Falls City High math teacher earns UNL Master Fellowship

Falls City High School match instructor Jason Vitosh is one of 22 teachers from across Nebraska who have been awarded Robert Noyce National Science Foundation Master Teaching Fellowships by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Jason Vitosh

The fellowships are funded by the National Science Foundation through a six-year, $3 million grant received in September from the Robert Noyce Teacher Scholarship program. The fellowships are intended to recognize and reward outstanding mathematics teachers who make a five-year commitment to continue teaching in a high-need school district and to pursue professional development opportunities that support their development into the state's most outstanding "master teachers."

The master teaching fellows will each receive a $10,000 per year salary supplement from UNL for five years while they continue to teach in a high-need district. In addition, they will have the opportunity to take 24 graduate hours at no cost to them for tuition or fees as they strengthen their skills as leaders, focusing on improving math education in their schools and school districts. Many of the master teaching fellows may use this opportunity to pursue a doctorate from UNL's College of Education and Human Sciences.

It is expected that master teaching fellows will assume leadership roles within their schools, districts and Educational Service Units while being supported in these roles by UNL faculty. The goal of the Master Teaching Fellowship program is to increase the level of student success in mathematics in high-

Attorney General's Office: 'we do not find any violations'

By Jason Schock

Monday's City Council meeting consisted of 17 uneventful minutes. Two public hearings and four action items. No real qualms and no, ahem, closed sessions. Call it a calm before the storm.

Council President Hal Sutter early on requested an agenda item for the May 16 meeting in which the Council will address the Attorney General Office's findings regarding the accusation of State Open Meetings Laws violations. Peggy Davidson, in a letter to the Attorney General's Office dated March 4, accused the Council of violating Open Meetings Laws when, she alleges, it discussed public board appointments in executive session at the January 17 meeting. In a letter signed by Assistant Attorney General Natalee J. Hart, dated April 14, the State acknowledges "deficiences in the Council's motions for closed sessions," but "we do not find any violations of the Open Meetings Act by the Council."

Davidson requested the investigation after being denied appointment to the Falls City Library Board. She claimed a Jan. 17 executive session called to discuss "personnel" and the "Falls City Ambulance Squad" also included a discussion about board appointments. Davidson, the only proposed appointee not approved by the Council during its Feb. 7 meeting, provided

Arbor Day observed Friday at Legion Park

By Bill Schock

Arbor Day was observed Friday with four tree plantings at Legion Park and a talk on the park's history by Gary Jorn, city clerk-treasurer.

Jorn also read an Arbor Day Proclamation signed by Mayor Tim Hersh.

Four trees—mountain ash and golden rain donated by Rodney Knaup, and two Valley Forge elms donated by the city—were planted by members of the park board, chairman John von Behren, Don Baldwin, Bruce Walker, Darrel Huettner, Tyler Bek and Ed Harris.

In his talk, Jorn commented, "We are here today to pay tribute to the many women and men who have served our country, especially remembering those who gave their life for our freedom, planting these trees as a memorial for their dedication and service to our country."

In what he termed his "short history lesson" on Legion Park, Jorn said that local sources told him that the park was created sometime in the early to mid 1920s by American Legion Post #102.

Bill Schock

One of the trees has just been planted and Gary Jorn, Arbor Day speaker, in the center of the photo, is giving a brief history of Legion Park and is relating how Falls City maintains its Tree City USA status. Rodney Knaup, who donated two of the four trees planted, is at the far left.

A World War I cannon was placed in the park and during World War II the cannon was donated to the government in a scrap iron drive.

The speaker said that in 1974, Councilman Donald Baldwin proposed a conception to the City Council which included the addition of a tennis court and rest rooms to the park. In order to accomplish these improvements, three houses needed to Addressing an audience of between 60 and 75 citizens, including a County Commissioner and several City Council members, speaker Rod Vandeberg, representing the Ballpark Improvement Committee, didn't mince words. He described the effort to revamp, recreate and reconfigure the ball fields at Dallas Jones Park as "very important" for "our youth of today" and those of "tomorrow." As for the current fields, he used the terms "old and tired," and that was generous phrasing. While those ball fields have "served us well," Vandeberg said a renovated facility would do the same or better for "generations to come."

The well-advertised meeting, held last Wednesday evening in the auditorium at Falls City High, could have attracted a larger crowd, especially considering the hundreds of young people, their parents, other relatives and friends who enjoy Falls City Recreation baseball and softball, as well as Junior and Senior baseball and Travelers softball, for much of the summer, and Tiger softball in the fall. I've mentioned this before, but I personally know one kid who, before his first Rec game, could be heard in the early morning in a nearby bedroom, pounding a baseball into his glove. He was psyched. Couldn't wait. I'm sure the same can be said for others of the thousands of young people who have participated in the programs, including my three granddaughters, who soon will join their teams with high aspirations.

As Vandeberg said, the four diamonds (the large diamond and three smaller ones) at the park have seen better days. In many ways, they are inadequate. Because of the number of leagues, some games are played at Grandview Park, presenting a dilemma to those who have more than one favorite player in different leagues. You can't be two places at the same time.

The idea to rehabilitate the ballpark complex originated in 2006 and a study was commissioned at Rec expense (less than $6,000) in 2008. The plan, developed by Landscapes Unlimited, would expand the area devoted to fields and create four diamonds where three now exist. They would be arranged in a spoke design, with restrooms and concessions in the middle. The large diamond would also receive an upgrade. This would be much more convenient for fans and players, solve frequent water run-off problems and create a facility that could accommodate major tournaments and the out-of-town fans who would attend and do business in Falls City.

A cost of about $2.6 million was estimated, but that was three years ago and a lot has changed since then. Firms are hungrier for work, as Msgr. Robert Roh noted during the question and answer session, second and third estimates by other firms appear to be in order in hopes of finding a less expensive option. Others mentioned completing the project in stages. Vandeberg said a scaled down option could be explored.

The purpose of the meeting was to determine if the community favored the idea, and, if so, would the community support it? No one at the meeting disputed the fact that something needs to be done. Vandeberg used a slogan he said would fit the project perfectly: "People coming together," citing the many recent examples of Falls City facing long odds but still prevailing — the Aquatic Park, Falls City Library and Arts Center, renovated high school, Thomas Track and Field, the new Community Medical Center, Sacred Heart's recent and successful fund-raising efforts, and, on the horizon, a new Missouri River Bridge at Rulo.

"I have just recited six extraordinarily successful community projects," Vandeberg said, "and, believe me, there are many more I could have included. My point is that not one of these six successes could have happened had it not been for 'people coming together.'" Certainly, he said, that community spirit and involvement will be needed to see the ballpark project to fruition.

The former mayor said the project will need broad support, from those who can afford a little to those who can manage larger gifts, and could include the City of Falls City, with financial and/or in-kind contributions. The sale of general obligation bonds would also be a possibility. Once a significant amount of money was raised, the possibility of grants would be real, said Vandeberg.

In closing, Vandeberg reiterated a phrase he had recently heard:

To Live Is To Learn,
To Learn Is To Know,
To Know Is To Grow,
To Grow Is To Give,
To Give Is To Live.

Brian Poppe narrated a power point presentation prepared by Kory Huppert to illustrate the design and scope of the project.

My opinion is that stages would not work. And I believe Msgr. Roh was right. Competing figures are needed. I think Vandeberg and the other members of the committee rightly interpreted the message given last Wednesday night: proceed. "We will move ahead," he said.

In recent years, this community has taken a can-do attitude. The results are all around us and just wait until that bridge project is completed. The economic impact will be huge. Economics are involved in the ballpark renovations, but are not the major factor. Just think of that kid pounding his glove, eagerly anticipating the first pitch, dreaming of bat meeting ball and trotting from first to second, from second to third, and then home.

Sundowner's linked to Alzheimer's

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please write something on sundowner's syndrome. It seems as though this is fairly common. Thank you for all the great information I have read.

DEAR READER: Sundowner's, or sundowning, is confusion that generally occurs late in the day, although it has been known to occur during early-morning hours as well. The cause appears elusive and is often misunderstood.

The disorder is commonly seen in hospital or nursing-home settings where an older individual may be forced to adjust to a different setting. Or, in some cases, it can manifest following illness or surgery. Sundowner's may be temporary for some but prolonged in other instances. It is seen primarily in Alzheimer's patients, in those with Parkinson's and with other forms of dementia. As a matter of fact, up to 25 percent of all diagnosed Alzheimer's patients have been found to exhibit sundowner's as well.

As the day progresses, a patient becomes fatigued and less able to deal with stress. In the case of hospital or nursing-home placement, it is likely all visitors have gone home for the day and there is less to occupy a person's mind. Perhaps medications have been administered prior to sleep. The patient who was stimulated earlier in the day has nothing to occupy his or her mind and appears increasingly forgetful and agitated. Memory loss seems greater. Blood-pressure readings may be lower. Patients may see things that aren't there or perceive things to be other than what they actually are. These visions can be extremely frightening.

Treatment might include establishing a repetitive routine that a patient can rely on. Continuity is good. Noise from the radio and television during evening hours may exacerbate agitation in some but help others. Allow the patient's sleeping area to remain lit during the night such as with a nightlight. Review all medications to be assured they don't have insomnia or disrupted sleep patterns as a side effect. Ask the doctor about the use of over-the-counter melatonin or St. John's wort as a possible sleep aid. Avoid giving food items later in the day that contain caffeine, such as coffee and chocolate. Monitor the patient's diet to determine whether any specific foods trigger agitation.

While not always possible to accomplish, family members or caregivers who can spend nighttime hours with a patient in a nursing home or hospital setting will provide a comforting sense of familiarity that may avoid symptoms. Keep in mind that with those patients able to ultimately return home to familiar surroundings, sundowner's can disappear completely, making the process of providing appropriate care easier. The fact that the condition may appear out of the blue is no reflection on the quality or capabilities of a facility where a patient may be placed. Family members need not be overly concerned by perceived wrongdoing after hours but should express their thoughts regarding the possibility of a misunderstood disorder that affects their loved ones.

Most of all, remember that anyone with sundowner's is unaware of the havoc that he or she may impose on family members and caregivers. The condition is not fatal but can be extremely difficult to deal with.

'Stamp Out Hunger' May 14

On Saturday, May l4, the Falls City and Humboldt Post Offices, along with their various branches, will be collecting cans of food for the Southeast Nebraska Community Action (SENCA) food pantries.

Post cards will be left in mailboxes as a reminder of the event, along with a bag in which to put the donations. The latest statistics show that 49.l million Americans do not know where their next meal will come from. One fourth of these are children.

The letter carrier food drive helps during the summer when school is out and children don't have an option of free or reduced breakfasts and lunches. It also gives senior citizens who are struggling the option of not having to decide between buying medicine and eating.

Persons are urged to join the National Association of Letter Carriers and the National Rural Letter Carrier's Association May l4 in the effort to Stamp Out Hunger by leaving a can or box of non-perishable food in the bag in their mailbox before the carrier delivers their mail.

High-need schools include those that educate a large percentage of students living in poverty, or have high teacher turnover rates or a significant number of teachers educating outside their training.

The scholarship program is named for Robert Noyce, who co-founded Intel and invented the integrated circuit, which sparked the personal computer revolution. Noyce cared deeply about the dwindling number of students heading into math and science careers.

A showdown or two might be shaping up in the Legislature.

Actually, as this column goes to press, the shows might be going down. Or have gone down. Still, we're talking about interesting stuff.

Gov. Dave Heineman has long been viewed as having plenty of juice when it comes to getting the Unicameral to see things his way.

The officially nonpartisan Legislature is manned by an overwhelmingly Republican majority which boasts of its conservative credentials. And that's pretty much how Heineman can be described; overwhelmingly Republican and proudly conservative.

But Heineman is (or was) looking down a double-barrel of possible policy losses.

First, there was that revolutionary business about earmarking state sales tax dollars for the first time, ever, to pay for highway projects. It is being pushed by the ever-pushy Sen. Deb Fischer of Valentine.

Heineman told lawmakers it was a bad idea from the beginning, but they gave it first-round approval.

Thereafter, Heineman said it was a really bad idea, but they gave it second-round approval, and by an even bigger margin.

And then Heineman said it was a really, really bad idea.

The question is whether Fischer can champion the idea across the goal line, and then override a veto if Heineman decides to put policy principles, and political pride, on the line.

And then there is the issue of putting a higher tax on nursing homes that handle Medicaid patients. Heineman vetoed the thing, saying it amounted to a $14 million tax increase on nursing home patients.

The bill was passed on a 44-1 vote. That's 14 more than were needed to override the veto and enact the measure over Heineman's objections. And that is what happened – Heineman's veto was slapped down, 44-0.

The measure would have the state use the $14 million tax on nursing homes and thus open the gate for $20 million in federal matching funds. That money would be funneled to nursing homes as a portion of their payment for Medicaid patients.

Heineman said the bill is no more than an accounting gimmick to allow the state to collect more federal dollars through a program that will eventually stop providing those funds.

Nebraska and Social Security

One can debate what, if anything, Congress should do to bolster the Social Security system … other than not robbing it any more to pay for other programs and lying about repaying the money.

The economic impact of Social Security benefits on Nebraska's economy is not debatable.

First, consider that Nebraska is among the states that tax Social Security benefits as income.

Second, according to figures from AARP, Social Security makes up at least half the income for over half of Nebraskans age 65 and older. And 25 percent of older Nebraskans say Social Security is their only source of income.Those same figures showed that 47 percent of Nebraskans over age 65 would fall below the poverty line without Social Security benefits.

Humane Society

The Humane Society held its regular monthly meeting April l9 at the Sun Mart Cafeteria. President Ardis Ramsey called the meeting to order with ll members present. Pets' l0 commandants were read by Ardis. The secretary's report was read by Julie Phroper and the treasurer's report by Bud Gerweck and both were approved.

Unfinished business was the group's T–shirt fundraiser by Leland Harmon and crew of Stripes & Signs held on March l9. A few T-shirts are left and are available. Thanks to all who helped. April 2 was the first pet adoption day, sponsored by Mary Whitehouse and her friendly crew of etc. Some kittens, as well as the bunny Huey, were on display. The first Saturday of every month will be pet adoption day.

New business was the Country Clover 4H members have decided to do a food/supply drive for the Humane Society. A few members also had the opportunity to attend a seminar sponsored by Petco and Petfinder. It was the chance to learn and talk with many members of various rescues and shelters. Also discussed was future fundraisers. The Society is waiting for plans and costs of the new shelter building for dogs.

The animal report reflects some furious activity, good and bad. On a great note, on a drive to Hiawatha Marian Vernon found a missing dog from rural Falls City and it was a happy reunion for both master and dog. Some desperate person left a grey momma cat and her six kittens in a carrier outside Dollar General Store. Two of the kittens have a home. It seems more and more people are dumping or relinquishing their animals. The Society shelter is full and that means that an animal taken to the City Pound has a very good chance of being put down.

Sadie, a very sweet Basenji mix dog was adopted. She was a long-term resident of the Shelter. Huey, the sweet little bunny, also found a forever home in Hiawatha. Her new owner was smitten with him when she saw him at etc. during pet adoption day. There are a few dogs at City Pound that need a home ASAP. Call the PD to check them out. The next meeting will be May l7 at Sun Mart Cafeteria. All are welcome.

SE Lutherans for Life

Southeast Nebraska Lutherans for Life met April 26 at Faith Lutheran Church in Humboldt, with 10 members in attendance. Pastor Diener, of St. John's Lutheran Church in Tecumseh, led the opening devotion, "Running on empty"…filled with hope! The group sang "Thanks to Thee, O Christ, Victorious "and" O Christ, Who Shared Our Mortal Life.

President Mildred Bartels welcomed the group and called the meeting to order. The Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were read and approved.

It was voted to purchase Ascension inserts for the bulletins for the upcoming Ascension service of the circuit that will be June 2 at Christ Lutheran Church in Nebraska City.

Pastor Diener will also order 1200 inserts for Father's Day and Mother's Day.

A motion was made and approved to contribute $100 for a half page ad in the Lutherans for Life Witness book and to purchase a book for $15.

A motion was made and approved to purchase "Life News" for our circuit churches for the month of September. Pastor will order these.

Pastor and Mrs. Diener will represent the group at the Lutherans for Life National Conference, which will be held in Irving, TX, Aug. 5 and 6.

Everyone was reminded of World Day of Prayer on May 5.

The group will participate in the area parades again this year.

Pastor Diener led the program, titled "God's Word gives hope for Life." He pointed out that our lives have many perils, trials, and dangers. However, we have a Guide who has conquered every peril -- His name is Jesus, and He is the way, the truth, and the life (John 14:6) and by His life, death, and resurrection He became the path to God and eternal life. To do this, He had to become a man. He had to live as one of us. He faced the same struggles; He faced the same trials; and yet He lived a sinless life only to die on the Cross to pay the penalty for our sin. He became One of us to show us the way – He was the only One who could; He's the only One who did.

Snacks were served by St. Paul's group.

The next meeting will be at Faith Lutheran Church in Humboldt on July 19 at 7 p.m. with Faith Lutheran serving as hosts.

purchased and razed. The bids came in well over the budget, which was approximately $13,000. The Council rejected all bids and contracted with locals Merle Byrom and Alvin Henry and they completed the project for under the $13,000.

Jorn said that in the 1980s, Baldwin, with financial support from the Lutheran Brotherhood, put in the shrubs in the northwest corner to beautify the park at a cost of $400. They were arranged to form FC. Don Koso and Baldwin planted other trees and subsequent plantings include a tree next to the flagpole, planted by Francis Seid and the Boy Scouts, and the last tree planted by the family of U.S. Marine Sgt. Nicholas S. Nolte.

Jorn noted that when he and members of the Tree Board and Carol Bentley, park manager, were looking for an area to plant the four trees on Arbor Day they discussed the possibility of placing a "Legion Park" sign there with appropriate landscaping. They hope that this will materialize with some organization coming forth to do so. Jorn can be contacted at City Hall.

He reminded those attending the plantings that Falls City earned the designation of Tree City USA Community by the Arbor Day Foundation for its commitment to urban forestry for the 19th year in 2010. He thanked those who have donated the trees planted during the Arbor Day celebrations and encouraged further participation.

In conclusion, Jorn praised the members of the Tree Board, past and present, and gave a special salute to Baldwin and Walker.

"The Tree Board has planted various trees throughout the city over the past decades and for an inventory of them just ask Don Baldwin or Bruce Walker. I'm sure if one does not know what type of tree it is or when it was planted, the other one will."

Refreshments were served, courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce.

City Council

an audio recording of that Feb. 7 meeting in which Sutter said "you weren't the only one discussed - the whole thing was discussed, everybody."

In its findings, the Attorney General's Office writes, "while it's not entirely clear from the Council's motion what the subject matter of the closed session was, it does not appear that the closed session was called for the purpose of discussing City Board appointments. You (Davidson) infer that the Council must have improperly discussed the appointments during the closed session. We cannot make the same inference. We find nothing to indicate that the Council discussed the City Board appointments, or specifically your appointment to the Library Board, during the closed session. We cannot find a violation of the Open Meetings Act related to the allegation."

Upon receiving the original correspondence from Davidson, the Attorney General's Office requested and received a response from Falls City Mayor Tim Hersh and Sutter. Contents of that response have not been provided to The Journal. City Clerk Gary Jorn denied The Journal's request to review April 14 letter to Davidson, citing that the letter "constitutes a part of (an) investigation" and is "not subject to public disclosure." Davidson, consequently, provided The Journal with copies of her orginial complaint and the State's response. Repeated attempts to contact the Attorney General's Office have been unsuccesful.

In his request to include the Attorney General's conclusion of the matter at the May 16 meeting, Sutter said, "put me down as spokesman."

In other news Monday:

— The Council approved a $24,000 Community Development Block Grand Re-Use Fund loan to Olberding Chiropractic LLC.

— The Council approved a request to change the zoning (from residential to neighborhood residential commercial) in the block where the old hospital was located at the 2300 block between Barada and Towle Streets.

— A motion by Sutter to have the city attorney create ordinances to amend existing ordinance for Building Regulations form the 2006 to the 2009 Edition died for a lack of a second. Jorn asked the Council to delay any action until more research is done.

— The Council approved a new lease with NMC for a skid steer for the Street Dept. in the amount of $2,750.

— A request from Girl Scout Troop #58 to operate a concession stand at Grandview Park during Falls City Rec games this summer was approved.

— The Council gave final approval to an ordinance to vacate Huber Road between 19th and 21st Streets. Later they approve a re-plat in the Burton - Huber Second Addition on property owned by John and Pat Steinman when will all the property to be sold so a house can be built there.

— Absent from the meeting were council members Kirby Roubidoux, Phyllis Krause and Brad Campbell.

FC man, 32, gets six years in federal pen

A 32-year-old Falls City man has been given six years in prison for receiving child pornography.

A news release from the office of U.S. Attorney Deborah Gilg says Kristopher Rowell was sentenced on Tuesday. Rowell must serve five years of supervised release after he leaves prison.

The release says a Nebraska state Patrol investigator, using peer-to-peer software, discovered the pornographic images on Rowell's computer in September 2008. A subsequent examination of Rowell's computer in February 2009 uncovered 69 videos and graphic image files.

UNL Extension Tractor Safety Course

UNL Extension Tractor Safety/ Hazardous Occupations Courses will be offered at seven locations in Nebraska during May and June. To standardize the training, courses were moved to centralized locations across the state.

Federal law prohibits youth under 16 years of age from working on a farm other than their parents'. Course completion grants an exemption to the law allowing 14- and 15-year-olds to drive a tractor and to do field work with mechanized equipment. The course also is available for the safety training if room permits.

The most common cause of death in agriculture accidents in Nebraska is overturn from tractors and all-terrain-vehicles (ATV), said Sharry Nielsen, UNL Extension Educator. Tractor and ATV overturn prevention are featured in the class work.

"Instilling an attitude of 'safety first' is a primary goal of the course," Nielsen said, "where youth have the chance to learn respect for agricultural jobs and the tools involved."

Classes consist of two full days of instruction plus homework assignments. Classes are from 8 a.m.- 5 p.m. each day.

The course will be offered June 13-14 at the Fairgrounds in Humboldt. Pre-registration is strongly encouraged at least one week before the start date to your local Extension Office. Cost is $60, which includes educational materials, testing, supplies, lunches and breaks. For more information, contact the Extension Office or Sharry Nielsen at (308) 832-0645, snielsen1@unl.edu.

The first day of class will consist of intensive classroom instruction with hands-on demonstrations, concluding with a written test that must be completed satisfactorily before the student may continue driving tests the next day. Classroom instruction will cover the required elements of the National Safe Tractor and Machinery Operation Program. Homework will be assigned to turn in the next day.

The second day will consist of testing, driving and operating machinery. Students must demonstrate competence in hitching equipment and driving a tractor and trailer through a standardized course as well as hitching PTO and hydraulic systems.

State's corn farmers investing $2.6 billion

Nebraska corn farmers are in the middle of a $2.6 billion investment that has a significant economic impact on dozens of businesses, rural communities and, in fact, the entire state, according to the Nebraska Corn Board.

"This multi-billion dollar investment, perhaps better known as planting, occurs in just a few weeks every spring," said Don Hutchens, executive director of the Nebraska Corn Board. "It's a tremendous investment, but one that also is subject to Mother Nature and the whims of outside markets."

The investment made by farmers includes everything from seed to fertilizer to all the other inputs it takes to get the crop in the ground and growing. Those purchases come from local seed dealers, cooperatives and dozens of other businesses that benefit from farmers planting corn.

"To put this $2.6 billion investment into perspective, compare it to the combined construction investments in Lincoln and Omaha," Hutchens said. "Over a two-year period, that comes to about $900 million and includes the construction costs of an arena, baseball stadium and a dozen other projects, all very valuable growth investments, but about one-third the investment farmers make each and every spring."

On average, farmers spend more than $270 per acre to get the crop in the ground and off to a good start, based on estimates calculated by the University of Nebraska Extension. Multiplied by the 9.5 million acres the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates Nebraska farmers will plant this year, provides the $2.6 billion investment by Nebraska corn farmers.

That investment doesn't include the whole story, though. "Those dollars get circulated through communities and the entire state," Hutchens said. With a multiplier of 2.5, planting corn this year will actually provide a $6.5 billion economic impact across the state.

Those estimates don't include labor or land costs, or the cost of irrigating for those farmers who carefully utilize that resource. It also doesn't include the expense of harvesting, hauling and storing the final crop. All those costs come later and provide their own economic impact.

"While the dollars invested in getting the crop off to a good start are impressive, it also doesn't include the value of that corn crop once it is harvested," Hutchens said. "From feed to fuel to fiber, that crop is worth a whole lot more than just bushels of grain sold into the market."

Corn harvested this fall will be used as feed for livestock and poultry, which results in high-value protein products that Nebraskans and people all over the world enjoy. Ethanol is another important market. That process involves taking corn and creating two products – fuel that helps keep gas prices lower than they otherwise would be and millions of tons of distillers grains, another feed product for livestock and poultry.

Bio-renewable materials like PLA are also made from corn. They are used in everything from plastics to fabrics and replace their petroleum-based counterparts in the process.

"It's a big investment farmers make every year in the hope Mother Nature will cooperate and they'll get a good crop," Hutchens said. "In the end, everyone in the state benefits many times over."

Sin is Shameful

There are organizations who keep watch on governments throughout the world, tabulating evidence of dishonesty and corruption. Lists are published of "the most corrupt governments" each year. One may begin to wonder if people are actually proud of their dishonesty.

Are bribe takers, perverters of justice, embezzlers, and other dishonest leaders our heroes? Sometimes it would appear so. Not only do many seem to take a perverted pride in the dishonesty of elected officials, media personalities and business men, but they also desire to one day participate in and benefit from the system of corruption that repeatedly fills our media and news casts.

We need to be reminded, "'Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people" (Proverbs 14:34). There is nothing admirable nor beneficial about dishonesty. Corruption destroys society. A nation can not survive with the continued abuse of justice of a dishonest leadership. It will become bankrupt not only of money, but of trust, productivity, and character.

Righteousness exalts a nation but sin ia a reproach … Proverbs 14:34

What is true of nations is also true of churches, families, or any other social institution. We may assume however that nations can absorb the occasional thief without much harm. That is simply not the case.

Sin is shameful. It is a cancer which eats away at the strength and health of any organization or person and will ultimately destroy it. Let us learn once again this truth. Let us "abhore what is evil. Cling to what is good" (Romans 12:9).

Righteousness exalts - sin shames. The choice is clear.

What a different world this would be if we loved one another the way mothers love their children.
Perhaps a mother's kind of love is what Jesus meant when He directed us to love one another.
Find love this week in church.
Love one another.

Seeking vols and hungry kids!

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 20th & Towle St., will again be the sponsor site for the 2011 Free Summer Lunch Program. This program provides a good nutritious lunch to children ages 18 and younger, Monday through Friday during the months of June and July.

This is a community service project and many volunteers are needed to make this program the huge success it has been over the past six years. In 2005, the number of meals served was 781 with this number growing to 1,127 in 2010.

We are in need of volunteers ranging from 7th grade youth to adults. Jobs include: preparing and serving food; supervising at lunchtime; record keeping, and clean up. A site coordinator will be available daily to assist you. It is easy, fun, and a great community service project, especially for high school youth.

The State of Nebraska requires all volunteers to attend one training session. Two sessions have been scheduled — 7 p.m. Monday, May 9, and 7 p.m. Thursday, May 26. The one-hour training will be held in the basement at St. Paul's. If you are unable to attend either of these dates, please contact Karen at St. Paul's to set up an alternate training date.

Hungry kids are also needed! Children ages 18 and younger eat free. Ages three and under must be able to eat regular children's food and be under the supervision of their caregiver. No registration is needed.

The program will run Wednesday, June 1, through Friday, July 29. Doors open at 11:45 a.m. for sign-in and lunch is served from noon–12:45 p.m. For more information please contact the St. Paul's church office at 402-245-3828, Monday through Friday. This program is a sponsored project of the Falls City Area Ministerial Association.

Don't get scammed

Falls City Police and the Richardson County Sheriff's Office are receiving numerous complaints of scams, especially perpetrated against senior citizens.

The general rule is that if something seems to be too good to be true, it probably is.

No one should ever provide personal information (bank account, credit card, address, etc.) to anyone, no matter how persuasive he or she might be in a phone call or email. Scam artists prey on people who are trusting. The best policy is to hang up, delete a suspicious email or dispose of any mail offer that seems suspicious.

Cudney to athletes: "Max out your life."

By Jim Langan

A large group of Tiger faithful gathered Sunday night at the Elk's Club for the annual Falls City Tiger Booster Club's Athletic Banquet. The guest speaker was 2000 Falls City High graduate Jordan Cudney.

Cudney was a three sport standout for Falls City High, then took his talents to Doane College where he earned four letters for the football program and was elected a team captain his senior year.

He graduated from Doane in 2005 with a Bachelor of Arts in Physical Education and History and quickly joined the ranks of coaching. He started his coaching career at Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa, then moved on to Ord High School, Omaha Benson and was just recently hired at Midland Lutheran University in Fremont where he will coach quarterbacks and assist with the strength and conditioning program.

Cudney was always known as a quite, humble person off the playing surface, but once he laced them up his drive, focus and work ethic were second to none.

This was evident Sunday night when he spoke to the large group of student athletes, coaches and parents as he delivered his message of "maxing out in your life." He delivered this message with the same fervor as he competed with while a Tiger at Falls City High.

Along with his theme of "maxing out in life", Cudney spoke of the great opportunity athletes have at Falls City High, the support the community provides these athletes and how the tradition and history of being a Tiger was engrained in him as young man.

Cudney noted it was not the wins and losses he remembers, but the support the community gives to its athletes.

"People in this town stepped out and they supported and encouraged us athletes," he said. "I feel blessed to be a part of that and it doesn't happen everywhere. Falls City is a special town."

Cudney, the son of Glenn and Carlene Cudney who are also both Falls City High graduates, spoke of learning the history and tradition of Tiger athletics as a child.

"I was fortunate to have parents who loved me and supported me and taught me at a young age what it meant to be a Tiger," he said. "I knew as a young man the greatness of Falls City High School.

"It was impressed upon me at a young age. I heard the stories of Coach (Jack) McIntyre, Coach (Bob) Henderson, Coach (Larry) Munn. I heard those names and the stories that went with them at a young age, so my understanding and my knowledge of what it meant to be a Tiger was pretty great.

"When I got to high school and made that transition I understood what that meant."

Cudney went on to share the Parable of the Bags of Gold story from the Bible, which he read from chapter 25, verses 16-30 to help illustrate his point of "maxing out in life." He related this by saying that each man or woman is given different amounts of talent or ability and it is up to them what they do with it.

He noted three ways as an athlete of making the most out of your God-given talent or ability. A commitment to the weight room, a commitment to practice and the choices one makes off the field.

Cudney borrowed a quote from Nick Saban, who is the head football coach at the University of Alabama and one of the most successful coaches college football.

The quote: "How you do anything is how you're going to do everything."

Cudney emphasized the importance of this by telling the audience that each day "we have a choice of what we're going to do with that day." He went on to say that it is up to all of us as individuals to make the most out of our choices each and every day.

As he closed, he left the group with a list of three things to consider each day to help achieve success:

– Did I max out the talents God gave me today?

– You have to choose daily to work hard.

– Can you look yourself in the mirror and say, "I took advantage of everything God has given me?"

In a world full of lists and countdowns, the brilliance of Jordan Cudney's list is found in its simplicity.

FCMS Students of the Month

The students of the month for February at Falls City Middle School were: Lee Huettner, eighth grade, Kellse Embretson, seventh grade, and Hannah Pfohl, sixth grade.

Each pupil received a T-shirt printed with the Student of the Month logo. The shirts are compliments of Stripes and Signs. The Elks Club will sponsor a complimentary meal during Youth Week for all this year's student of the month recipients and their parents.

To receive student of the month, students must first be nominated by one of their teachers. The criteria for nomination this year focuses on the 212-degree message: The teachers are continuously looking for the students that give the extra degree. The student demonstrates extra effort by being an exemplary student. Someone who internalizes the truth that is "Not enough to be good when you have the ability to be BETTER!" Each month the teachers will choose an individual from each grade that were identified as a 212 degree student and met the criteria. This includes: turning work in on time, exemplary behavior everywhere, goes out of their way to help peers, good grades and/or improvement; always showing effort, active and/or involved in the community, leadership accomplishments: academic, athletic, or in the community, school attendance, positive attitude toward others, honest and trustworthy, cooperative and dependable, helpful to teachers, positive attitude toward school, and considerate of other's feelings.

Gilsdorf's 80 good for 3rd

Tiger senior Matt Gilsdorf put together his best 18 holes on what may have been the toughest course to date for the Falls City golf team. Gilsdorf shot an 80 (39-41) at Woodland Hills during the Palmyra Invitational last Wednesday, which was good enough for third place. It was his best finish of the season.

Jack Munford went out with 45, but battled back with a 40 on the back-9 for an 85 and earned seventh place. Wade Witt rounded out the Tigers scores with a 94.

The trio scored a 259, collectively, which earned them third place in the Gold Division. They finished just two strokes behind Milford (257) and 12 back from the event winners Syracuse (247).

Brent Maze shot 92 and finished in ninth place in the Silver Division.

Freeman wins at Woodland Hills

Humboldt-TR-S senior Calvin Freeman captured two more events last week. He won the Palmyra Invitational at Woodland Hills with his 74 and also won the Kirkman's Dual against Johnson County Central with his 37.

Freeman actually out-dualed teammates Cody Tasler, who shot 39 and finished second, and Adam Burgett who finished third with his 42.

JCC's Logan Dorsey's 44 was the best for the Thunderbirds.

The Titan golfers finished in fourth place at the Palmyra Invitational which was just the second time this season they did not finish in first place as a team.

8 things to never go cheap on

By the Editors of Consumer Reports®

Have you ever bragged to a complete stranger about an amazing deal on a great pair of shoes? Do you feel angst at the thought of buying something at full retail price?

The joy brought on when getting a great bargain is undeniable. But according to ShopSmart, the shopping magazine published by Consumer Reports, there are some items that consumers shouldn't skimp on.

"According to a new ShopSmart national poll, more than three-quarters of American women buy stuff they don't need just because it's on sale," said Lisa Lee Freeman, editor-in-chief of ShopSmart.

Here are eight things that ShopSmart says are worth the price:

-- Paint. Even though you can find a gallon of paint for as little as $11, cheaper paint will take several coats to cover a single wall, and it likely won't hold up for an extended period of time.

-- Gas grills. Look for features such as premium-quality burners, stainless-steel grates and heavy-duty construction. You should realistically expect to spend at least $150 for a quality product.

-- Big-screen TVs. If you're investing in a big-screen television -- 50 inches or more -- you'll want to own it for a while. So go for as big a screen as you can afford from a reliable brand.

-- Blu-ray players. Instead of replacing one cheap DVD player with another cheap DVD player, consider trading up to a Blu-ray player, which supplies true high definition to your high-definition TV.

-- Fire protection. Aerosols such as First Alert Tundra are much cheaper than traditional fire extinguishers and may look as if they're easier to use, but they're a lot less effective as well -- a true safety concern in the event of an emergency.

-- Mattresses. Can you really afford not to get a good night's rest? Don't spend less than $800 for a queen-size set or you'll risk years of sleepless nights and all the effects associated with sleep deprivation.

-- Grass seed. Inexpensive blends may contain a large percentage of weeds and annual grass seeds, which will die after one season. Spend more for the good stuff.

-- Canister vacuums. Cheaper vacuums can be both ineffective and frustrating, so expect to spend around $200 and up for a quality product.

Shubert considers contract with Sheriff for law enforcement

Sheriff Randy Houser reported this week that the Shubert Village Board is considering a law enforcement contract with the county.

Sheriff Houser said he had attended a Shubert Village Board meeting during which the idea was discussed to contract with the county to provide services to enforce village ordinances.

The only other law enforcement contract involving Richardson County is with Humboldt, where services and hours are spelled out. Villages in the county are served by the Sheriff's Department, but hours of service are not specific.

During their weekly meeting on Tuesday, Commissioners Dave Sickel, Bill Ely and Jim Davidson participated in a quarterly safety committee meeting. Sickel presented a summary received from NIRMA of the first quarter claims, along with a NIRMA questionnaire on how such losses may have been prevented. The committee discussed each claim and offered opinions and/or solutions on how these could or may have been avoided. EMA Director Jim Gerweck reported on the storm spotter class and sandbagging demonstration classes he recently held. Included was a review of safety measures during storms and floods.

The board learned that Highway Supt. Scott Huppert had received four brush complaints that had been forwarded to the County Attorney's office.

Mother's Day matters - to moms and retailers

Mother's Day is Sunday May 8, 2011. Does it really matter? To all the women who spent nine months with changing hormones and an ever increasing body – it matters. To all the husbands who learned how much work it takes to diaper, feed and comfort a baby – it matters.

I have an aunt who is like my mother. It's really hard to say no to her. Don't get me wrong; she doesn't need or want anything. I love her and so I buy presents for her on Mother's Day. I wouldn't even think of not getting her a present. Guilt – massive guilt – would follow me for months if I didn't buy her a gift – - not just any gift – - but a really good gift. So I started to wonder what the rest of America planned to do give their mothers this Sunday.

Sky rocketing gas prices, the government's near shutdown, and rising food prices are shaking consumers' confidence. As their confidence wavers, so too does their willingness to spend money on Mother's Day. What will mothers around the country receive on Sunday – other than a hug, kiss or an electronic card filled with sentiment?

BIGresearch and the Prosper Foundation asked in their April 2011 Consumer Intentions and Actions survey to 8,000 consumers nationwide what gifts, if any, they will purchase for Mother's Day.

Greeting cards: The survey revealed that consumers, regardless of age, held similar beliefs regarding the amount of money to spend on each category. Let's talk about the greeting card industry first. Despite popular belief by grouches, penny pinchers, and negative people in general, Mother's Day was not invented by Hallmark. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson declared the second Sunday in May Mother's Day.

BIGresearch consumers revealed that they really love their mothers. No $1.99 Shoebox card or email card for their moms. This group of individuals are spending anywhere from $6.97 to $8.16. Let's be honest, who doesn't look on the back of the card for the price? This is one day where almost everyone is impressed by the amount of money spent on the card. On Mother's Day, spend a few bucks extra and you might even get a homemade meal compliments of mom – - is that wrong?

Books or CDs: The next item identified as a Mother's Day gift was a book or CD. Given the average cost identified (between $16.73 and $18.77), CD sellers should be very busy. Online retailers, book sellers and Best Buy should see an uptick in music sales as last minute purchasers search for music specifically for mom.

Flowers: It is wonderful to receive flowers. They instantly brighten a room and make everything seem lovely – - yes lovely. Here is the truth about flowers; they are perishable and very expensive when purchased by a florist. A decent size bouquet from a florist will set you back $45. A big bouquet in a vase will cost $65 or more. Expect to crowbar your wallet open even more if the flowers are delivered.

The dollar amount the BIGresearch consumer is willing to spend on flowers range from $21.80 to $28.21. I suspect that these consumers are (a) savvy with their money and will one day be able to retire in style and (b) are planning to purchase their flowers at the local grocer. In the past 10 years grocery stores have been expanding the floral department. The size, selection and competitive pricing are giving traditional florists a run for their money. Consumers are able to obtain beautiful bouquets for half the price of traditional florists. The only requirement – the consumer must be willing to personally deliver the flowers.

If you plan to purchase flowers at the grocer for Mother's Day, you will have the best selection by calling ahead or selecting your bouquet on Saturday. Last minute gift givers shouldn't worry; grocers are planning ahead by stocking up on potted plants as well as fresh flowers. Potted plants are a wonderful gift. Your mother can brag about you all year long as her friends compliment the plant. She will tell them how thoughtful her grown child was in remembering her on Mother's Day – - talk about a win/win scenario!

Gift cards/certificates: Have you ever heard from a parent say "don't buy me anything, just come to dinner." Don't believe it! Never, ever come empty handed to your mother's house on Mother's Day. If you do, you will never hear the end of it. Gift cards or gift certificates are the perfect solution if you can't decide what to give your mother. Consumers surveyed stated that the range of gift cards or gift certificates is $32.86 to $36.94. Product and service retailers and restaurants alike offer gift cards and gift certificate. The beauty of this gift is that it doesn't need wrapping and you can pick it up on the way to your mother's house. This gift is perhaps the easiest to purchase for those who are tight on time or frazzled by other commitments.

Clothing: Purchasing clothing for your mother is a bit challenging. Size, color and style are all very personal. Personal taste is just that – personal. The consumers surveyed tossed judgment to the wind and said they would purchase clothing for mom anyway. The cost of the clothing ranged from $33.14 to $38.18. Specialty and department stores promoting clothing sales prior to Mother's Day are extremely popular. This price range suggests that tops and accessories will be popular gifts.

Jewelry: The significant product being purchased for Mother's Day is jewelry. The price range is $75.09 to $95.23. Whether the gift is for your wife, mother or grandmother, jewelry is sentimental and enduring. Department stores, discount stores, specialty stores and traditional jewelry stores understand the importance of promoting Mother's Day. This is the perfect holiday for retailers to (a) upsize the purchase – legally of course, (b) recommend complimentary products for this purchase or a future purchase, and (c) remind the purchaser of the longevity, sentimental value and significance of the product under consideration. When a woman receives jewelry, she ALWAYS remembers the event. Trust me. I remember receiving my first gold monogrammed bracelet. It was during my senior year in high school. My date gave it to me over dessert at an Italian dinner. Back to retailers and jewelry – - A wide variety of jewelry at different price ranges should be emphasized. Text, twitter, Facebook and advertise in order to get the word out to your consumers.

So, Mother's Day matters as an official recognition of your mother and as a day to boost retail sales. This holiday will encourage retail store traffic, generate sales and sales tax. Smart retailers will be able to turn a single sale into multiple sales (one for mom and one for the purchaser). It is particularly important for card retailers to heavily promote Mother's Day; consumers don't send cards as frequently as in the past. Retailers are encouraged to email, text, use electronic billboards, Facebook and direct marketing to promote Mother's Day.

Runza promo nets $133.91 for TeamMates

The Falls City TeamMates Mentoring Program is very thankful to the local Runza and its customers. The program received a check for $133.91, which is 10 percent of the proceeds collected on March 29, TeamMates Day, at the local Runza Restaurant.

Each year the Runza Restaurants across Nebraska and now Iowa set aside one day a year to donate a percentage of the profits to the local TeamMates Program. There were seventy-six Runza locations that participated across Nebraska and Iowa.

"Runza Restaurants is proud to take an active role in each and every community we serve. More than a responsibility, it's our privilege to positively impact the lives of our neighbors," said Becky Perrett, Director of Marketing at Runza National. "TeamMates and Runza are two organizations founded in Nebraska and we are honored to be able to partner together to support our youth," said Suzanne Hince, Executive Director of the TeamMates Mentoring Program.

The generous gift will be used to support the local Falls City TeamMates Mentoring Program.
