District provides iPad for each FC High student

By Jason Schock

Doors flung open at four different Falls City Public School buildings last Thursday and the hundreds of young students passing the threshold embarked on a 2013-14 school year that, using recent history as an indicator, promises to be better than the last one.

The brick and mortar buildings themselves are largely unchanged, but the learning environment inside the classrooms only improves with each passing year. The professional development of faculty never ceases, as teaching strategies and techniques must keep innovative pace with the ever-advancing technological tools they and their students utilize. And the proof is in the perceptible pudding: FCPS students in 2012 performed better on state mathematics, science and writing tests than they did in 2011; and, it was announced last week by the Nebraska Dept. of Education, FCPS students in 2013 performed better than in 2012.

"The assessment results prove that FCPS students are continuing to improve their scores in mathematics, science and writing," Supt. Tim Heckenlively said. "Much of this success can be attributed to the district's school-wide goal of focusing on raising student achievement. A highly qualified faculty, improved focus on achievement data, up-to-date technology and curriculum resources, and parental support all contribute to student achievement at FC Public Schools," he said.

Heckenlively, who is entering his fourth year as District 56 Superintendent, addresses patrons of the district and outlines some of FCPS' goals and priorities in a guest editorial published in today's Journal (see Page 2).

His term as superintendent, which followed 11 years as North School Principal, has coincided with a prosperous time for FC Public Schools. A surprisingly prosperous time, because when Heckenlively was selected to succeed Dr. Jon Habben in the spring of 2009, the "Cliff Effect" alarm had sounded full-blast in Nebraska schools. Federal stimulus monies had run out and the state's budgetary woes led the Legislature to cut $334 million, much of it coming from education. FCPS' certified state aid for 2010-11 was some $600,000 less than the year before. Dr. Habben, now Executive Director for the Nebraska Rural Community School Association, used terms like "disaster" and "breathtaking" when describing the financial situation his successor was inheriting.

While dwindling state was - and continues to be - a concern for FCPS and all rural Nebraska school districts, no "disaster" has yet materialized in Falls City, as tax revenues from skyrocketing property valuations are sufficiently filling the district coffers. And then some - Heckenlively and the District 56 BOE have effectively managed the money and even replenished the case reserves.

"It was tight, but we've been able to stay strong," Heckenlively said. "We've been able to run a steady budget without increases to the general fund," he said. "We continue to lower the levy and we're getting to the point where we don't have to borrow on a short-term basis, as was the case several years back."

Effective management in the boardroom has led to unprecedented accomplishment in the classroom. In Heckenlively's second year, school officials were in Washington, D.C., accepting FC High School's prestigious National Blue Ribbon Award. At the time, FCHS was just the third Nebraska school ever to receive the honor.

"I'm very, very proud of you, Falls City," Nebraska Governor Dave Heinemann said at the time. "This is something all of you should take enormous pride in. Falls City High is being recognized as a Blue Ribbon School - how often has that happened in Nebraska, let alone southeast Nebraska?"

District 56 is a model school district - literally. FCPS is one of 17 school districts working with the Nebraska Dept. of Education to develop model evaluations based on the framework for effective instruction.

"During this pilot year, we're preparing to undertake the challenge to work through the process for implementation. The goal of the new evaluation model is to ultimately improve

Representatives of the Road & Bridge Department Union, Randy Gilsdorf and Jim Olberding, met with the Richardson County Board of Commissioners Tuesday, Aug. 13, to discuss the proposal they presented on July 23.

The proposal includes a two-year contract with a pay increase of 2.5% the first year and 3% the second year, an additional holiday (county fair) or a floating holiday, increasing paid time off to accumulate to 90 days and increasing the medical reimbursement amount from $650 to $1,250.

Board members Dave Sickel, Jim Davidson and Jim Standerford presented a counter offer that agreed with a two-year contract, with pay increases of 2.5% the first year and 2.5% the second year, with no other changes to be made from the previous agreement that expired on June 30, 2013.

Ted Buri, contract administrator of the NAPE Local 61 AFSCME, participated in the meeting by teleconference. The board was to meet again with the union representatives at today's

CLOUD NINE. Jack Edlin, 9, a fourth grader from Las Vegas, recently lived the experience of a lifetime inside Kauffman Stadium, home of the Kansas City Royals. Accompanied by grandparents David and Thelma (Merz) Lunsford, of Falls City, Jack got the enviable opportunity to roam the KC locker room following a recent Royals-Boston Red Sox game. He rubbed elbows with his favorite Royal, Alex Gordon (right), on a night where the All-Star just missed hitting for the cycle. Jack also had his picture taken with Royals third baseman Mike Moustakas (left), and, after it was revealed that Jack's father grew up a Red Sox fan, Boston slugger and future Hall of Famer David "Big Papi" Ortiz (bottom) insisted on a photo op with young Jack. Jack's chance of a lifetime was made possible by Thelma's sister and Falls City native Mary (Merz), who is married to Gordon's father, Mike. The kid wasn't the only one starstruck: "I can tell you, at 71, I was about as excited as Jack was," Grandpa David said. "It was a really big thrill."

'Welcome to 2013-14 school year'

Welcome to the 2013-2014 school year. Each new school year resembles a clean slate and provides a unique opportunity as we address new goals, challenges, initiatives, students, and parents within our educational community. Quality instruction, continuous school improvement, 1:1 iPad learning, Nebraska state academic standards, and early childhood education will all be District #56 priority initiatives to follow in 2013-2014.

As we look forward to the 2013-2014 school year, it's important to understand the quality of teachers and principals is key to all learning that takes place at any school. Falls City Public Schools is one of 17 school districts working with the Nebraska Department of Education to develop model evaluations based on the framework for effective instruction. During this pilot year, we're preparing to undertake the challenge to work through the process for implementation. The goal of the new evaluation model is to ultimately improve the instructional process for our entire staff, both teachers and principals, which will result in higher achievement for our students. Much work lies ahead and be assured our number one goal is to provide support and professional development in order to assure a successful transition over the next few years.

All school districts should and need to have a clear, focused plan on improving student learning. This requires providing a full, rich curriculum, for every student, supports for teachers such as professional development and collaboration time, and an alignment of expectations from board members, administrators, and teachers. The Continuous School Improvement Committee and the district's Data teams have worked tirelessly over the past couple years to get us to this point. Now, during the 2013-2014 school year, the improvement plan will begin the implementation phase at all our buildings. This collaborative effort will make us a better school, for students, and educators.

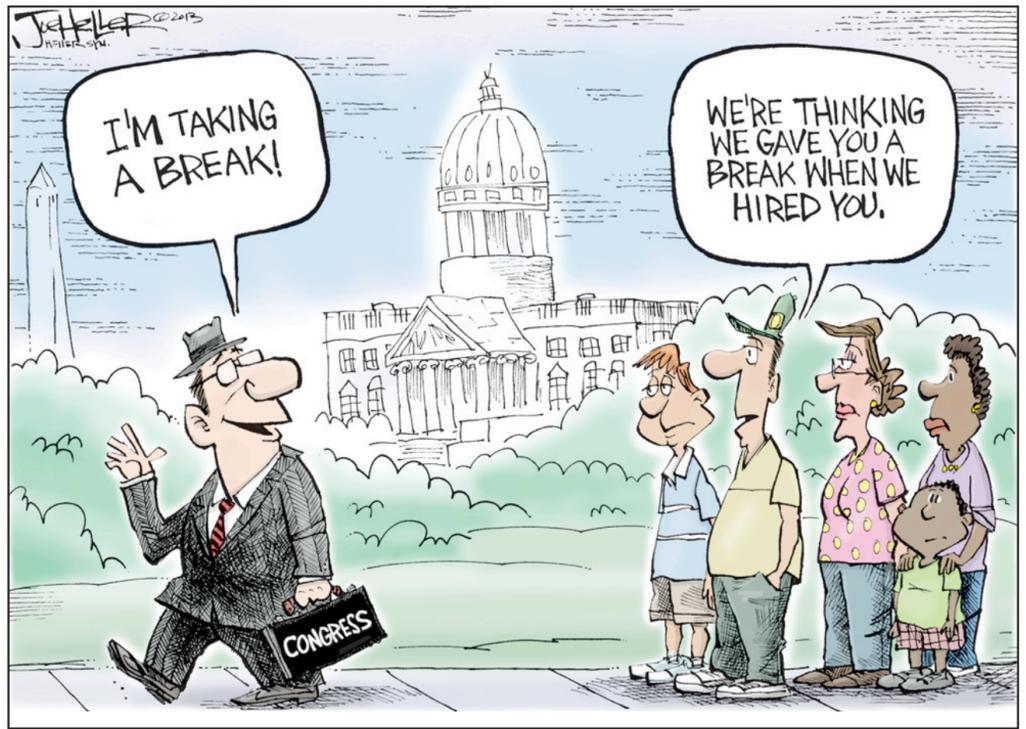

The Falls City Public Schools will be taking steps to accomplishing a major district goal during 2013-2014, with the implementation of the 1:1 iPad Learning Initiative at Falls City High. Our high school students will be given the opportunity to become more information literate through the daily instruction and exposure to the technology of 1:1 iPads. In modeling the priorities of our district mission statement, our students will utilize this new learning tool to develop a strong ability to collaborate, communicate, and solve problems to better prepare themselves for college and a career.

LB 190 resulted in a General Fund appropriation to make more dollars available for funding high quality early childhood programs serving at-risk infants, toddlers, and their families. As a result, FCPS is strongly considering applying for grant funding that will expand the kinds of high quality early learning services that we have witnessed closing achievement gaps over the past 20 plus years since the creation of the Parent-Child Center.

Additionally, FCPS has once again qualified as a 2013 Monsanto America's Farmers Grow Rural Education finalist. Our grant application was reviewed by a panel of educators and selected as one of the strongest submissions in Nebraska. The grant program submitted by FCPS focuses on a partnership with the UNL Extension School Enrichment Program and provides a complete classroom set of iPad's for both North and South School. A digital learning curriculum that is math, science, and ag-based is the heart of the grant project. Grant awards will be selected in late August.

The new school year promises to be an exciting one as we address our goals, initiatives, and activity competitions, and strive to prepare our students to be college and career ready when they graduate from high school. In modeling the District #56 mission statement, it's now time to accomplish new goals and meet new challenges as we inspire students to become innovative, resourceful, resilient, and responsible citizens.

Politics '14 – Who's in, who's out; make a list

Capitol View
By J.L. Schmidt
Statehouse Correspondent

Time was when the State Fair and/or Labor Day was the traditional time for announcing candidacy for statewide office in Nebraska. Said announcements were often "events" designed to get the most spin out of the announcement. With the popularity of social media, such news is now often spread in tweets whenever.

So, if you want to keep up with who's in and who's out in the 2014 races, I suggest you get a large sheet of paper and divide it into grids with a wide column for Governor and one for U.S. Senate. Beside each wide column you should have two narrow columns indicating In and Out. Post the paper in an appropriate place: your garage, your basement, the back of the bathroom door.

Write in the names of the usual suspects, but do it in pencil. These things change quicker than a columnist can keep track. Under Governor you can list Democrats or Republicans in whatever order suits your voter registration card. Hint: leave more space for Republicans since there are more of them in Nebraska. It's too early to tell you how to prioritize things in the Senate race, which might take a few more months.

Ready? Let's go to Governor/Republicans. Put these names in chronological or alphabetical order, no matter. State Senator Charlie Janssen of Fremont has been in the race for what already seems to be a long time since he has been issuing news releases on what he perceives to be nearly every topic of dinner table conversation that might occur. You can also add Senator Tom Carlson of Holdrege and Falls City businessman Charles Herbster who owns a large cattle feeding operation and a multi-level marketing business that has apparently made him financially successful. While you're at it, add Omaha businessman Pete Ricketts who is said to be ready to throw a baseball cap into the race.

The unsuccessful 2006 GOP U.S. Senate nominee is currently co-owner of the Chicago Cubs. Nebraska Attorney General Jon Bruning has sent an e-mail to supporters to tell them he'll be running for reelection as Attorney General, not Governor. So don't add him to the list.

Now go to Governor/Democrats. Former University of Nebraska Regent Chuck Hassebrook should be first on your list. He was brave enough to step out a while ago as the first Democrat in the race. The Lyons resident is also the director of the Center for Rural Affairs. Add the name of State Senator Annette Dubas of Fullerton to the list. She said she'll announce next month, but she's in and hopes to make a race out of the primary and put some of her rural ideas on the line. DO NOT add Omaha State Senator Steve Lathrop to the list. He sent a tweet recently indicating he won't be a candidate, this time, and has opted to finish his lawmaking obligations and take a look at a possible future race.

The hard part is done. Now go to the U.S. Senate column, under Republicans. Former State Treasurer and decorated Navy veteran Shane Osborn was the first to put his oar in the water and remains the only one in the race. Get ready to add Midland University President Ben Sasse. The former U.S. Assistant Secretary of Health and Human Services during the last two years of the George W. Bush administration says he'll announce around Labor Day. There is nothing to write in the Democrat column, yet.

The Dubas – Hassebrook contest could pivot on each candidate's stand on abortion. Nebraska Right to Life endorsed Dubas during her last legislative race. Hassebrook was endorsed by Planned Parenthood Voters of Nebraska during his 2006 Regent's race and refused to join other NU regents who tried to restrict stem cell research. He said he supports current law on abortion in Nebraska, the majority of which was offered by pro-life Democrats in the officially non-partisan Unicameral and signed into law by then Governor Ben Nelson, also a pro-life Democrat.

Some observers say that Rickett's entry in the Republican gubernatorial race could make the whole game expensive again. In 2006, he spent about $12 million of his own cash in a failed attempt to defeat Nelson. You might want to add another column to your chart to track campaign finance reports if such things interest you.

OK, pencils down now. We'll update your lists again during the nine months remaining before the 2014 primary.

What you need to know about Congress right now

By Lee Hamilton

Deeply unpopular and flagrantly unproductive, Congress is on its August recess right now. It won't return until Sept. 9, after a five-week recess, leaving itself just a few days to settle issues like raising the debt ceiling and passing a federal budget. Here are some things you should know about where it stands at this stage of the game:

— Few, if any, Congresses can match this one for futility. It managed to help out some communities in the wake of Hurricane Sandy and to reach a deal on presidential nominations, but mostly it can't get things done — whatever your politics. The repeal of Obamacare, action on climate change, a "grand bargain" on our fiscal problems, education and tax reform, creating jobs, strengthening gun laws... the list of dropped balls is long, although there is still hope for immigration reform, if just barely. A few weeks ago Speaker John Boehner told Americans not to judge Congress by how many laws it passes, but by how many it repeals. It hasn't succeeded on either count.

— The budget process is a mess. It's been years since Congress put together a budget according to its regular order, but even by its recent low standards this year has been chaotic. None of the appropriations bills needed for the government to continue running after Sept. 30 has been enacted. "It is common for Congress to leave big budget fights until the last minute," the Wall Street Journal's Janet Hook wrote as Congress left town, "but the budgeting process now seems so adrift that even congressional veterans find it hard to see a resolution." Passing a budget is the most basic function of government, and Congress can't manage it.

— Members of Congress do not like to compromise. The parties are more divided ideologically than they've been for many decades, with one side fiercely hostile to government and the other convinced that government can accomplish good things. Neither side can get things done on its own. That's pretty much the definition of when responsible lawmakers step forward to build a consensus. Yet in this Congress, either they don't know how or they're not interested. A glimmer of hope does exist, as more members respond to polls showing Americans believe it's more important for the parties to compromise than to stick to their positions. They may not be able to come to agreement, but some of them are talking about how willing they are to reach across the aisle.

— Even so, it's worth noticing that one of the congressional parties is extraordinarily difficult to lead at the moment. The Republicans are fractured and squabbling over their future direction. This makes me sympathize with the formidable task the Republican leadership confronts.

— Hardly anyone out there thinks Congress is doing a good job — it's consistently below 20 percent approval ratings — and most people think it's too partisan. Yet members aren't very concerned. They've become quite skilled at running against Washington, even though they are Washington. And they count on the fact that few voters hold their own member of Congress responsible for its shortcomings, however unpopular Congress as a whole has become.

— As lobbyists descend in swarms on Capitol Hill, they hold more power than ever. They rain cash, twist arms, and even draft bills — all the things that powerful congressional leaders used to do. The NRA's defeat of legislation strengthening background checks for gun purchases, in the face of overwhelming public sentiment after Newtown, was nothing less than an impressive display of political clout and an example of how influential lobbyists and special interests have become. Perhaps this is why a good number of my former colleagues have made a tidy living for themselves by becoming lobbyists.

— Finally, all of this contributes to the emerging themes for the 2014 congressional campaign. Candidates will clearly run against the mess in Washington, and a good number of them, though not all, will talk regularly about the need to be bipartisan. The big question for 2015 will be whether the successful ones can translate their talk into legislation to help move the country forward.

Lee Hamilton is Director of the Center on Congress at Indiana University. He was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives for 34 years.

Highway Supt. Scott Huppert briefly reviewed the proposed budget for 2013-14 — a discussion to be continued this week.

The board moved to approve a reassigned contract for the Preston Road project with Constructors Inc. Huppert said the construction start date had been set for Aug. 12, with 50 working days allotted to complete the project.

In other developments, the Commissioners:

— Learned from Huppert that the bridge located on Rose Street and 713 Road, Humboldt, would be closed later in the week and that the project would take up to four weeks to complete. The board also authorized Chairman Sickle to sign the right-of-way acquisition documents for the Humboldt Northwest bridge.

— Met with representatives of Prochaska & Associates, who presented the needs and assessment study for a Richardson County Law Enforcement Center (at the former National Guard Armory, west of Falls City). The board is considering establishing a "jail committee" to review the study and determine if there is a need for such a facility. Andy Snyder of Smith Hayes & Associates updated the board on the current bond rates and information for financing a jail facility with a bond.

— Met with Sheriff Randy Houser to review the proposed fiscal year 2013-14 budgets of the sheriff's department, jail, Humboldt law contract and investigator. A quarterly jail inspection was held and the facility was found to be in good order.

— Reviewed proposed budgets with Pam Vice, County Assessor; Austin Duerfeldt, County Treasurer; Jami Rutt, Cooperative Extension; Doug Merz, County Attorney; and Jim Gerweck, EMA Director.

— Adopted a resolution to set the tax levy allocation for the rural fire districts and the Ag Society for the tax year 2013 at .02 cents. Standerford abstained.

— Moved to advertise for sealed bids for the re-roofing of the Armory building, with bids to be received by 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 3.

the instructional process for our entire staff, both teachers and principals, which will result in higher achievement for our students," Heckenlively said.

"All school districts should and need to have a clear, focused plan on improving student learning. This requires providing a full, rich curriculum, for every student, supports for teachers such as professional development and collaboration time, and an alignment of expectations from board members, administrators, and teachers. The Continuous School Improvement Committee and the district's Data teams have worked tirelessly over the past couple years to get us to this point. Now, during the 2013-2014 school year, the improvement plan will begin the implementation phase at all our buildings. This collaborative effort will make us a better school, for students, and educators."

FCPS this year will implement the 1:1 iPad Learning Initiative at Falls City High, which provides an iPad for every freshman, sophomore, junior and senior enrolled.

"It's been a district goal since I've been superintendent," Heckenlively said. "We were able to make a three-year lease purchase without increasing our technology budget at all."

The district goal, of course, is to ensure that Falls City students are career and college ready by the time they graduate from high school. And, according to the Nebraska Dept. of Education, FCPS is getting better all the time: Seventy-five percent of FCPS students meet or exceed state reading standards; 70 percent meet or exceed math standards, compared to 67 percent last year; 80 percent meet or exceed state science standards, another three percent increase; and 69 percent meet or exceed state writing assessments, compared to 64 percent last year.

Gilkerson appointed to fill Bartek's term

The District 56 School Board met in regular session Monday, Aug. 12, in the Central Office at FC Middle School, and voted to appoint Tedd Gilkerson to the Board, filling the vacancy created by the death of longtime member Kathy Bartek. Gilkerson, June Bowers, Kevin Scheitel and Mrs. Bartek's daughter, Amanda Young, applied for the position. Ed Harris nominated Gilkerson and a motion was made by Teresa Olberding, seconded by Scott Huppert. Gilkerson, who twice ran for a seat on the FCPS Board, took the oath of office that evening. He will serve until the 2014 general election and then will have to be elected to serve the final two years of the term.

In other news:

— FCPS has once again qualified as a 2013 Monsanto America Farmers Grow Rural Education finalist. The grant application was reviewed by a panel of educators and selected as one of the strongest submissions in Nebraska. The grant program submitted by FCPS focuses on a partnership with the UNL Extension School Enrichment Program and provides a complete classroom set of iPad's for both North and South School. A digital learning curriculum that is math, science, and ag-based is the heart of the grant project. Grant awards will be selected in late August.

Historical Society

The Board of Directors of the Richardson County Historical Society met July 27, 2013, with 14 members present. President Aaron Wing opened the meeting at 9:05 a.m. Gary Nelson read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved as read. Treasurer Jo Ann Auxier presented the treasurer's report, which was accepted and placed on file.

Under old business, Auxier reported that she and four members had met with the County Commissioners and that there had been no further communications concerning the construction of a microwave tower on W. 14th Street. Susan Sipple reported she had bought the paint for the painting project on the south side of the museum and discussed the glazing of the windows. Auxier reported that Gene Thompson from the State Surveyors Association and students plan to finish erecting the new historical marker at the Iron Monument on Aug. 9 and plan to present plaques to the those who completed Eagle Scout renovation projects at the Iron Monument site.

New business items included a discussion of a Christmas tree decorating fundraiser to replace the Christmas Tea, a reminder that the Waffle Man fundraiser would be held on Sept. 29 and the need to consolidate items in the ag building to create more open space for the event, the possible acquisition of the glass from Dr. Lenniman's upstairs office door, and the completion of a list of possible new members as well as phone reminders to current members who haven't paid dues. Auxier reported that a large group of graduate students and professors from Iowa State University will visit the ag building on Aug. 8.

The annual meeting of the Richardson County Historical Society will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 24 at the Historical Museum, 1401 Chase St.

Following the business meeting Bob Ferguson, long-time Missouri Pacific Railroad employee, will present the program, "Falls City Railroad." Refreshments will be served.

Eastview

Staying cool has not been a problem with our newly installed fans which work so well with the air conditioners. Our new lights also brighten up the apartments. We are excited and can hardly wait for the new kitchen cabinets.

Favorite activities are bingo, movies and popcorn. We have just kicked off our show and tell program with tenants sharing their items and telling the marvelous stories behind them. Linens, coins and woodworking, oh my! So many things we didn't know about each other. Nobody wants to miss out on our morning coffees with Marilyn's famous homemade breakfast items. Yum yum.

Of course our regularly scheduled activities include playing cards and games, monthly blood pressure clinic and monthly birthday party. Always a good time to celebrate life and living at East View where we can get daily meals, housekeeping, personal care assistance and medication monitoring all cheerfully provided by Lyons Quality Home Health Services. What a great staff and we look forward to their visits. Many opportunities are provided for uplifting our moods, including the Community Worship on Monday evenings, Spirit Lifters on Wednesday and Catholic Retreat on Thursday. Whew! After that we still have time to clip coupons for Mosaic and our veterans, save pop tabs for Ronald McDonald House and collect items for the local food pantry.

Now we need time to rest. No better place than our newly remodeled community room and sunroom addition with water feature. Library books, magazines and puzzles are always available for good reading and relaxation.

We are so thankful for the many gardeners in the community providing the fruits of their labors. We have enjoyed each and every item brought to the community room for all to share. The flowers also are a pleasant and welcome addition for our gathering places. We look forward to various programs presented by individuals and groups and always enjoy learning something new or hearing a favorite song.

As the summer draws to a close and fall is on the horizon we have already heard about plans for a homemade ice cream session and watermelon feed. Can't wait to test our seed spitting talents! Come by for a visit. We would love to share our activities with you.

Help for visually impaired at FC Library & Arts Center

The Falls City Library and Arts Center has received a generous donation of a Merlin LCD built by Enhanced Vision.

This full-color, auto-focus video magnifier system is designed to enhance the lifestyle of the visually impaired. It enables individuals with low vision to read books, newspapers and magazines, view photos, read mail and write checks. Color contrast options are available for optimum visibility.

Deb and Darlene Halterman and family donated the Merlin LCD to the library.

It is on display in the library lobby. Please help inform any visually impaired persons to visit the library for a demonstration.

The library also has an "Easy Reading Computer" with "ZoomText" software to enlarge the print on a website or document. A scanner is connected to the computer to scan a document and let the computer read it to you. Some other features are: Taking dictation; voice command; screen magnifier; and keystrokes to replace a mouse. The specialized software and computer are designed to assist individuals in the community.

The ADA desk, computer, scanner and software were received through a grant from the Nebraska Library Commission, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and BroadbandUSA.

Library hours are Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to noon.

Visit www.fallscitylibrary.org/ to view an online catalog and events schedule.

Rasmus Nurminen of Finland spent the 2012-13 school year with host parents Lonnie and Kim Goff of Falls City. Rasmus had a very successful year experiencing life in Nebraska, living with the Goff family and attending FCHS. If you are interested in hosting an EF exchange student, visit the website effoundation.org or contact Jean Kwiatkowski, local coordinator, at 402-688-4607 or 402-239-9630. 'Wall Hangings' exhibit opens at Peru St. College

The first exhibit of the 2013-14 season, "Wall Hangings" by Anna May Whittington, will run Aug. 19 through Sept. 19 in the Peru State College Art Gallery.

An opening reception for the artist will be held from 1-3 p.m. Sunday, Aug 25 in the Art Gallery, located on first floor of the A.V. Larson Building. The event is free and open to the public.

Whittington, a 96-year-old southeast Nebraska native, began what she refers to as her "creative period" in 1935, but has concentrated primarily on quilts and "wall hangings" for the past 50 years. Much of the materials she uses she denotes as recycled. Some of the fabrics used in her compositions are more than 100 years old.

Peru State Art Professor

Dr. Ken Anderson said, "Mrs. Whittington has an innate design sensibility in color as well as structure which the viewer will find very interesting, not only as a wall hanging or mini-quilt but also as a piece of art."

The public is invited to view Smith's exhibit during regular gallery hours, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday or by appointment.

For more information, contact Art Professor Ken Anderson at 402-872-2271 or via e-mail at kanderson@peru.edu

Deputy commended for 'grace under pressure'

Richards County Sheriff Randy Houser recently recognized Deputy Joshua Ninceheler with a certificate of commendation for exceptional performance of duty in a stressful and dangerous situation, which stemmed from a call Ninceheler responded to on the night of July 28.

"Performance such as this is characteristic of Deputy Ninceheler's grace under pressure and ability to calmly respond to high stress situations, which reflects great credit upon himself, the Richadson County Sheriff's Office and all law enforcement officers," Houser said. His performance under stress is a testament to his character, training and professional orientation.

"It is a great pleasure to recognize Deputy Ninceheler's superior performance of duty. Congratulations for a job well done."

Ninceheler responded to the possible drug overdose call at a residence in rural Richardson County and upon his arrival, he made contact with the subject, who had taken a large quantity of Xanax without a prescription. Several members of the subject's family were present and while ambulance squad personnel and paramedics attempted to assess their patient, the subject's 16-year-old sister approached from inside the residence with several kitchen knives raised, shouting, "I'll kill you all."

Ninceheler presented the Tazer at a distance of approximately eight feet and calmly issued a warning to the assailant to drop the knives or be tazed. When she complied, Ninceheler placed her in handcuffs, detained her in his patrol vehicle and directed the ambulance squad personnel to retreat to the roadway adjacent to the property due to verbal threats and interference from another mail sibling. Ninceheler radioed for assistance, but it would be another 13 minutes before the next deputy arrived.

Ninceheler placed the other belligerent sibling in handcuffs and seated him in a lawn chair while he contained the chaotic situation. He was able to keep the overdose subject under observation and communicated calmly with the three adult family members who were present, while receiving further verbal abuse from the detained male sibling, until assistance arrived and it was safe for ambulance squad personnel to return and resume patient care.

Governor, First Lady encourage parental inclusion in education

Gov. Dave Heineman and First Lady Sally Ganem are encouraging parents to be more involved in their children's education in order to increase a student's opportunity for educational success. Gov. Heineman has proclaimed August to be Parental Involvement in Education Month in Nebraska.

"It is important that as parents, we take every opportunity to get more actively involved in your child's learning," said Gov. Heineman. "Setting high expectations, meeting with teachers and taking an active interest in their educational achievements are some of the best ways to ensure that every student is on track to meet their educational goals. I hope more parents will take this opportunity to contact their children's schools to find out what resources exist to help them get more actively involved in their student's learning."

Countless studies and examples show that when parents are involved in their child's education, student attendance increases; student attitudes and accomplishments improve; and any previous discipline problems decrease. This generally holds true regardless of a family's socio-economic status, education level or cultural background. Working as partners, parents and schools can maximize strengths, develop strategies and reinforce each other's efforts to help children succeed in their education and in life.

The Governor and First Lady, today, highlighted the work of the Nebraska Community Learning Center Network who are engaged in promoting parental involvement throughout the state, as one example of ways communities and parents can work together to help students learn and grow.

The Nebraska Community Learning Center Network has several ongoing efforts encouraging parental involvement, including activities at this month's Nebraska State Fair in Grand Island. At the fair, teachers, parents and students can learn how the application of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, commonly referred to as STEM courses, make events like the state fair possible. STEM education opportunities will be located throughout the fair. STEM will also be featured at Nebraska's Largest Classroom, held at the fair on Aug. 26 and Aug. 27.

The Nebraska Community Learning Center Network is a statewide public-private partnership that supports sustainable, high-quality, school-community collaborations that provide youth with what they need to be successful in school and in life. The network is part of the Nebraska Children and Families Foundation, a non-profit that aims to build strong communities that support families so their children can grow up to be thriving, productive adults.

"Parents and teachers working together is an essential element in student learning and academic achievement," said First Lady Sally Ganem, a former elementary school teacher and principal. "Good teachers combined with strong parental involvement leads to good learning. We have seen firsthand the difference it can make in the life of a young Nebraskan."

The Nebraska Community Learning Center Network collaborations provide students access to areas of learning they may never experience, including hands-on STEM activities. Through the process, participants' exhibit increased school attendance, positive behavior and improved academic performance.

"Parent involvement remains one of the most important factors in helping ensure that all children succeed in school," said Jeff Cole, Vice President for School-Community Partnerships for Nebraska Children and Families Foundation. "We know, however, that the structure and hectic pace of family life today presents many challenges for parents to participate in traditional parent involvement activities at their children's schools. That is why Nebraska Children and Families Foundation believes it is vital for schools to work in collaboration with community groups to develop a new opportunities that enable all parents to get engaged in supporting their students education."

I just love turkey legs!

We're going to a fair - one set in a time when kings or queens ruled and there were knights and jousts! It was a time of new ideas, inventions and changes in the countries of Europe. It is called the Renaissance or "rebirth" period.

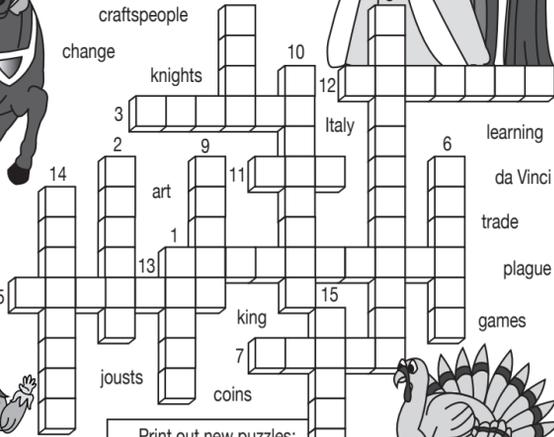

Read these clues that describe the idea behind an exciting fair called a 'Renaissance Faire':

- the Renaissance started in _____ and spread
- it was a period of time that covered about two hundred years and brought big _____
- just before it started, a terrible disease or _____ had swept through Europe and killed about half of all the people there
- many of the countries then were ruled by a _____ or queen
- _____ were men who were the leaders in the king's army; they wore armor and rode on horses in battles
- later, knights only fought on horseback in competitions or _____
- men started to sail or travel to other countries to explore and
- buying and selling goods brought _____ more work and money
- people switched from trading goods for other goods (bartering) or from using silver bars to using gold _____ for large purchases
- it was a time of questioning, thinking and _____
- _____, music and written works like poetry were encouraged
- a man named Leonardo _____ was an artist, scientist, musician, engineer
- math, science, technology, new medical ideas and _____ became important
- the invention of the _____ press let people share ideas widely and quickly
- your local Renaissance fair may have fun _____ like archery, or axe or star throwing

50 Years Ago
(Aug. 19-24, 1963)

Barricades were removed and traffic again was flowing on Harlan Street after 140 days of construction of Harlan Street from 13th to 19th. In celebration, Nixon's Grill, across from the Post Office, was advertising nine hamburgers or nine hot dogs for $1.

Thirty-six Omaha businessmen in a flotilla of 10 cruisers came down the Missouri River to meet with FC Chamber of Commerce members at Camp Rulo. It was a good will trip and after spending the night in FC, they went back up the river. At the event Chamber President Ken Gardner and Mayor Ralph Steinbrink were commissioned admirals in the Great Navy of Nebraska.

Only 34 rural schools in the county were opening their doors, down four from the previous year.

Sacred Heart became the central school for the five Catholic parishes in the county.

At the Rivoli Jane Fonda and Peter Finch were starring in "In the Cool of the Day."

The stork report: Twins sons Aug. 17 to Air Force Capt. and Mrs. Richard Riley, ex-Dawson; daughter Aug. 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parker, Humboldt; daughter Aug. 20 to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Koenig, FC; son Aug. 16 to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Horalek, Humboldt.

Bob Henderson was the head football coach at FCHS and his assistants were Ray Graves, Gary Bailey and Charles Hecht.

Airman 1st Class Ronald W. Speers, FC, was at Clark AFB in the Philippines.

George Pipal, ex-Humboldt, was the European business manager for the United Press.

This is why we call them "the good old days." James Oil had the low bid of 26.8 cents per gallon for 5,000 gallons of gas for the FC school district buses. A tax exemption certificate lowered it to 22.8 cents.

An item from the United Press:

Pratt, KS—State Democratic Chairman Jack Glaves said his fellow Democrats in Kansas should exchange the traditional donkey for a coyote. "All we Democrats have been doing," he said, "is sitting on our rear ends and howling at the moon."

25 Years Ago

The Army Corps of Engineers said the Missouri River was at its lowest stage since 1934.

A daughter was born Aug. 17 to Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hill, FC.

Fred and Pam Sikora had constructed a handsome, sizable lion as the Lions Club new mascot, replacing an old cardboard king. It took a bunch of nights of sewing for Pam.

UNL ROTC Cadet Martin E. Stokes, FC, had attended a six-week camp at Ft. Lewis, WA.

For the 9th year in a row Henry Hey shot his age, 84 (40-44), at the Country Club. The Journal story said one of Henry's playing partners shot the day's temperature, 104.

Keith Richey was the head football coach at FCHS. His assistants were Larry Munn and Tom Hinrichs.

The executive committee of the Journal's County Sports Hall of Fame included: Wayne Drake, Humboldt; Fred Schulze, Dawson; Leo Crook and Lowell Lewis, FC; and Dean James and Wayne Shafer, Stella. Sports Editor Del Sutherland was the honcho.

15 Years Ago

The FC Rural Firemen celebrated their 50th anniversary. The department was formed in 1947 with Tom Aitken Sr. as temporary chairman and John Lichty temporary secretary. Ken Arnold was the current fire chief and had been for the past 11 years.

Approximately 225 kids entered the fishing contest at Stanton Lake sponsored by the FC Volunteer Fire Department with Jerry Clark as chairman. Jerry said the kids downed 800 hot dogs, 500 ice cream cones and 70 gallons of pop.

After a number of years of coaxing by two exchange students they had hosted, Marlin and Lois Peck, FC, flew to Finland and Sweden to visit them and got royal treatment. Both of the exchange students had graduated from FCHS.

An open house was held at Snap Shot Photography in Shubert.

Mr. and Mrs. Sean Hayworth, FC, were parents of a son born Aug. 4.

The planning committee for the reunion of District 54 (Pig Hill) School included Alma Ruth Weinert Meyer, Mary Lee Stock Weinert and Violet Kottich Heim.

There were 79 vendors at Cobblestone.

Reunion

Bagpipe concert Aug. 24

Pipers and drummers from St. Joseph, MO, will entertain parade watchers from 10:15 a.m. until the beginning of the parade. They will be on the balcony of the church and the sound will carry about two blocks. The church will be open before the concert so people can use the ramp on the east side of the building to easily access the balcony. Chairs, umbrellas and free bottled water will be available during the concert and parade.

Anyone is welcome to join the parade watchers on the balcony.

The musicians are part of the Buchanan Highlanders formed in 1991 and sponsored by the Wyatt Park Christian Church. They perform as a group and individually at church and civic gatherings, parades, on Memorial Day and Veterans Day ceremonies, weddings and funerals. BEWARE: SOUTHERN RUST

Nebraska corn growers should be scouting their fields for southern rust, especially those fields planted later this spring and in southern Nebraska counties.

Southern rust was confirmed in samples submitted to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and private laboratories from 11 counties in south central and southeastern Nebraska with more expected, said Tamra Jackson-Ziems, UNL Extension plant pathologist. As of Thursday, there had been confirmed cases in Pawnee County, but not yet Richardson, Nemaha or Johnson.

"These samples were from fields that had low incidence of disease at this time," she said. "Warm temperatures and high humidity may promote development and spread of the disease."

Rust diseases produce large amounts of spores that can be easily moved by wind for long distances. Having a history of southern rust in corn does not have any impact on disease development now, because this pathogen does not overwinter in infected residue, Jackson-Ziems said.

"The spores must be carried into the area from southern or western locations by winds from diseased areas," she said. "At this time, southern rust has not been confirmed in either Kansas or Missouri corn fields. If the disease continues to spread and worsen in Nebraska, those fields planted later are especially at higher risk for disease and potentially severe yield impacts."

Jackson-Ziems said the best way to keep track of southern rust is to monitor reports from local university plant pathologists, diagnostic laboratories and county Extension offices. Crop disease information in Nebraska is updated on CropWatch, UNL Extension's crop production newsletter at cropwatch.unl.edu.

The characteristics used for differentiating between common rust and southern rust are described and illustrated in the NebGuide, Rust Diseases of Corn in Nebraska, available from local UNL Extension offices and online at <http://www.ianrpubs.unl.edu/sendIt/g1680.pdf>

The simplest and most reliable way to differentiate the diseases without a microscope is to examine both leaf surfaces for spore production. Southern rust spore production is mostly limited to the upper leaf surface and tends to be tan/orange in color.

The most reliable method for identifying corn rust diseases is based on examination of microscopic spore characteristics. Anyone needing assistance identifying diseases or other plant problems can submit samples to the UNL Plant & Pest Diagnostic Clinic, 448 Plant Science Hall, Lincoln, NE 68583-0722. For more information on how to submit a sample or for the submission form, call 402-472-2559 or visit <http://pdc.unl.edu/diagnosticclinics/plantandpest>.

Other diseases that have been identified across Nebraska include:

- Common rust - This rust has been evident across Nebraska for several weeks. Common rust spores are usually brick-red to brown in color; however, the color difference is not a reliable method for identification when both are not available for comparison and because the spore type can change and turn black later in the season for both diseases.

- Goss's bacterial wilt and blight - Goss's wilt continues to be confirmed in samples submitted from across the state. Be sure the disease has been identified before making a fungicide application since Goss's wilt and other diseases also are present right now and can't be directly managed with foliar fungicide applications. Goss's wilt will likely increase after the recent severe storms that have damaged crops.

- Physoderma brown spot - Another disease that has begun to develop in Nebraska corn fields is physoderma brown spot. This disease is normally not a concern, except in rare cases, such as on susceptible hybrids exposed to wet conditions, but the lesions are sometimes mistaken for southern rust.

For more information about these diseases, visit CropWatch, UNL Extension's crop production newsletter, at <http://cropwatch.unl.edu/web/cropwatch/archive?articleID=5356355>

Scholarships

Wade Witt, 2013 graduate of Falls City High School and a Peru State College freshman, has been awarded the Tom Zimmerman Memorial Scholarship, given annually to a local student who was active in Falls City Recreation baseball or softball.

The $500 scholarship is given in memory of Tom Zimmerman, a standout high school and college baseball pitcher who later coached Falls City Recreation and American Legion baseball teams in Falls City. The scholarship was founded by and is directed by Rick Lemerond.

Wade, the son of Rich and Susan Witt, of Salem, plans to play baseball for the Bobcats.

At FC High, he excelled at football, basketball and golf for the Tigers. He was a four-year letterwinner in golf and earned three letters each in the other sports. Wade was a team captain in both football and basketball.

Witt graduated 10th out of the 74-member FCHS Class of 2013 and was a member of the National Honor Society. He earned NCPA Academic All-State in Golf and made the honor roll throughout high school.

He was active in Falls City Recreation, coaching and officiating flag football in the fall. Witt was also an official for summer baseball and softball, as well as for soccer in the spring.

Breath testing units to FC Police Department

LINCOLN — The Falls City Police Department has received three hand-held alcohol breath-testing units through a traffic safety grant award.

The units, valued at $285 each, were provided by the Nebraska Office of Highway Safety as part of the state's ongoing effort to prevent underage drinking and alcohol-related traffic crashes, injuries and fatalities.

According to Highway Safety Administrator Fred Zwonechek, "The Falls City Police Department was awarded the new instruments to assist their personnel in identifying potential minor in possession, minor .02 driving and driving under the influence violators." The portable units display a digital reading of the blood alcohol level from a suspect's breath sample.

"These instruments provide the latest technology in preliminary breath testing," Zwonechek said.

Borg, Dunn claim club championships

At the annual Falls City Ladies Golf Association's club tournament this past weekend, Joyce Borg and Mary Jo Huettner swept the field to reign as club champion and handicap champion, respectively.

In the battle for the scratch club championship, Joyce and perennial contender Linda Jones were tied after the first day, with scratch scores of 94. On day two, Joyce then pulled ahead by four strokes on the front nine, with a 44 to Linda's 48. Linda wasn't taking that lying down, though. She fought hard on the back nine, and came in with a 41. But when all was said and done, Joyce finished with a 43, was two strokes ahead for a gross score of 181, to Linda's 183. Joyce was then declared the 2013 ladies club champion.

The rest of the tourney was all determined by handicap scores, and the tourney was practically over after the first day when newcomer Mary Jo Huettner shot 55 on the front nine and 52 on the back, with an eighteen-hole handicap of 42. Her net score of 65 was thirteen strokes ahead of the next-lowest competitor, Lynne Davis, who finished day one with a very respectable net of 78.

On day two, nobody could touch Mary Jo. She came into the clubhouse with a 59-53 for a net score of 70, and finished the tournament with a 135. The next lowest score was Joyce Borg's, and she had a net of 153. Mary Jo reigned supreme. The winners were presented with checks, and gifts from the Ladies Club Association.

There were two flights in the tournament, and each flight paid three places. The flight winners and their net scores were as follows: Championship flight, 1st, Linda Jones, 155; 2nd, Sue Harmon, 160; 3rd, Pat Rieschick, 163. First flight: 1st, Mary Jo Huettner, 135; 2nd, Gail Froeschl, 159; 3rd, Nancy Kelley, 168.

The tournament was run by Ladies Golf Association members Sue Harmon, Lynne

Men's Club Championship

Joe Dunn's premonition came true Sunday afternoon as he avoided the "big" numbers and carded 22 fours en route to his first Falls City Golf Club club championship over the weekend.

Dunn snaked in an 18-foot par putt on the final hole to card his second score of 72. He said later that he thought he had to make the putt to beat Bill Simon, who posted the round of the tournament on Sunday with a 71.

It turned out Dunn already led Bill by one stroke prior to sinking his putt on the 36th hole, but the exclamation point was more than welcomed.

"On the way out to the course today, I had a feeling I was going to have to make a long putt for par on the last hole to win it," said Dunn. "I said a little prayer to my dad and asked him to help me out if it happened. It was a great feeling."

Dunn, who played alongside Steve Simon, Jeremy Kirkendall and Rob Gerweck in the final group Sunday afternoon, birdied holes eight and nine to bounce back from his only double bogey of the weekend, which came on the par-3 seventh. The back-to-back birdies got him in with an even par 35 and kept him just one back from Simon, who made the turn at 1-under-par 34.

The two entered Sunday's 18 tied.

Holes 10, 11 and 12 proved to be the difference in the two rounds, as Dunn played the stretch one under par while Simon made double bogies on 11 and 12. Simon came in with a score of 41 compared to Dunn's 37.

Bill Simon's net total of 126

(65-61) earned him the handicap championship and the two-day and Sunday payouts in the First Flight.

Marty Froeschl finished first in the Sunday portion of the Championship Flight with a net-67 and second in the two-day event with a net-138. Steve Simon was third in the two-day portion with a 139.

Dunn and Erik McNeely finished second and third, respectively, in the Sunday portion with net scores of 68 and 70.

Tony Brunette and Bob Aitken swept second and third place in the First Flight in both the two-day and Sunday events. Brunette netted 76-63—139, while Aitken posted 75-69—144.

Matt Froeschl swept the Second Flight with a solid round of 82 Sunday, which netted him a 62. After his net-68 Saturday, Froeschl's two-day total of 130 was five strokes better than Charlie Radatz, who netted 68-67—135. Harry Kirkendall took third with a two-day total of 136 and Mike Gilmore's 137 finished in fourth place. Radatz and Bobby Lock finished tied for second in the Sunday tourney, while Gilmore and Kirken-

Bobcats preseason sixth in HAAC

Defending Heart of America Athletic Conference champion and NAIA Football Championship Series semifinalist Missouri Valley received eight of 10 first place votes to sit atop the 2013 HAAC Preseason Coaches' Poll, released at the annual Media Day festivities at the NAIA national office.

The Vikings took 80 of the possible 81 voting points to finish 10 points ahead of runner-up MidAmerica Nazarene, which received the remaining two first-place votes as well as four second-place tallies. The two teams will meet in Marshall on Sept. 21 in a matchup between the two teams that have won at least a share of five of the past seven conference crowns.

Peru State began the second half of the poll by being voted into sixth position with 40 points while Graceland took 29 points for seventh position. Avila (25 points), Central Methodist (22) and Culver-Stockton (10) finished out the last three positions. Last year the Bobcats were projected to finish eighth in the preseason poll and finished seventh.

Representing Peru State along with Bobcat head coach Steve Schneider were seniors Lance Steffen (Murdock) and Zach Lempka (Sterling). Coach Schneider addressed the loss of the team's top rusher noting that two players, Ethan Bray (Liberal, Mo.) and Adam Neels (Elmwood), handle the duties during spring ball.

Schneider also was questioned about the renovation of the Oak Bowl and its impact on recruiting. He said, "It has had some impact already, but once it is completely done it should have a bigger role as the future recruits and their families will get to see the product. I do want to thank our administration, the system office, and many others in support of the project."

Steffen fielded the first question which was regarding how he plans to step up into a leadership role since he will be a four-year starter. Steffen stated, "On the field, being a four-year starter, people respect that. In addition, both Zach and I have been members of the Student Athlete Advisory Council (SAAC) for the past three years, so we have had leadership roles with the football team during this time. Also, both of us have been Bobcat Elite team leaders which have given us the role of making sure our team members gain accountability skills and leadership qualities."

Lempka's question dealt with how his responsibility would change in leading the defense after the loss of a top leader for the past several years on defense. Lempka noted, "I want to take a lot of things Preston Bruss (two-time HAAC First Team from Bennet) did on and off the field to lead the team, so I plan to emulate a lot of those same qualities."

The 2013 season kicks off on Saturday, Aug. 31, with three HAAC teams opening their respective seasons. Benedictine will host Briar Cliff (Iowa) and Peru State welcomes Dakota State (S.D.) while Culver-Stockton opens with a visit to Lindenwood-Belleville (Ill.). All 10 teams will hit the road for the inaugural HAAC-KCAC Football Series on Saturday, Sept. 14, with each team taking on the KCAC team that finished in the same position in the 2012 standings at the KCAC site.

Five HAAC teams are ranked in the Top 25 in the NAIA Football Coaches' Preseason Top 25 Poll.

All five teams – Missouri Valley College, MidAmerica Nazarene University, Baker, Evangel, and Benedictine – are on the Peru State Bobcats' schedule for the 2013 season.

The Bobcats will face Benedictine on Sept. 28 in Auburn, MidAmerica Nazarene at Oct. 12 in Olathe, KS, Missouri Valley on Nov. 2 in the Oak Bowl, Evangel on Nov. 9 in the Oak Bowl, and will finish the regular season with Baker on Nov. 16 in Baldwin City, KS.

Schneider noted that the conference was one of the best in the NAIA.

"We know in the HAAC we will have a tough opponent every time we hit the playing field, whether it is those teams in the preseason rankings, or our other HAAC competitors," Schneider said. "In addition, we know that Dakota State will be improved and that Southwestern will be looking for a win in the HAAC/KCAC crossover game. So, our guys will have to be ready each and every Saturday of the football season."

In addition, Schneider added, "Having three of the five preseason rated teams at home, which includes the Benedictine game in Auburn, should provide for some additional support from our fans. At present, the Nov. 2 game with Missouri Valley is scheduled to be the first game in the "new" Oak Bowl and also Homecoming, so we would anticipate a huge crowd for it. Plus, the game the following week with Evangel will be Senior Day and I know our seniors do not plan to disappoint their families, friends, and the Bobcat nation."

National runner-up Morningside (Iowa) begins the 2013 season as the No. 1-ranked team in the 2013 NAIA Football Coaches' Preseason Top 25 Poll, the national office announced Monday. Morningside, who tallied 280 points despite receiving just four first-place votes, finished the 2012 season with a program-best 13-1 record.

The Mustangs, led by 2012 AFCA Coach of the Year, Steve Ryan, are predicted to win their third-straight Great Plains Athletic Conference title. Wide receivers Kyle Schuck and Travis Hantleman, and the backfield tandem of Josh Gaedke and Joel McCabe, headline a Morningside offense that returns nine starters from a year ago.

Defending national champion Marian (Ind.), who handed Morningside its only loss in the 57th annual Russell Athletic-NAIA Football National Championship, collected eight first-place votes and 267 points to earn a share of the No. 2 position. National semifinalist Missouri Valley shares the No. 2 ranking with Marian after receiving the remaining first-place vote and 267 points. Marian has now been ranked among the top five teams for 26-straight polls, dating back to Poll 1 of the 2011 season.

National semifinalist Saint Xavier (Ill.) and St. Francis (Ind.) round out the Top 5 with 260 and 239 points, respectively.

The HAAC—Missouri Valley, No. 10 MidAmerica Nazarene (Kan.), No. 15 Baker (Kan.), No. 22 Evangel (Mo.), and No. 24 Benedictine (Kan.) has the most teams in the preseason poll with five teams making the list. The Mid-State Football Association Midwest— Saint Xavier, No. 11 St. Ambrose (Iowa), No. 16 William Penn (Iowa) and No. 19 Grand View (Iowa)boasts four teams.

There was significant movement in the poll with No. 12 Carroll (Mont.) making the biggest improvement—a six-spot jump. No. 14 Southern Oregon fell the furthest, dropping nine positions after being ranked No. 5 in the Spring 2013 Poll.

No. 21 Belhaven (Miss.) of the Mid-South Conference West and No. 23 Langston (Okla.) of the Central States Football League were newcomers to the poll, replacing Valley City State (N.D.) and Robert Morris (Ill.) who both dropped out of the top 25. Belhaven was last ranked in Poll 4 of the 2004 season and Langston was last ranked in 2012 Preseason Poll.

The first regular season Top 25 Poll will be announced Sept. 16.

The poll was voted upon by a panel of head coaches representing each of the conferences and Independents. For the entire 2013 Coaches' Top 25 Poll schedule, click here.

Wesleyan fourth in preseason GPAC poll

The Nebraska Wesleyan University football team was picked to finish fourth in the 2013 preseason GPAC Coaches' poll that was recently released. All 10 coaches voted in the poll at the 14th Annual GPAC Media Day that was held at the Sioux City Convention Center in Sioux City, Iowa. For the second consecutive season, a media poll was selected by the GPAC media members and NWU was picked to finish fourth.

The Prairie Wolves received 52 total points for fourth place. Morningside College received 80 points and eight first place votes to earn the top spot in the GPAC Coaches poll, while Northwestern College had 72 points and one first place vote for second place. Doane had the other first place vote with 61 points for third.

Nebraska Wesleyan posted a 6-4 overall record during the 2012 season, winning five straight games to end the year. The Prairie Wolves are expected to return 17 starters and 44 letterwinners from last year's squad.

Former Falls City High standouts and brothers, Michael and Cord Huettner, will play on the defensive side of the ball this season. Michael, a 2010 FCHS graduate, is entering his senior season for the Prairie Wolves. He was named to the First-Team of the 2012 Capital One Academic All-America College Division Football Team, after carrying a 3.95 GPA in accounting while starting all ten games for the 6-4 Prairie Wolves.

Michael's younger brother Cord left FCHS as the career rushing leader with 2,403 yards, but will play linebacker at NWU.

NWU players reported to fall camp on Aug. 14 and began practice on Aug. 15. The Prairie Wolves will open the 2013 season on Sept. 7 when they host Tabor College.

Cottonwood trees threatened

Early settlers and Native Americans in Nebraska used the eastern cottonwood tree for firewood, landmarks and construction materials. Even today, cottonwood is by far the most harvested and processed timber tree species in the state. But that could all change if the tree continues to decline in population, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension forester said.

The eastern cottonwood (Populus deltoides) has been Nebraska's state tree since 1972. It is a native, fast-growing, relatively short-lived tree, dependent on bare soil and good soil moisture reproduce. It is most often found in riparian areas along rivers and streams, often in pure, even-aged stands.

Nebraska's cottonwood resource is threatened because of four factors, Nebraska Forest Service/ UNL Extension forester Dennis Adams said. Flood control, land conversion, livestock grazing and herbicide damage are all causing a decrease in cottonwood population.

"Cottonwood requires bare mineral soil to regenerate," Adams said. "It was prolific in the past due to the periodic flooding that occurred along the state's rivers and streams."

Historically, flooding was a common occurrence along the Republican, Platte, Blue, Elkhorn, Missouri and many other rivers and streams in Nebraska. Since the 1950s, extensive stream channelization and numerous flood control structures have affected the natural stream flow in the state's major rivers and smaller tributaries. Occasional flooding still occurs, but not nearly as extensively as in the past, Adams said. While dams and channelization has enabled many additional uses of previously flooded riparian bottomlands, it has reduced the ability of cottonwood to regenerate.

"There's not much we can do about cottonwood loss due to flood control because we aren't going to take the dams out," Adams said.

Adams said it is projected that cottonwood will continue to decrease in both area and number of trees in the future.

"Primarily a result of flood control efforts, the average size and age of our cottonwood trees have increased," Adams said. "Recent forest inventory data indicates that our mature cottonwood stands have virtually no cottonwood regeneration, but are being encroached upon and replaced by other tree and shrub species, often undesirable species like eastern red cedar or Russian olive."

Adams said that one way to help bring back the cottonwood population aside from planting new trees is to allow natural regeneration in riparian areas that may now be in marginal crop land.

Adams also said that farmers should be careful when using herbicides, particularly aerially applied, on adjacent crops and pastures. Herbicide drift can damage cottonwoods, causing leaves to drop or curl, slowing growth and causing dieback of branches. In extreme cases herbicide drift can kill trees.

"If farmers spray when it is too windy or too hot the herbicide can drift or volatilize and can cause damage to adjacent forest land," Adams said.

Adams said that the cottonwood provides important habitat for many small mammals and birds, including squirrels, raccoons, bald eagles and great blue herons.

"For cottonwood to continue to be a significant forest resource in the future, intervention by us may be necessary to regenerate this historic forest resource, not only for wood products, but for the important wildlife habitat, watershed protection and other environmental benefits cottonwood forests provide," Adams said.

Area youngsters excel at youth basketball camp

Several area youth athletes recently participated in the Mike Trader Mid-America Basketball Camp and many were honored with awards for their efforts. Camps were held throughout the summer for boys and girls, ages 7-18, and campers were split into the five different leagues according to age: Major, Red, White, Minor and Midget.

Humboldt-TR-S' Cameron Binder, who participated in the Boys Minor League, took home the most hardware of any area athlete. Binder was named the Most Valuable Camper of the Boys Minor League and selected to the all-start team. Cameron was the 1-on-1 champion in the center position category, free throw champion and jump shot champion. He was also the weekly scoring leader in the Minor League.

Falls City Middle School

student Rudy Vrtiska was named the Most Valuable Camper in the Boys White League, as well as an all-star selection. Vrtiska led all White League players in scoring for the week. Vrtiska and fellow FCMS student Noah Milam were also honored as nightly rebound leaders.

Falls City Sacred Heart junior high student Randee Witt, of Salem, was voted onto the Girls Red League All-Star team, as she led the team in rebounding. Witt also took home the Girls Minor League Forward award.

HTRS student Allie Binder, of Table Rock, joined Randee team on the Girls Red League All-Star team.

HTRS students Ryan Binder and Maverick Binder were also had very successful camps. Ryan, who participated in two camps, was named to both the Minor and Midget League all-star teams. He took home the Midget Hustle Award and was a nightly scoring leader. Ryan, Dane Storer, of Sutherland, and Ryan Smith, of Lincoln, took home the 3-on-3 championship in the Midget League.

Maverick earned the Midget League 1-on-1 championship in the forward position category and was named to the all-star team.

Concussion course hits one million mark

One million concussion courses have now been taken by coaches and other individuals since the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) developed the online course in May 2010.

Earlier this week, the millionth "Concussion in Sports - What You Need to Know" course was taken through the NFHS Coach Education Program at www.nfhslearn.com. This free online course provides an overview of how a person can recognize signs and symptoms of a concussion and the appropriate action to take. The course includes each state's return-to-play guidelines required for high schools.

"We place great emphasis on concussion recognition and treatment, and the extraordinary success of our online course has been gratifying," said Bob Gardner, NFHS executive director. "The course is 20 minutes long and it's free. We commend everyone who has taken it."

The NFHS and its Sports Medicine Advisory Committee (SMAC) have worked with the CDC on recent updates to the concussion course. Recommendations have been added regarding the prevention of concussions, and the course test has been updated. The tests (pre-test and post-test) now include 11 questions and provide immediate feedback to the user, thereby creating a better learning experience.

Michael Koester, M.D., former chair of the NFHS SMAC and director of the Sports Concussion Program at the Slocum Center for Orthopedics and Sports Medicine in Eugene, Oregon, is the on-screen host of the concussion course. Individuals have access to the course's printable resources, including a parent's guide to concussion in sports, a coach's guide, an athlete fact sheet and materials to implement a protocol for concussion treatment.

"In addition to coaches, we are pleased that many contest officials, administrators, parents and students are among the one million individuals who have taken the concussion course," said Tim Flannery, NFHS director of coach education.

The NFHS has been a leader among national sports organizations in establishing guidelines to deal with concussions. In 2008, the SMAC advocated that a concussed athlete must be removed from play and not allowed to play on the same day. For the past four years, all NFHS rules publications have contained guidelines for the management of a student exhibiting signs, symptoms or behaviors consistent with a concussion.

A total of 34 online courses are now offered through the NFHS Coach Education Program, including the two core courses - "Fundamentals of Coaching" and "First Aid, Health and Safety for Coaches." The NFHS also offers 14 sport-specific courses and 18 elective courses, including 13 that are free.

Check pastures and non-cropland for sericea lespedeza, other invasive weeds

By Gary Lesoing

While pasture conditions are much better in 2013 compared to 2012 when most of the region was hit with severe drought, pastures still may be affected from last year. It is important to keep a watchful eye out for invasive weeds in your pasture such as Sericea lespedeza or other invasive weeds. The past several years we have had informational meeting about the invasive weed Sericea lespedeza. Now is a time you need to check pastures and non-crop areas to see if it is present. If it is present, it should be treated with a herbicide. If you have harvested hay off CRP or pasture that had Sericea lespedeza, use caution when feeding it. Try to feed hay in a confined lot or on cropland to reduce the spread of seed. If you haul manure from this lot, use the manure on cropland rather than pasture. Sericea lespedeza is much easier to control on cropland than pasture.

People have done an excellent job of identifying and treating it in southeast Nebraska, so we can keep it under control before it gets a foothold and becomes a huge problem here. Even if you have not had a problem with it previously, it may have spread to your farm. Sericea lespedeza spreads as birds and other animals spread the seed. Sericea lespedeza can grow as tall as 4' under good growing conditions. It is a coarse plant with a dense growth of leaves along its stems and branches. In the vegetative stage cattle will eat it, but as it matures it becomes unpalatable to cattle because of high tannin content. It is a very prolific seed producer as well. It is extremely competitive and it can crowd out desirable grasses and forbs.

If you have a weed growing on your property that you don't know what it is and think it may be Sericea lespedeza, bring it into the Nemaha County Extension office so we can positively identify it. In early summer PastureGard or Remedy, both of which contain the active ingredient triclopyr, are recommended for control. This time of year and in the fall, products that contain the active ingredient metsulfuron are the most effective. For rangeland, the University of Nebraska recommends Cimarron Plus or Escort.

Another weed which seems to be showing up more, especially in non-crop areas is Johnsongrass. I have seen it along roadsides and along the edges of fields and pastures. Johnsongrass is usually easy to control with glyphosate or one of several a grass herbicides. Fall is also a good time to control musk thistle. If you have had problems with this noxious weed in the past, you may want to check these previously infested areas. It is much easier to control musk thistles when they are young seedlings in the rosette stage than in the spring when they start to bolt. The 2013 Guide on Weed Management (UNL Extension publication EC130) provides several options for control of these weeds. If you have questions about these weeds or any weeds you are unfamiliar with, feel free to contact the Extension office in Nemaha County at (402) 274-4755.

Swine disease affecting bacon prices nationwide

LINCOLN — A devastating swine disease new to the United States hasn't shown up in Nebraska yet, but it's already forcing bacon prices nationwide to new highs.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Veterinary Diagnostic Center stands ready to test piglets for the Porcine Epidemic Diarrhea virus, said Dr. Bruce Brodersen, assistant professor in the center and the School of Veterinary Medicine and Biological Sciences.

Porcine Epidemic Diarrhea -- PED for short -- has been around since at least the 1970s but first showed up in the U.S. this summer.

"Since the swine population has never been exposed before to this virus, they're very susceptible," Brodersen said. "The disease outbreaks are very severe because there's no immunity to it at all. So, it's been devastating as far as pig mortality is concerned."

Brodersen said he expects PED to turn up in Nebraska eventually, but swine producers can take steps to avoid it coming to their facilities.

Surveys show PED may be spread when trucks gather anywhere there are common loading and unloading chutes such as buying stations. From those common areas, the virus can be tracked back to individual operations. Brodersen urged producers to be very careful to clean their trailer or truck before they go home.

"You should always follow very strict biosecurity steps," he said. No vaccine is available in the U.S. yet.

Piglets infected with PED experience diarrhea and vomiting violent enough to kill them. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has confirmed only about 400 cases of the disease in the lab, but its toll has already been estimated in the hundreds of thousands.

As a result, pork price futures have risen to historic levels, with hundredweights of pork going for about $105 in recent trading at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The USDA reports that the same amount of pork went for $78 in March.

Fox Business News reported that the prices for pork bellies, which are cured into bacon, have risen particularly fast. On Tuesday, the wholesale price of a hundred pounds of fresh pork belly topped $189, 5 percent more than it was five days earlier and apparently at or near all-time highs.

Retail prices for bacon don't track one-to-one with belly prices, Fox Business News reported, but they also have risen. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated the price of a pound of bacon in urban supermarkets at $4.92 in June -- up 14 percent from June 2012 and another all-time high.

Girl Scouts recruitment event in Humboldt Aug. 24

Girl Scouts Spirit of Nebraska will hold Girl Scouts Recruitment Events for Humboldt and Pawnee City area girls Saturday, Aug. 24.

Local girls and their families are invited to come, make new friends and sign up for Girl Scouts.

— Humboldt, Bruun Memorial Library, 730 3rd St., 10:15-11 a.m.

— Pawnee City, Pawnee City Public Library, 735 8th St., 11:45 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

Girl Scouts is available to all girls, grades K-12, and can be customized to complement all the activities in their lives. As girls get older there are several ways to enjoy Girl Scouting. These options are called "pathways" and girls can choose one, some or all of these to fit their lives. Younger girls begin their Girl Scout experience in troops and then progress to the pathways which are: Camp, events, series, travel, troops and virtual. These pathways make their Girl Scout experience flexible and easy to incorporate into their other activities. Regardless of their schedule, there is time to do it all.

"Our kids are only young once, and scouting is something we can do together," said Monica Gissler, Gretna Girl Scout leader. "I love it when the girls learn something new."

Girl Scouts is a value-based organization that helps girls build strong interpersonal skills, independence, leadership and a sense of responsibility.

A Project Committee review will be scheduled later this fall to allow for the committee to complete an on-site review of the completed projects and begin planning for future facility and grounds requirements.

2.4c School Improvement & District Goals:

1) The quality of teachers and principals is key to all learning that takes place at any school. Falls City Public Schools is one of 17 school districts working with the Nebraska Department of Education to develop model evaluations based on the framework for effective instruction. During this pilot year, we're preparing to undertake the challenge to work through the process for implementation. The goal of the new evaluation model is to ultimately improve the instructional process for our entire staff, both teachers and principals, which will result in higher achievement for our students. Much work lies ahead and be assured our number one goal is to provide support and professional development in order to assure a successful transition over the next few years.

2) Content testing for teachers and administrators: - May 2013 - NDE proposal to State Board of Ed. for approval - June 2013 - Recommendation finalized and NDE Rule update - Sept. 1, 2014 - All first-time applicants for selected endorsements and certificates will be required to take content area tests. - Sept. 1, 2015 - All first-time applicants for selected endorsements will be required to take content area tests and meet Nebraska's established passing scores.

- This will replace the PPST exam. 3) All school districts should and need to have a clear, focused plan on improving student learning. This requires providing a full, rich curriculum, for every student, supports for teachers such as professional development and collaboration time, and an alignment of expectations from board members, administrators, and teachers. The Continuous School Improvement Committee and the district's Data teams have worked tirelessly over the past couple years to get us to this point. Now, during the 2013-2014 school year, the improvement plan will begin the implementation phase at all our buildings. This collaborative effort will make us a better school, for students, and educators.

4) The Falls City Public Schools will be taking steps to accomplishing a major district goal during 2013-2014, with the implementation of the 1:1 iPad Learning Initiative at Falls City High. Our high school students will be given the opportunity to become more information literate through the daily instruction and exposure to the technology of 1:1 iPads. In modeling the priorities of our district mission statement, our students will utilize this new learning tool to develop a strong ability to collaborate, communicate, and solve problems to better prepare themselves for college and a career.

5) LB 190 resulted in a General Fund appropriation to make more dollars available for funding high quality early childhood programs serving at-risk infants, toddlers, and their families. As a result, FCPS will have the opportunity to apply for grant funding (Sixpence), and offer the kinds of high quality early learning services that are closing the achievement gaps in Nebraska. Letters of intent to apply are due by August 30. The grants require matching funds that include an in-kind match of dollars already funding early childhood services within the district.

6) FCPS has once again qualified as a 2013 Monsanto America Farmers Grow Rural Education finalist. Our grant application was reviewed by a panel of educators and selected as one of the strongest submissions in Nebraska. The grant program submitted by FCPS focuses on a partnership with the UNL Extension School Enrichment Program and provides a complete classroom set of iPad's for both North and South School. A digital learning curriculum that is math, science, and ag-based is the heart of the grant project. Grant awards will be selected in late August.

2.4d Policy Planning: Policy subject areas on final reading: 1) 6112 Teacher/Educational Specialist Evaluation Policy; 2) 6118 Principal Evaluation Policy

2.4e Budget Workshop: The budget workshop is set for Monday, August 26th at 6:00 p.m. in the Central Office.

2.4f Negotiations Planning: LB 397 significantly changed the Industrial Relations Act and moved up the negotiations timetable. As I mentioned earlier, NCSA and NASB have moved the annual Labor Relations Conference to September to coincide with the new negotiations timeline. As a review of the timetable:

- September 1 - Teachers association requests recognition as exclusive bargaining agent.
- October 1 - Board must respond to request.
- November 1 - Negotiations must begin.
- February 8 - If there is no agreement, parties must submit to resolution officer.
- March 25 (or within 25 days of state aid certification) - Negotiations, fact-finding, and mediation must end.
- September 15 - CIR must issue its decision.

The Summer Food Service Program in Falls City, locally known as the "Free Summer Lunch Program, served its last meals for this season on July 31 at its lunch site in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 20th & Towle Sts. The program served meals over the lunch hour on every weekday in June and July, with the exception of the Fourth of July. This summer, 1,103 meals were served to children ages 2-18. This is the second highest number of meals recorded since the program's inception in 2005. In 2009, 1,126 meals were served. Under the leadership of site coordinator, Cathy Judd, this year's program included fun and educational components, including special speakers. Fire Chief Kenny Simpson spoke on fire safety; Roger Lampe (top, left), from the Falls City Aquatic Park and accompanied by lifeguard Krystal Samqua (top, right), spoke on water safety, and police officer Jason Wason, of the FCPD, spoke on bicycle safety during the course of the program. Drawings for donated prizes were held each lunch hour for the children present that day. Prizes were donated by local businesses: Sonic Drive-In, Pizza Hut, FC Aquatic Park, Runza, Farm and City Supply, Bec's Chair for Hair and Casey's, all of Falls City, as well as T-Rex (Kansas City) and Oriental Trading Company (Omaha). The program could not serve homemade items as part of its daily menus, but it could, and did, offer them as an addition to meals. "Therefore, the program, and the children, were very thankful to everyone who donated homemade cup cakes, cookies and muffins," Rev. Larry Parrish, of the FC Area Ministerial Association, said.

"The 'Free Summer Lunch Program,' is funded by the U.S. Dept. of Ag, and administered by the Nebraska State Board of Education. The Falls City program is sponsored by the FC Area Ministerial Association, and is only one of two SFSP programs in the state that is not sponsored by a school district.

Husker High School expanding

University of Nebraska President James B. Milliken announced earlier this month that NU is launching a second phase of its highly successful Nebraska Virtual Scholars program. The program, initiated in 2011, will expand access to online courses to more high school students in the state and create opportunities for the university to work with school administrators – particularly those in rural Nebraska – to identify challenges that could be addressed through online education.

This year the Virtual Scholars program will provide 100 scholarships to Nebraska high schools for students to take courses from the University of Nebraska High School for free. Formerly known as the Independent Study High School, the NU High School is a university-wide initiative that, in line with the goals of the state's P-16 Initiative, is expanding access to education to more students who face barriers with traditional paths to degrees. The high school is especially focused on supplementing the education of Nebraska students by providing STEM, Advanced Placement, foreign language and other courses not offered at their schools.

Schools must apply on behalf of their students in order to be considered for the scholarships. Applications are available here and will be accepted until Sept. 13, with recipients announced in early October. While the program is open to all Nebraska schools, it is especially focused on expanding opportunities for students in rural schools. The NU High School's full catalog of more than 100 core, elective and Advanced Placement courses will be made available.

Milliken said he hopes the scholarships will provide the catalyst for more discussions between the university and school administrators about the needs of Nebraska schools and how online education might meet those needs. In turn, those discussions should yield valuable insight for the university, schools and policymakers, Milliken said.

"The first phase of the Nebraska Virtual Scholars program was a tremendous success, providing opportunities for talented students across the state to enroll in courses that otherwise would not have been available to them," Milliken said. "With this next round of the Virtual Scholars program, we will expand access to education to even more students, working with schools to better prepare them to succeed in college and beyond. The entire state will benefit when our students are more successful."

Gov. Dave Heineman, who chairs the Nebraska P-16 Initiative, said: "Education is the great equalizer and that's why it's important for all Nebraska students to have access to a quality, rigorous high school curriculum so that they are prepared to be successful. Establishing a statewide Nebraska Virtual School for our young people and the University of Nebraska's Virtual Scholars program are important steps forward. I hope students and schools will take advantage of this opportunity."

Sen. Kate Sullivan of Cedar Rapids, chair of the Legislature's Education Committee and a co-chair of the P-16 Initiative, said: "The Virtual Scholars program is an excellent fit with the mission of our state's P-16 Initiative to increase student success in Nebraska. This is a great opportunity for Nebraska schools and I applaud the University of Nebraska for its commitment to expanding access to education to more students across the state, particularly in rural Nebraska. On behalf of the Education Committee and full Legislature, I look forward to learning more about the unique challenges facing rural Nebraska and discussing how we can work together to solve them."

In the first round of the Virtual Scholars program, 60 high school students around the state got the opportunity to take online courses for free – including, for example, a student in Dixon County who took Advanced Placement calculus, which his school didn't offer; a student in Wheeler County who hopes to start his own business someday and was able to take a business communications course; and a student in Lancaster County who wanted to take French but whose small school offered only Spanish. Many of the applications sought scholarships for STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) courses, confirming that there is a high demand across the state for more programs in these critical areas.

As a result of that initial round of scholarships, the online high school developed a number of new offerings, including career education courses focused on the STEM areas, math placement tests and several science courses.

"Now we have an opportunity to build on the initial success of Nebraska Virtual Scholars by further updating our course program based on what educators tell us they need," said Barbara Wolf Shousha, director of the NU High School. "I'm thrilled to be able to leverage the good work of Nebraska schools to make quality online education available to more students. It's my hope that the Virtual Scholars program will make more Nebraskans aware of the exciting opportunities available to them through online learning."

Currently the NU High School serves more than 2,400 students, 250 of whom are from Nebraska. Scholarships provided through the Virtual Scholars program will cover tuition, fees and course materials. The standard cost for Nebraska residents for University of Nebraska High School courses is $194 per one-semester course.
