynot's Christopher Schmidt attempted to block his shot in the second quarter of Sacred Heart's 46-33 first round loss in the State Tournament last Thursday at Lincoln Northeast High School. After a foul was called on the play, Cromer converted 1-2 free throws to put the Irish ahead 9-8. It was their only lead of the game.

Irish Head Coach Doug Goltz consoles David Bangert in the waning minutes of Thursday's loss. Bangert the lone senior on the team averaged just over six points per game this year for the Irish.

Sophomore Chaz Dunn's left-handed up-and-under layup in the first quarter gave the Irish their first two points. Dunn finished with a team-high 13 points in the game.

points per game. There is plenty coming back next year, including junior Lane Barnhill, who averaged 10 points per game as a sophomore, but missed this year with an injured knee. Also, the junior varsity team coached by A.J. Landon lost just once and should be full of eager candidates vying to make Goltz' rotation.

Along with Barnhill, the core of Brady Cromer, Clay Finck, Matt Goltz, Jarod Fiegenger, Colin Niemeyer and Chaz Dunn will make it tough for the young guys to get varsity minutes, but should keep the summer months extra competitive. Dunn really came along the last six weeks of the season averaging 14 per game the last seven games. He was also plus-34 in his assist-to-turnover ratio, which was 18 points better than Bangert who was second in that statistical category.

"We are capable of being a very good team next year with the core of our team returning," said Goltz. "It takes a lot of work in the off-season, but I'm looking forward to working with our boys this summer."

Peru's Schaardt is inaugural team captain

The Peru State Bobcat women's golf team is looking forward to big things in the spring of 2012. Following a breakout fall season, first year head coach Brett Hahn is expecting to see the same kind of determination and improvement this upcoming spring season.

The Bobcats improved in every area of the game this fall by setting both personal and team bests.

Senior Jordan Schaardt (Humboldt) enters the spring season as the inaugural Team Captain for the Bobcat Golf Team. During the fall, Schaardt dropped her career scoring average four strokes from an 89 to an 85. She continuously placed in the top 15 in every meet including a fourth place finish at Central Christian University's Fall Invite.

The most improved golfer coming off the fall season is junior Jacey Stoner (Alda). Stoner improved her career best 18-hole score three separate times.

The longest hitter of all of the Bobcat golfers is sophomore Courtney Musgrave (Omaha). Averaging 259 yards off the tee this fall, Musgrave definitely has an advantage over the field. She boasted a career long drive of 325 at the Nebraska Wesleyan Invite. Musgrave's finished last fall with two Top 10 finishes.

Season Schedule

The Bobcats will open on Friday, March 30, in a dual with the College of St. Mary at the Table Creek Golf Club in Nebraska City. Table Creek serves as the home golf course for Peru State.

The rest of the spring schedule includes:

April 1 & 2 – Nebraska Wesleyan University Spring Invite – Lincoln, Neb.

April 9 & 10 – Avila University Spring Invite – Kansas City, Mo.

April 19 – Hastings College Spring Invite – Hastings, Neb.

April 22 & 23 – Peru State College Spring Invite – Nebraska City, Neb.

April 30 & May 1 – HAAC Conference Tournament – Fayette, Mo.

Falls City High FACS, FCCLA news

Ariel Barnett and Brittanie Dixon gave a presentation about Teen Pregnancy at the District 1 Star competition in Peru. They received bronze awards. STAR stands for students taking action for recognition. District 1 contains nine FCCLA chapters.

Barbara Watlington, FCHS adviser served as a room consultant for the competition. Jami Rutt and Wanda Biel served as judges.

FCCLA sponsored the cupcake challenge for the Culinary Arts and Food and Nutrition classes in February during FCCLA week. Each lab group selected a cake and a frosting recipe for the event. They experimented with the recipes before the contest. Each entry involved a decorated display of at least 12 cupcakes. A variety of cupcake recipes were used from red velvet to caramel apple. Rainbow striped cupcakes even appeared. The group composed of Mark Birdsell, Renee Ely, Destinee Florea, and Kristi Morley earned grand prize with the caramel apple cupcake Valentine display. The best flavored cupcake was awarded to the group of Vincent Bennett, Mark Birdsell, and Tate Hayes. This recipe was made using a can of soda pop. The overall best design award for the rainbow clouds design was presented to the group of Jessica Cochran, Mary Ann Simpson, and Mariah Stamper. Judges for the event were Gale Dunkhas, Julie Frederick, and Sara Barker.

Nine students accompanied Mrs. Watlington to Omaha to Metropolitan Community College in Omaha to observe the Culinary Arts Competition. Students attending were Payshince Dawkins, Brittanie Dixon, Cheyenne Henderson, Clayton Hardenberger, Tanner Lippold, Tabitha Nicholls, Mary Ann Simpson, Mariah Stamper, and Nina Travis.

Valentine 3-0 against Auburn

FC Middle School 8th grader Morgan Valentine went a perfect 3-0 at 124 pounds at a recent FCMS wrestling dual with Auburn.

Valentine was the lone Tiger to capture a victory against the Bulldogs.

There was more success for the Tigers at the Nebraska City Invitational on Saturday. Five Tigers placed with Valentine finishing the best with a second place finish. 8th grader Jarod Peden at 155 pounds finished third, while fellow 8th graders Montana Mirelez (140) and Blake Black (118) finished fourth. 7th grader Dalton Kenel (172) finished in sixth place.

FC Sacred Heart students, from left, Bailey Witt, Libby Dunn and Claire Niemeyer competed in the Knights of Columbus Regional Freethrow Contest on March 3 in Lincoln. Niemeyer narrowly missed first place by one shot, while Witt and Dunn both brought home first place and will advance to the State Freethrow Contest to be held March 25 in Hastings.

FCMS Students of the Month of February

The students of the month for February at Falls City Middle School were: Carley Youde, eighth grade, Alyssa Frederick, seventh grade, and Noah Milam, sixth grade. The teachers are continuously looking for the students that give the extra degree. The student demonstrates extra effort by being an exemplary student. Someone who internalizes the truth that is "Not enough to be good when you have the ability to be BETTER!" Each month the teachers will choose an individual from each grade that were identified as a 212 degree student and met the criteria. ### Have problems with your trees?

With spring just around the corner and warm weather predicted this week, we are definitely thinking about our landscape. If you have trees that have been damaged by wind or ice or they are just over grown, it would be wise to prune them if you haven't already. If you have had problems with your trees in the past with insects and/or diseases, it is important to evaluate them this spring to see if they look healthy.

This week I will discuss evergreen trees and next week address deciduous trees and shrubs. You can check evergreens for off color or dried and brown spots. Sometimes through the winter evergreens, especially different types of shrubs will get some winter burn and will need to be pruned. Spruce trees can also be affected by insects, such as the spruce spider mite or Rhizosphaera needle cast. I have had a number of calls this winter about these spruce tree issues. Keep a close eye on them this spring. Treatment with a pesticide may be warranted for control of these insects or diseases. A couple of pine tree diseases that are common in the area are Dothistroma needle blight and Sphaeropsis tip blight. Unlike pine wilt, these diseases can be controlled with fungicides.

Bagworms have been a big problem over the years. With everyone working to control this pest and Mother Nature helping out with a really severe winter during 2009-10, they were not as bad during the summer of 2010. In 2011 there were still reports of bagworms in the area. With the warm winter during 2011-12, bagworm survival through the winter months was probably high. It is important to be diligent in scouting your cedars, junipers, firs and spruce for this pest this year. Bagworms are a pest that we will probably have to be aware of each year and treat if needed. They usually hatch in late May or June at the earliest and can also hatch later in the summer. Just keep checking out your trees for them, we don't want to let them gain a foothold again here in southeast Nebraska.

I mentioned the spruce spider mite earlier, but the two spotted spider mite has been causing problems here on evergreens and ornamentals for several years. Symptoms of this pest usually show up in summer when it is hot. If the infestation is severe, insecticidal soap or horticultural oil may be used for control. These are just a few of potential tree pests we need to be aware of. We have a guide that provides control measures for several pests and also individual guides that discuss specific control of pests. If you have further questions on tree problems, feel free to contact me at UNL Extension in Nemaha County at the courthouse in Auburn (402) 274-4755.

Invisible Children reps to PSC Thursday

Peru State College's newly established Rotaract Club will host representatives from the organization Invisible Children, Inc., at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 15 in the College Theatre. The event is free and the public is encouraged to attend.

Five representatives from the Invisible Children organization, including a survivor of the war, will be on campus to discuss their experience in Uganda and present a short film titled Kony 2012. Their presentation focuses on bringing to light the war crimes of Uganda's guerrilla group leader and head of the Lord's Resistance Army, Joseph Kony, a man charged with creating one of the biggest humanitarian crises in the world.

Rotaract Member Brooke Earnest, a sophomore criminal justice major from Bellevue, said, "I have worked with Invisible Children since 2009 and it has been a life changing experience. The fact that one man has had the power to take innocent lives for so long...it's devastating and it has to be stopped. It's rewarding to see our generation get involved with this project and to be part of working toward a positive future for people half a world away."

Kony's violent campaign to establish a theocratic government has led to the abduction of more than 30,000 children who have been forced to fight for the LRA and the displacement of more than two million people since the rebellion began in 1986. Kony's brutal tactics involve forcing children to kill their parents or siblings with machetes or blunt tools, abducting girls to be sex slaves for his officers and indoctrinating child soldiers. Kony was indicted in 2005 for war crimes by the International Criminal Court at The Hague but has successfully evaded capture.

Headquartered in San Diego, CA, Invisible Children is a non-profit organization established in 2006 that focuses on protecting those most vulnerable to LRA violence, rehabilitating former child soldiers, rebuilding war-torn schools, mentoring, educating future leaders and creating financial stability in Central Africa. The organization maintains offices in Uganda and the Democratic Republic of Congo that are primarily managed and operated by staff from LRA-affected communities.

For more information visit www.invisiblechildren.com or contact Earnest at brearnest@acornmail.peru.edu.

Rotaract is a Rotary International sponsored service club

Water for Food Institute Director: Challenges global, solutions local

It's important to have a global understanding of water issues, but in the end solutions will come locally, said the newly arrived director of the Robert B. Daugherty Water for Food Institute.

Roberto Lenton, who assumed his job at the new institute earlier this month, spoke Monday as part of the Heuermann Lectures in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The title of Lenton's talk, "Water for Food: Think Globally, Act Locally," is a key theme for the University of Nebraska's Water for Food Institute. Lenton said he expects the institute to play a key role in solving the challenges facing a world that will need to feed a population expected to grow from about 7 billion to 9 billion by 2050 on finite resources such as land and water.

Already, Lenton noted, agriculture worldwide consumes 70 percent of available water. In some parts of the world, a trend of decreasing precipitation is having an impact even as the world becomes more urbanized, meaning "thirsty cities" will compete with agriculture for water.

Lenton noted that water availability and uses depend on local conditions, and technological and policy options also are locally driven. So, one-size-fits-all solutions to getting "more crop per drop" are not realistic.

"It's very important to have a global understanding, but in the end these solutions are inherently context-specific and must be locally determined," he said.

Lenton said the Water for Food Institute is well situated at a land-grant university in Nebraska to be a key player in the research, policy and technology challenges to come. The state is home to the largest aquifer in North America, with decades of data on which to draw; major river systems; diverse climates and soil types; a reputation for successful management of water resources; and a keen interest in the issue.

As an example, Lenton pointed to the turnout of 600 to 700 people last week for an E.N. Thompson Forum lecture at UNL on the global water crisis. "You couldn't get 600 to 700 people in New York or Washington to talk about water," he said.

"If you're going to have a water institute, you'd better have it in a place where water is vital and where there is local experience you can draw on," said Lenton, an internationally recognized expert in water management and development who most recently served as chairman of the independent World Bank Inspection Panel.

The University of Nebraska is such a place, with more than 120 faculty, on all four NU campuses, involved in all aspects of water. And UNL's land-grant tradition will be key, Lenton added.

"There should be a focus on innovation and connecting the research with practice and policy," Lenton said, predicting, "the greatest revolution in technology might actually come at this stage in information technology,

The staff and administration of Falls City High School have announced the selections for February High School Students of the Month. The honors go to the following students, from left: Jordan Stoller, freshman son of Michael and Joleen Stoller; Anne Gifford, sophomore daughter of Dan and Katy Gifford; Bethany Lampe, junior daughter of Michael and Angela Lampe; and David von Behren, junior son of John and Glenda von Behren. The students were nominated by high school staff on their academic achievements, attitude, classroom contributions and work ethic. Each of the students was praised in nomination comments for "academic excellence, going above and beyond what was asked of them, their helpfulness, and their leadership, and serving as excellent role models for their peers," according to high school principal Gale Dunkhas.

"We have a huge task ahead of us," Lenton concluded.

The Water for Food Institute was established in April 2010 with a $50 million founding gift commitment from the Robert B. Daugherty Charitable Foundation to the University of Nebraska. The institute already is forging key public and private partnerships in the Netherlands, Brazil, India, China and the United States, Lenton said. Just last week NU and the U.S. Agency for International Development agreed to collaborate on expanding research and development capacities related to water management in the Middle East and North Africa, work that will be conducted through the Water for Food Institute.

Lenton also is former chairman of the Water Supply and Sanitation Collaborative Council and of the Technical Committee of the Global Water Partnership; lead author on the final report of the United Nations Millennium Project Task Force on Water and Sanitation, which he co-chaired; director of the Sustainable Energy and Environment Division of the United Nations Development Programme in New York; and director general of the International Water Management Institute in Sri Lanka.

The Heuermann (pronounced Hugh-er-man) lecture series at IANR is made possible through a gift from B. Keith and Norma

Seek corn-growers for on-farm research

Corn growers can take an active role in a new on-farm research project sponsored by University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension in partnership with the Nebraska Corn Growers Association. The goal of the Nebraska On-Farm Research Network is to implement a statewide on-farm research program addressing critical farmer production, profitability and natural resources questions.

The project includes three research comparison topics that growers can choose from one or more. They are: irrigation - water application management in corn production; nitrogen management in both irrigated and dryland corn production; and corn population study in irrigated and dryland fields. Replicated treatment comparisons will be done in growers' fields, using their equipment.

UNL Extension educators, Keith Glewen and Gary Zoubek are leading the NOFRN with project partners Scott Merritt and Mat Habrock of the Nebraska Corn Growers Association.

Growers wanting to learn more about the NOFRN and how to participate should contact Glewen at 402-624-8030 or kglewen1@unl.edu, Zoubek at 402-362-5508 or gzoubek1@unl.edu, or the Nebraska Corn Growers Association at 888-267-6479, 402-438-6459 or info@necga.org.

A day on the Yoesel farm

By Lantes E. Zoeller

This is a story about two young people that had a lot of energy and were carefree in their youth. I want to first disclaim that my cousin, Joyce Yoesel (at the time) is completely innocent of all charges that may be brought against her for collaborating with me and my older influence on her.

Joyce is five years younger than I. Back in the early 50s, my Uncle Marvin and Aunt Laverne Yoesel lived on a dairy farm in Southeast Nebraska between Falls City and Rulo. What a great time of my life, I was about 11 or 12. I would rather rummage thru a barn than go to a park and swing. After all there were hay ropes hanging from a hay truck high in the mow of the barn and they were more fun to hang and swing on than the ones in the park.

One day my mom and dad, Bob and Maxine Zoeller, decided it would be nice to have some relief from the presence of their son, so they called my Aunt Laverne to see if it would be OK to leave me with them for a couple of days. HOORAH for me. I loved the farm and could not wait to get there. My cousin Joyce and I got along favorably so we would look forward to FUN.

This story has three sub chapters in it regarding the experiences we went thru the first day of my visit.

Joyce and I went exploring around the farm and ended up in the chicken house. We were messing around when I spotted a target on the wall covering a broken window. OH Boy, I spotted an egg in the nest so I threw it at the target. Bull's eye. So I threw a couple more and remained just as good. As the eggs hit the target and the residue dropped on the floor of the chicken house, look at that, the chickens rushed to eat the yokes. They are nuts. Well this was great fun, so I proceeded to toss a few more. Joyce, being the good little girl she was, said to me, "I don't think you should do that." Why not, no one will know. Well, the cream hit the pudding that evening when the eggs were gathered by my aunt and she noticed the production was significantly down. By the way, they sold those eggs and it was a source of income for the farm. That evening it was brought up at dinner and you guessed it, Joyce squealed on me. They couldn't wait for my folks to come and get me.

Later that same morning Joyce and I were out roaming around. We ended up down at a creek at the end of the cow lot. This creek had a little water in it and flowed briskly down a slab of cement with lot of moss on it, then went under the road. I walked out, slipping on a few rocks, to get to the other side, I yelled at Joyce, "Come on." She started over the same way I did but slipped on some moss on one of the rocks and, you guessed it, she landed on her rump in the middle of the creek. Needless to say, I feared I would be trouble for luring her to the creek, which, by the way was (supposedly) off limits to us. After helping her out, with her crying, we proceeded back to the house to secure help from my aunt, who by the way was very understanding clean dry clothes for Joyce and it is time for lunch.

At lunch, Aunt Laverne reports to Uncle Marvin. Oh, oh. Bad news. He instructs us to stay in the house and yard "this noon." Now here is a side note as to the meaning of that statement.

I being the older one took that to mean (noon 12 to 1 noon) is noon, after that free again. What my uncle really meant is "all afternoon." Big difference.

After lunch, Uncle Marvin went back to work, Joyce was in the house with her mom, but not me, I went exploring again. I spent the afternoon going thru the hog barn, the shop, and the corn crib. By the time mid-afternoon rolled around it was time to hit the big barn.

Side note. Here my uncle and his other milked a number of cows in the milking parlor, maybe 50 or 60 head.

They start milking around 3:30 in the afternoon. I had made my way to the holding area. I was looking over the cows and roaming around there; meanwhile they are in the parlor waiting for the cows to come in when they open the door. They are trained to do so, except when some clueless kid is standing in their way. Well, to say the least, by Uncle Marvin was a bit irritated when he found out what the problem was. He helped me back to the house It is amazing that he didn't lock me in the corner.

I slept well that night. My aunt probably checked on me a few times to make sure I was still in the house let alone in bed and not nosing around someplace. The next morning, unbeknown to all, I climbed the windmill to take a look around and got back down before getting caught. Later that morning, much to the enjoyment of aunt and uncle, my parents picked me up.

It took a number of years for me to get invited back to the Yoesel farm. By that time they had moved to another farm about a mile up the road with a lot fewer outbuildings to explore.

At this writing I am 70 years old but remember this day like it was yesterday. I guess when one has a lot fun it sticks with you.

(Lantes E. Zoeller, who grew up in Falls City, now lives in Corvallis, OR .)

Village Of Rulo Annual Water Quality Report For January 1 to December 31, 2011

This report is intended to provide you with important information about your drinking water and the efforts made by the Village Of Rulo water system to provide safe drinking water.

Para Clientes Que Hablan Español:
Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre el agua que usted bebe. Tradúzcalo ó hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

For more information regarding this report, contact:

STAN SUEDEMEIER

If you would like to observe the decision-making processes that affect drinking water quality, please attend the regularly scheduled meeting of the Village Board/City Council. If you would like to participate in the process, please contact the Village/City Clerk to arrange to be placed on the agenda of the meeting of the Village Board/City Council.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Source Water Assessment Availability:
The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ) has completed the Source Water Assessment. Included in the assessment is a Wellhead Protection Area map, potential contaminant source inventory, vulnerability rating, and source water protection information. To view the Source Water Assessment or for more information please contact the person named on the cover of this report or NDEQ at (402) 471-6968.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Sources of Drinking Water:
The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and groundwater wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

The source of water used by Village Of Rulo is purchased ground water. Our drinking water is supplied from another water system through a Consecutive Connection (CC). To find out more about our drinking water sources and additional chemical sampling results, please contact our office at the number provided above.

Buyer Name	Seller Name
Village Of Rulo	City Of Falls City

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- * Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.
- * Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- * Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.
- * Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.
- * Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Drinking Water Health Notes:

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immunocompromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Infants and young children are typically more vulnerable to lead in drinking water than the general population. It is possible that lead levels at your home may be higher than at other homes in the community as a result of materials used in your home's plumbing. If you are concerned about elevated lead levels in your home's water, you may wish to have your water tested. Flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using your tap water will clear the line of any lead that may have leached into the water while the line was idle. Additional information is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791) or the Department of Health and Human Services/Division of Public Health/Office of Drinking Water (402-471-2541).

The Village Of Rulo is required to test for the following contaminants: Coliform Bacteria, Antimony, Arsenic, Asbestos, Barium, Beryllium, Cadmium, Chromium, Copper, Cyanide, Fluoride, Lead, Mercury, Nickel, Nitrate, Nitrite, Selenium, Sodium, Thallium, Alachlor, Atrazine, Benzo(a)pyrene, Carbofuran, Chlordane, Dapson, Di(2-ethylhexyl)adipate, Dibromochloropropane, Dinoseb, Di(2-ethylhexyl)phthalate, Diquat, 2,4-D, Endothal, Endrin, Ethylene dibromide, Glyphosate, Heptachlor, Heptachlor, epoxide, Hexachlorobenzene, Hexachlorocyclopentadiene, Lindane, Methoxychlor, Oxamyl (Vydate), Pentachlorophenol, Picloram, Polychlorinated biphenyls, Simazine, Toxaphene, Dioxin, Silvex, Benzene, Carbon Tetrachloride, o-Dichlorobenzene, Para-Dichlorobenzene, 1,2-Dichloroethane, 1,1-Dichloroethylene, Cis-1,2-Dichloroethylene, Trans-1,2-Dichloroethylene, Dichloromethane, 1,2-Dichloropropane, Ethylbenzene, Monochlorobenzene, 1,2,4-Trichlorobenzene, 1,1,1-Trichloroethane, 1,1,2-Trichloroethane, Trichloroethylene, Vinyl Chloride, Styrene, Tetrachloroethylene, Toluene, Xylenes (total), Gross Alpha (minus Uranium & Radium 226), Radium 226 plus Radium 228, Sulfate, Chloroform, Bromodichloromethane, Chlorodibromomethane, Bromoform, Chlorobenzene, m-Dichlorobenzene, 1,1-Dichloropropane, 1,1-Dichloroethane, 1,1,2,2-Tetrachloroethane, 1,2-Dichloropropane, Chloromethane, Bromomethane, 1,2,3-Trichloropropane, 1,1,1,2-Tetrachloroethane, Chloroethane, 2,2-Dichloropropane, o-Chlorotoluene, p-Chlorotoluene, Bromobenzene, 1,3-Dichloropropane, Aldrin, Butachlor, Carbaryl, Dicamba, Dieldrin, 3-Hydroxycarbofuran, Methomyl, Metolachlor, Metribuzin, Propachlor.

Note: The state requires monitoring of certain contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants do not change frequently. Therefore, some of this data may be more than one year old.

MCL (Maximum Contaminant Level): The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. MCLG (Maximum Contaminant Level Goal): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety. AL (Action Level): The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

1 in 10 have kidney disease

March is National Kidney Month--how much do you know about your kidneys?

According to the NIH, approximately 10 percent of Americans have kidney disease. The most common cause leading to kidney damage is diabetes. Anyone who is treated for diabetes should have blood and urine tests done to check the health of their kidneys. If these tests are abnormal there are changes your provider can make to prevent further damage.

The Nebraska Kidney Association says that almost 10 percent (170,000) of Nebraskans have been diagnosed with kidney disease and another 120,000 are at risk due to high blood pressure and diabetes.

Most people know that the kidneys rid the body of waste materials but may not know that if the kidneys are not functioning as they should, no other organ in your body can work properly.

- Kidneys are responsible for balancing the body's fluids.
- Kidneys release hormones which regulate blood pressure.
- Kidneys synthesize vitamins which control growth.

The warning signs of kidney are somewhat common and often ignored:

- Loss of appetite, nausea, fatigue, swollen ankles or feet, more frequent urination.

The more obvious symptoms, such as numbness in the hands or feet or severe joint pain do not arise until kidney function has fallen to less than 25 percent and irreversible damage has occurred.

Learn more about the warning signs of kidney disease, testing and treatment by visiting www.kidneyne.org.
